TWO SITES EYED FOR LIBRARY

Agree on Pact with Park Manor Developer

After more than two years of work, an agreement between developer Gerald Wallach and the village of Arlington Heights was approved by the village board Monday to allow development of a substantial portion of Park Manor subdivision.

Approval was granted subject to execution of the lengthy document by the developer, but this action seemed assured since the final draft was constructed jointly by Wallach's attorneys and Village Atty. Jack Siegel.

Wallach plans development of both single-family residences and apartments in the subdivision, which lies between Dryden Place and Arthur Avenue south of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks.

INCLUDED in the agreement is a provision that a large section of land along Arthur Avenue and Davis Street now zoned for commercial use will be rezoned for apartments, but will be held from development for two years while efforts are made to market it for its originally contemplated commercial purpose.

The entire area is to revert to its original B-4 zoning if 50 per cent or more is sold for such commercial development during the two years.

Another large section of land, primarily along McKinley Avenue, has been zoned for apartment development since an area redevelopment plan was adopted two years ago, and the agreement provides that it will remain under 1962 zoning standards which allow higher density of use than those of today.

Also, the agreement spells out a requirement of 1962 board policy that the apartments be built with at least two one-bedroom units for every two-bedroom unit, and no units having more than two bedrooms.

The area which is to be zoned for apartments with a two-year development delay will be controlled by present R-5 multiple family standards.

TO ALLOW an immediate start on development, the board agreed to issuance of six single-family building permits and one apartment building permit before a planned development for the area is completed. The initial buildings would serve as models.

The provisions for apartment zoning and development standards represent a compromise between the village and the developer which was ironed out at a Christmas Eve meeting of a special board committee with Wallach and his attorneys, Al Druth and Gerald Chapman.

Also in the agreement is a provision that Wallach will pay $140,000 toward special assessment paving improvements in the area, and contract privately for sanitary sewer and water services to his properties.

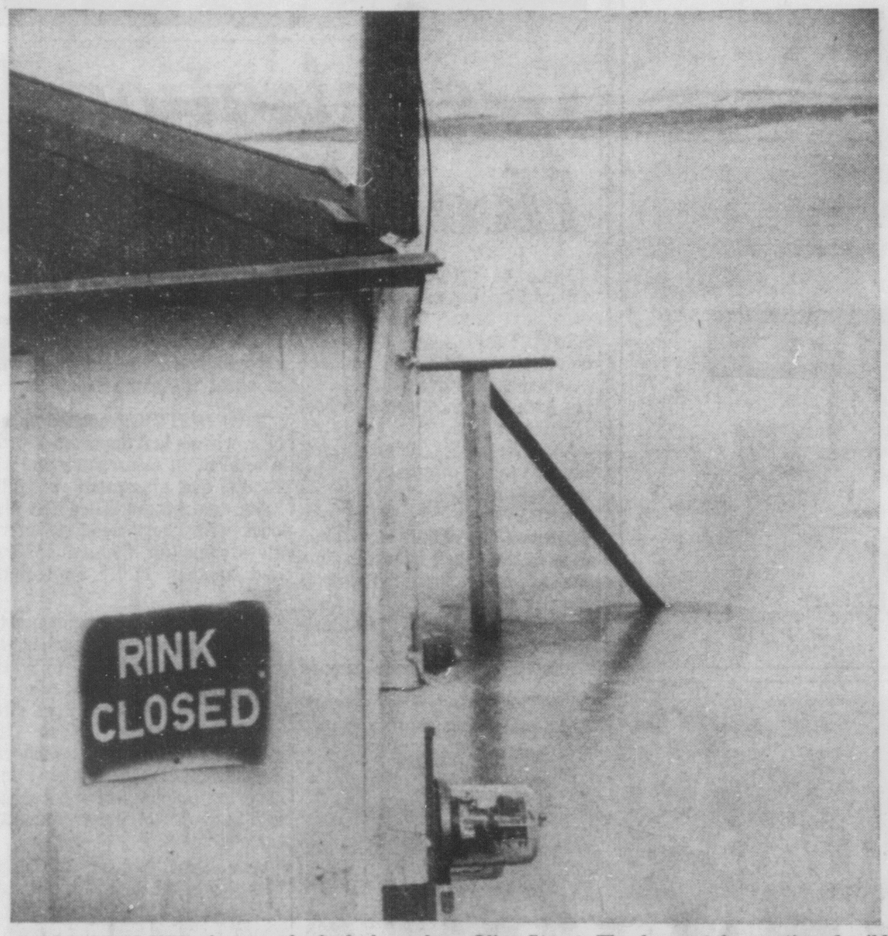
He had agreed to use the same contractor to perform the sewer and water work who is making special assessment installations in the remainder of the area; but the sole wrinkle which remained in an otherwise smooth agreement after Monday's meeting was who would pay costs charged by the contractor for delayed work resulting from the long agreement negotiations.

AS THE agreement was approved by the village board, Wallach will have to foot the entire $800 bill, but if the developer refuses to sign it will have to go back before the village officials.

Another provision of the long document is that Wallach will sell five lots to the Arlington Heights Park District for development into a small neighborhood park. The lots are to be sold at their cost of acquisition, plus taxes and other minor charges involved in the purchase.

But this purchase is dependent upon success of the park district's Jan. 30 referendum, which includes an amount for Wallach's property and several adjoining lots to complete the site.

At present, the Park Manor subdivision is only approximately 12 per cent developed, though it is one of the oldest in the village. Development was stalled by a lack of improvements, but they are now being accomplished either by special assessment or private contract.



A SAD SIGN FOR skaters who had planned to enter the Arlington Heights Rotary Ice Karnival this weekend, "Rink Closed" has been up all week at the retention basin skating rink at the corner of Douglas Avenue and Olive Street. The forecast for continued mild weather prompted park district officials to reschedule the competition for Jan. 16 — and then only tentatively.

Plan Board Study Asked

Two possible sites for a new or greatly expanded Arlington Heights public library were revealed Monday in a resolution asking the village board to designate them for possible library use on the master plan.

The sites are the entire block now partially occupied by the library, bounded by Miner, Wing, Belmont and Pine, and another entire block bounded by Euclid, Fremont, Dunton and Vail.

Reservation of the sites would not assure that either one of them would be acquired, but the designation would prevent resubdivision of the land for something other than its present use for at least a year following board action.

The village board acted Monday to begin the reservation process by referring the library board's request to the plan commission for study. The request, with a recommendation from the plan commission, would then come back before the village trustees for a public hearing.

But at Monday's meeting Trustee Jack Walsh said he felt there had not been enough discussion given to the site selection, and added that a special site selection committee of which he is a member had met only once, late on a Sunday night when he was unable to attend.

OTHER members of the site selection committee include three members and the president of the library board, and plan commission chairman Harold Carlson.

Establishment of the special group had been recommended by Village Pres. John G. Woods in a joint meeting of village and library officials designed to supply pointers on the proper road toward a planned library construction referendum.

More than a year ago the library board began planning for a library construction program, which members originally thought could be begun by a referendum sometime near the end of 1964.

But now Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson, president of the library board, has indicated a tentative referendum date would be in May at the earliest.

SHE SAID "We are trying to proceed as cautiously as we can," and explained that the board has not decided yet whether plans will involve expansion of the present building or construction of a new one and sale of the old.

Architects have been retained for the building program, and Mrs. Hendrickson said they were at work — but not on specifics yet.

She also indicated that the board did not want to set a date in conflict with any other area referenda, of which three are at least tentatively set for January, February and March, or with local elections coming in April.

Village board members indicated Monday, though, that work even on site selection was far from completed, and that a date for voting on the proposed new library might be even farther off.

PRES. WOODS clarified that at any point before or during the public hearing on land reservation, sites could be either added or deleted from the list.

He said referral to the plan commission for study could allow more time for the special site selection committee to work on other possible alternates.

Preference has been expressed by all officials for a site near the center of the village, but recommendations by a professional library consultant service have indicated the new library should be larger in square foot area than the recently constructed municipal building.

Both proposed sites are now residentially developed.

Village Set to Go On Special Census

More than six months after it was anticipated, a special census in the Village of Arlington Heights is to get under way Jan. 18.

The count, which is supervised at village request by the United States Department of Commerce, will serve primarily to increase Arlington's share of state motor fuel tax funds which are doled out to municipalities at the rate of $5 per resident.

Plans for the census had originally been made early in 1964, but it was delayed pending annexation of the Arlington Gardens subdivision which added more than 1,000 to the village's population.

DURING THE summer, a suit developed over the validity of that annexation, and another large annexation at the south end of the village had to be resubmitted with minor variations to assure legality.

Amendment of village maps showing the new boundaries was completed last fall, but submission of an application for the census and processing by the Department of Commerce further delayed the execution.

The process will begin at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 18 with interviewing of applicants for door-to-door enumeration work. Martin W. Bauer, census supervisor for the commerce department, is to conduct the interviews.

ABOUT 65 applicants are wanted, according to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. Those interested are asked to contact Kent Bristol, administrative assistant, for proper forms.

The actual counting is expected to take about three weeks from the beginning of interviews. Those selected are to work full-time until the task is completed, at a pay rate of 6 cents per properly recorded name.

Hanson said he expects the village population will be determined to be more than 40,000. An approximate count of Expansion is kept by multiplying new water meter connections by the approximate family size in the village.

Palatine Woman Eyes $900 Prize

"Oh, come now, let them win next week when the prize goes back down to $300.

Thus spoke Mrs. Mary Hayes, 333 Pleasant Hill, Palatine, as she brought in a winning pink Bingo card in hopes of pocketing all $900 being given away this week, through Jan. 9.

Everyone securing pink Newspaper Bingo cards this week can play it against the Jan. 3 Sunday Suburbanite, and again in the Jan. 7 Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. All winning pink cards that are brought in to the Paddock office by 9 a.m. Monday morning, Jan. 11, will share the $900.

Vote on Park Sites Postponed to Jan. 30

A referendum in the Arlington Heights Park District for acquisition of several park sites was postponed until Jan. 30 last week by park board action.

The amount of bonding authorization to be requested in the vote was also reduced from $790,000 to $465,000 after it became apparent Dec. 28 that the federal government has other plans for 100 acres of the Arlington Heights Nike site which the park district had expected to purchase.

The land, south of Central Road near Wilke Road, was to have been developed as an 18-hole golf course, providing the vote originally scheduled for Jan. 16 had been successful and the government had declared the area surplus as anticipated.

POSTPONEMENT of the vote was necessary after the park board met in special session Dec. 30 and determined that the estimated $325,000 purchase price for that property should be excluded. A resolution establishing the new date and amount was passed by the board Tuesday, and legal notice on the issue must be published at least 10 days before the date.

Park board president E. E. Ormsbee expressed his "surprise and deep disappointment" at the Dec. 29 meeting over the decision that the Nike base had been declared top priority for future missile requirements.

The board decided, though, that all efforts to have the land declared surplus would be continued; and if that action should be taken at any time in the future, an acquisition referendum would be set up then.

In changing the referendum amount, board member Charles Cronin said, the board did not indicate any diminished interest in the golf course project.

But, even though bonds for the purchase would not have had to be sold after they were authorized, board members felt the extra amount would prompt at least some negative voting if it were not set for certain use.

THE $465,000 which remains in the rescheduled bond vote is the total estimated cost to the district of seven sites--three for community parks and four for neighborhood parks.

Not all of this authorized amount will be issued either, according to Park Supt. Thomas Thornton, if the referendum is successful and the district is, in turn, successful in its application for 30 per cent federal funds.

If this application, now under preparation, is successful, the amount of bonds actually issued would be about $350,000.

Burglars Hit VFW Clubhouse

Burglars netted approximately $1,000 in cash and an electric typewriter overnight Friday from the Arlington Heights VFW clubhouse, 811 N. Yale Ave.

A broken window was discovered in routine police patrol at 6:45 a.m. Saturday, and investigation revealed that either two or three men had gained entry and ransacked the building.

Reported missing were $600 in cash from vending machines, the typewriter, and about $400 in rolled change.

Police found mud tracked from the broken basement window throughout the building.

Beacham Won't Run, White Is Candidate

The 1965 municipal election picture in Arlington Heights was thrown further open this week with the announcement by a third incumbent trustee, Bud Beacham, that he will not be a candidate.

The present village clerk, Alberta Foerster, has also notified the village's Caucus candidate selection committee that she will not be seeking re-election.

BUT TRUSTEE John White, who has served six months in an appointive position on the board, has submitted a questionnaire for the committee's consideration, it was revealed this week by Henry Warga, a member of the selection group who has been filling in for chairman Andrew Lofquist.

Warga has been accepting questionnaires and correspondence for the chairman, who has been in California for the past two weeks and is to return this weekend in time for the beginning of candidate interviews.

Trustee Bud Beacham, who was elected in 1963 to serve a two-year term on the board, announced in a letter to Lofquist dated Dec. 31 that he "must reluctantly decline the invitation of the Arlington Heights Caucus Committee" to have his name placed in consideration for nomination for a second term.

THE SELECTION committee has received a similar letter from Trustee William J. Moore, but has received no communication from Trustee Norval Stephens, who has informally indicated he does not intend to become a candidate.

Both Moore and Stephens were elected on the Caucus slate in 1961.

Trustee White joins Village Pres. John G. Woods on the list of incumbents who have indicated a desire to serve a second term, though White's candidacy for election on the Caucus ticket would actually be his first.

Because of the resignation of Eugene F. Schlickman from the village board in May of 1964, and a requirement that all appointments to fill such vacancies run only until the next municipal election, four trustees are to be elected this year instead of the usual three.

THE CAUCUS selection committee is charged with coming up with recommendations of two candidates for each open position. Voters within the village are then invited to a general Caucus meeting to select a slate from these recommended persons or from others nominated at that meeting.

Warga said that, other than incumbents, six persons have submitted questionnaires expressing interest in village office. All of these have been for the position of trustee.

He said, though, that he expects many more questionnaires to come in now that the holidays are over, and expects at least a few more to come in before interviewing begins next week.

WARGA SAID the candidate selection committee has already held four or five meetings, but the majority of work lies ahead before the next general Caucus meeting, for which only a general February date has been set.

Changes Asked in Developments Law

Overall revisions of the Arlington Heights ordinance covering planned developments was put on the agenda Monday by the village board.

Trustee Norval Stephens, in proposing the revisions, called for one immediate change which would send all plans first to the building commissioner and then to the plan commission.

Now, the building commissioner does not see plans for the structures in such a development until the plan commission and village board have approved it.

STEPHENS said many times when buildings are unsuitable or require minor changes to meet village codes, the information prior to approval of a project layout could be valuable.

He also asked that the remainder of the planned development ordinance, be reviewed and modernized.

But Village Atty. Jack Siegel advised that any revisions in the zoning ordinance would require a public hearing before the plan commission, and asked if the specific request could not be covered at the same time as the overall revision.

He estimated that it would take only a few weeks to prepare ordinance revisions for the hearing, and added, "I think I know where the bugs are."

AS A RESULT, the board directed Siegel to submit proposed amendments for consideration as soon as possible, including but not limited to Stephens' suggested change.

Shoot Out Windows

Arlington Heights police are seeking vandals who, in apparently connected incidents, smashed windows in at least 11 cars and two homes in the village Saturday and Sunday nights.

In most of the instances, spread in several areas through the village, damage was apparently caused by a high-powered B-B gun. In many cases, more than one window of an auto had been broken out.

POLICE BEGAN receiving reports near midnight Friday, and calls kept coming in through the day Sunday as residents discovered the damage.

Plans for 4 Schools On Agenda

Preliminary floor plans for additions to four Arlington Heights elementary schools will be discussed at a regular District 25 School Board meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the administration wing at South Junior High School.

The additions are planned as part of the first phase of a $2½-million construction program which will be considered in a bond referendum Feb. 20.

THE SCHOOLS which are to be expanded in the first phase are Thomas Junior High, Olive, Patton and Dunton. Also included will be construction of a new school in Ivy Hill subdivision, but Supt. Ralph Clabaugh said a preliminary plan for that building will not be ready by Monday.

Other business to come before the board includes a preliminary estimate of receipts and expenditures for both the general building fund and the educational fund for the district's 1965-66 operation.

This estimate is the first step toward formulation of a budget for both funds.

Organization Leaders Hear Schools' Needs

Some 40 presidents of local community organizations gathered at Miner Junior High School Tuesday for a "school cafeteria supper" and to hear detailed plans for a school building referendum by the school District 25 Feb. 20.

Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh, acting as master of ceremonies for the affair, introduced School Board Pres. Victor Myer, who described the step-by-step planning of the board from the time the need for new building is seen to the time when students first take seats in the new classrooms.

According to the school board president, the growth in student population has ranged between 600 and 800 annually in recent years. Housing construction figures indicate continued growth at about the same rate.

THE DISTRICT opened three new schools last September with a total of 38 classrooms and all except one classroom is full. Myer told his audience the district will likely need 40 more classrooms for September 1966 and another 18 by September 1967.

Darrell Elder, a language arts and social studies teacher at Thomas Junior High, followed Myer on the program. He explained the importance of new schools in keeping class size down, attracting good teachers, keeping equipment modern, and assuring teachers of the continued suppoort of the community for education.

Asst. Supt. Robert P. Campbell concluded the program with a series of projections which showed anticipated student growth and school building needs for the next three years and for the time the district will be completely built up.

Campbell reaffirmed Myer's statement that the district will need 58 new classes in the next three years.

He also said that if present growth continues, the enrollment will grow from its present 7,770 to approximately 9,100 by 1967-68 and 10,235 by 1970-71. According to figures presented, the district could be nearly built up by that time.

the building program by that proposed for the Feb. 20 referendum would add eight rooms to both the Olive and Patton Schools, six rooms to Dryden and Greenbrier, and five at Dunton. All of these buildings would then house all children in grades kindergarten through fifth grade in their attendance area.

Also included for elementary classes is a new seven-room building in the Ivy Hill subdivision in the northeast part of the district. This building will be expanded to 18 classrooms as the area is developed.

To provide for growth in the junior high schools, space for six more classes will be added to South Junior High and for 12 more at Thomas Junior High.

TOTAL COST of the program was estimated to be $2,460,000. According to Campbell, the sale of bonds would be scheduled so that the total tax rate for bonds and interest would rise 6.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation when the first bonds are sold in 1965, but would probably decrease to the 1961 and 1962 level the following year. This is possible because the district is paying off bonds and gaining in assessed valuation annually.

Organizations seeking a program of information on the referendum, are directed to the office of the superintendent, CL 3-6100. (A

Crime Commission Head Speaks Friday

"Has the crime syndicate infiltrated into our local area? If so, what effect does it have on the individual citizen? What can be done to combat the syndicate menace?"

These are three basic questions to be dealt with by Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) in a public address and discussion period at the First Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

THE MEETING is sponsored by several local churches whose members have indicated a concern for the "public apathy toward the danger posed by organized crime in greater Chicago."

Peterson has a record of service with law enforcement agencies since his graduation from Northwestern University Law School in 1930. His career has included 12 years of service in various capacities with the FBI.

The headline speaker has written several books and booklets on various aspects of crime and law enforcement, and has received special recognition from many universities, colleges and civic organizations for his work in the field of criminal law.

PETERSON assumed the duties of operating director of the Chicago Crime commission April 1, 1942. The commission is a non-partisan volunteer citizens' organization founded in 1919 to fight crime in Chicago and Cook County.

The basic purpose of the commission is to act as an independent investigative "watchdog" representative of the public interest. It is composed of business, professional and civic leaders of the Chicago metropolitan area, and is supported financially by contributions from corporations, foundations, private individuals, and its members. Ice Meet Delayed By Warm Weather

The seventh annual Arlington Heights Rotary Ice Karnival has been tentatively rescheduled for Jan. 16 because of mild weather conditions this week and long-range forecasts for continuing warm temperatures this weekend.

The Karnival, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Rotary Club and conducted by the park district, was to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 9, at the district's retention basin skating pond on the corner of Olive Street and Douglas Avenue.

If ice conditions are suitable Jan. 16, the location and starting time of competition for boys and girls of all ages will remain the same. Rotarians will award trophies and ribbons to winners of all events.

ANY YOUNGSTER in Arlington Heights may enter by registering at any of the park district's skating rinks or by calling the district office, CL 3-0620. Late registrants may enter at 9 a.m. on the day of the races at the retention basin rink.

Events in the Karnival include: Midget boys and girls — 110 yard races for skaters 9 years and younger; intermediate boys and girls — 220 yards for ages 10-12; junior boys and girls — 440 yards for 13 and 14-year-olds; senior boys and girls — 880 yards for skaters 15 and over.

There will also be open competition in figure skating for boys or girls in any age classification. (A

Trip-Tips

About six years ago I visited Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, for the express purpose of filming two television travel shows for WBKB. One covered the city as a place to retire —the other as a vacation spot.

During my stay I was taken by police Wayne Griffin boat to view Port Everglades, the port facility of this Venice of America. The Santa Paula of the Grace Line was in for a short call on her way back from the Caribbean. We left the officers, had a light breakfast and toured the ship.

Ft. Lauderdale's Chamber of Commerce was starting then to build this port as a major entity of the sun-filled city and they have succeeded!

Today Port Everglades is a winter "home" port for several luxury liners which sail from there on cruises of from 7 to 21 days' duration to the many exotic islands and South America.

If there is a sales pitch involved it must be that sailing from Port Everglades assures a cruise passenger of being in tropical waters all the way and from January through April this is important.

Among the ships now sailing from Port Everglades are the 30,000 ton Hanseatic of Home Lines, the Franca C of Costa Lines, the Santa Paula and Santa Rosa of Grace Lines and the Carmania of Cunard Lines. P & O Orient Lines Round the World cruises also call here.

Friendship Topic: Latin Loan Co-ops

It is a giant economic step from barter and exchange in an open-air Inca Indian marketplace to an American type loan company, but this very thing is occurring.

People without money, exchanging a small pile of dried potatoes for a ceramic bowl, may suddenly find in their village a modern co-operative loan company called "Amigos" in which these same Incas can become stockholders.

Founded in New York by American business men, these "Amigos" cooperative loan companies are gaining fast acceptance and proving successful in raising economic and material standards for the poor of South America on a do-it-yourself, people-to-people basis.

PAUL VUILLE, world-wide treasurer of the loan organization, will tell its story to the citizens of Arlington Heights who in their work with Comas, Peru, have also been operating on a people-to-people basis.

Vuille will be the featured speaker at the regular meeting of the Inter-American Friendship Program, Arlington Heights —Comas, Peru, to be held at 8 p.m. Jan. 11 at Arlington High School, Room 108.

Officers have urged all residents to attend this meeting to study and learn about "Amigos," to question the speaker and to assist the steering committee and members in their consideration of any possible participation by Arlington Heights in the work. (A

Townsfolk Brighten Holiday For 5 Orphaned Children

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., JAN. 7, 1965

Because of the concern of several clubs and individuals, the five Bookless children of Mount Prospect were remembered with gifts at Christmas, though their holiday was saddened by the death of their mother a few days earlier.

Left fatherless when their father was killed in an auto accident four years ago, the Bookless children experienced added hardship this fall when their mother had to be hospitalized. Neighbors and residents who heard of their plight helped out by giving food and clothing.

A PLEA FOR help to make their Christmas happy was heeded by a number of persons and several club groups who gave both gifts and cash. Following their mother's death Dec. 20, the children went to Zanesville, Ohio, to spend Christmas with relatives. Before departing with their grandfather, Nick Kolometz, on Dec. 22, they were given $325 which had been donated to help provide them a happy holiday.

The three younger children will remain in Ohio to make their homes with relatives. Bruce, 12, will live with his mother's brother, Ray Kolometz and Lori, 5, and Lance, 6, will live with her other brother, Ted.

The older children, George, 19, and Bonnie have returned to live with friends in Mount Prospect. Bonnie will finish her senior year at Prospect High, and George is employed at Littelfuse, Inc., Des Plaines.

The children expressed their thanks to all who helped them in time of need, especially for what was done at Christmas.

MEMBERS of the VFW post in Glenview, to which Mr. and Mrs. Bookless belonged, and Mrs. Pat Sramek, a neighbor, were instrumental in making the family's need known and in collecting donations.

Those who contributed included Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilder, 406 Walnut; Mrs. M. Jones, 1440 Lincoln; Bert Meyer, 700 Windsor, and Dr. A. T. Perez, 111 W. Prospect, all of Mount Prospect; Rev. Brown, St. Simon's Church, Arlington Heights; Women's VFW Welfare, Mount Prospect; Women's VFW, Des Plaines; St. Emily Altar and Rosary Society, Mount Prospect; American Legion Auxiliary 525, Mount Prospect; Riverhurst Home and Garden Club, Mount Prospect; Junior Woman's Club, Mount Prospect; Knights of Columbus, Chicago, and Mrs. F. A message from George Harris, Your Prescription Pharmacist

ARE YOU PAYING TOO MUCH INCOME TAX?
If you are under 65 you are legally permitted to deduct the cost of all prescriptions and certain medical supplies and medicines after subtracting from their costs 1% of your adjusted gross income. You are also able to deduct the cost of all fees for physicians, dentists, hospitals, health and accident insurance premiums after subtracting from their costs 3% of your adjusted gross income.

IF YOU ARE MORE THAN 65 YEARS OLD.
You can legally deduct everything mentioned above in full without any reduction.

HERE ARE SOME DEDUCTIBLE ITEMS.
Everything prescribed or advised by a physician or dentist is deductible. Also, every home remedy you buy for relieving pain or discomfort, whether for internal or external use is allowable. But, remember that vitamins or tonics are only deductible when you are advised by your physician or dentist to take them.

MEDICAL SUPPLIES ARE DEDUCTIBLE.
They include such products as heating pads, elastic stockings, vaporizers, surgical supports, insulin equipment, first aid supplies, atomizers, orthopedic braces and wheelchairs.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO KEEP RECORDS.
It may be more profitable to take your separate allowable deductions than the general deduction which takes in everything.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO HELP.
We can give you receipted itemized bills for everything we supply. All our charge accounts get them each month. We are not accountants, but we can tell you what is deductible.

TO START THE YEAR RIGHT

Just as soon as you can, do us both a favor by bringing in the rolls of film you shot over the holidays. Half-finished rolls are no fun in your camera; you enjoy your pictures more when you see them closer to the time you snapped them. We can do the best possible job of finishing your pictures when we get them soon after exposure . . . especially if they're in color.

While we're on the subject of finishing your pictures, let me remind you that holiday snapshots are likely to include several that your friends and relatives would like. Enlarged, they make wonderful gifts. With our special equipment, we can color enlargements at very reasonable cost. An 8"x10" enlargement, ready for framing, costs only $1.25 in black and white.

If you shoot color slides on 35mm film or with any of the KODAK INSTAMATIC Cameras, don't forget that COLOR PRINTS can be made from KODACHROME OR EKTACHROME slides to double your picture enjoyment.

One final suggestion. In case you aren't partial to enlargements as gifts for friends and relatives, how about getting several sets of duplicate slides or duplicate prints of your favorite holiday pictures . . . especially those that include people who shared your holiday fun.

Remember now . . . empty your camera and bring us your exposed film.

Greetings, Parties, Resolutions Welcome '65

Greetings for a Happy New Year, exchanged with relatives and friends among peoples throughout the entire world accompany the arrival of 1965. If one permits a moment of fantasy, it is easy to imagine the hastily whispered instructions of Father Time to the Baby New Year in the last few seconds of New Year's Eve. Then, as horns blow, and confetti and streamers float through the air, the Baby New Year steps forward into the spotlight, and 1964 moves back to assume its place in history.

New Year's resolutions have been made by persons from one end of the continent to the other. Many of them are already forgotten, but the memory of the holiday season just past will live on. The guests, the parties, and the joy of being with friends will bring pleasure as we remember.

SOME SPENT Christmas and the early days of the New Year in other states. The Earl Schmidt family, 724 S. Chestnut, spent the Christmas holiday in Texas. Traveling to Dallas, Ft. Worth, Corsicana and Waco, they visited with friends and relatives. In Waco, the Schmidts spent some time with Mrs. Lola Beckham, Mrs. Schmidt's mother.

Also present were Mrs. Schmidt's brother H. C. Beckham, from Colorado, and Mr. Schmidt's brother, Harvey Schmidt, whose home is in Kentucky. The visit to Texas was the first in nine years for the Schmidts. They returned to Illinois Dec. 30.

The Chet Smith family, 1304 E. Eastman, left Arlington Heights Dec. 23 for a holiday trip to Kansas City, Kan. where they visited their parents, the Charles Smiths and the senior Chet Smiths. The Smith family returned Dec. 28. Chet was recently awarded the Great Lakes Travelers Club Award, a trophy given to the salesman of the year in the stationery and office supplies industry. He is the first recipient of the award, which is to be presented annually hereafter.

Also spending Christmas away were the Alan McLaughlin family, 15 N. Gibbons, who enjoyed four days in the home of Mrs. McLaughlin's parents, the C. H. Hocks of near Bowling Green, Ohio. There Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin also saw the latter's three brothers and their families.

A belated Christmas celebration was combined with New Year's festivities by Mr. and Mrs. William G. Grashorn and family, 817 S. Walnut. The Grashorns traveled to the home of Mrs. Grashorn's mother, Mrs. Lester Grashorn, of Sheboygan, Wis., on Jan. 1 for a 2-day visit.

MR. AND MRS. Barker Davis and daughter, Joan, 318 Drury, spent the holiday season in the Booneville, Mo. home of Mrs. Davis' parents, Judge and Mrs. Thomas G. Wollsey. The occasion was particularly significant for Joan, as it was the first time in her 11 years that her family had been able to spend Christmas in Missouri with her grandparents, aunts and uncles.

Home for the Christmas vacation was Craig Rutledge, son of the Horace M. Rutledges, 619 W. Campbell. He arrived Dec. 23, and returned to Marysville, Calif., Dec. 27. Craig is a student at Yuva College in Marysville.

Mrs. Carson Scoggins, 717 S. Walnut, returned to Arlington Heights Dec. 19 from the St. Johns, Mich., home of her mother, Mrs. Albert Smothers. Mrs. Smothers accompanied her daughter for a visit to the Scoggins home.

The James Yates family, 903 N. Vail, spent a 4-day weekend in the home of Mrs Yates' mother, Mrs. George Zachariasen of Elm Grove, Wis., at Christmas. The Yates' son, Douglas, was home for the holiday from Ft. Sill, Okla. Their daughter, Susan, a student at the University of Wisconsin, and son, Bruce, who attends the University of Illinois, also spent the holiday vacation with their parents.

THE GEORGE Reuhls and son, Doug, 106 S. Forrest, and the Frank Regulas and son, Jim, saw the New Year in at the Wagon Wheel at Rockton. Leaving on New Year's Eve for four days of fun and relaxation, the Reuhls and the Regulas found time to swim, ice skate and bowl. To complete the trip, they were entertained by the Inkspots and a semi-professional hockey game.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hansen, 730 S. Mitchell, spent Christmas vacation in the home of his parents. He returned to Oskaloosa, Iowa, where he attends William Penn College, on Jan. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bieser, 815 W. George, recently hosted a farewell dinner party for Wayne Hall of Country Club Hills, Ill. Sixteen guests were present at the 7 p.m. party to honor Mr. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McLeod and family, 309 S. Burton, spent the Christmas season in Tallahassee, Fla., where they visited their parents. They returned to Arlington Heights Jan. 3 after a 2-week vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Terrell Jr., 814 S. Fernandez, entertained the latter's parents, the Frank Kruses of Vinton, Iowa, at Christmas. The Kruses spent 10 days in the Terrell home before returning to Iowa.

HOME FOR the holidays were Claudia and Jim Hansen, children of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Hansen, 1517 W. Fremont. Miss Hansen, a student at Tulsa University, and her brother, who attends medical school at Northwestern University, returned to their studies Jan. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pelland, 45 S. Salem, had the Bruce Whitings of Taylorville, Ill., as holiday houseguests. Mr. and Mrs. Whiting are former residents of Arlington Heights.

On New Year's Eve, the Pellands gave a party for 17 guests. New Year's day guests in the Pelland home were the Carl Crumrines from Pennsburg, Pa.

A round-robin potluck dinner was recently held in the homes of the James Biesers, 815 W. George. The Walter Monscheins, 714 S. Kaspar, and Joseph Kaskies, 226 Kennicott. Those present were the 14 members of the bridge club to which the three couples belong.

Jack Crump, 1211 N. Chestnut, returned recently from a 2-week business trip to Europe. Visiting in the Netherlands, Finland, Sweden, and Germany, he was able to combine business with a bit of sightseeing.

THE ROBERT Isaacsons, 12 N. Kaspar, were dinner guests at the Robert Cording home at 211 S. Reuter Dr., on New Year's Eve. The dinner is a custom between the two families, and is held by one of the couples each year. Christmas Eve guests in the Isaacson home were Mrs. Isaacson's parents, the Edward Kellers of Chicago.

Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Letzel, 1237 N. Chestnut, celebrated his seventh birthday at a party Dec. 30. Four of Scott's friends from the first grade, and his brother, Jim, who was 9 Dec. 8, were present at an afternoon lunch honoring Scott. Games and decorations followed an Indian theme, and the boys wore headbands for the afternoon's gaiety. A birthday cake decorated with Indians completed the mood of the occasion.

Christmas guests in the Letzel home were Mr. Letzel's sister and family, the Frank Knights of Toledo. The Knights spent six days in the Letzel home and 4-year-old Keven confided to Mrs. Letzel that he was surprised that Santa Claus was able to find him in Illinois.

Lynn, daughter of the Kenneth Petersons, 702 S. Highland, was guest of honor at a surprise 15th birthday party given by Mrs. Kenneth Bruner and her daughter, Jane, 615 S. Evergreen, the evening of Dec. 28. Ten friends were present to surprise Lynn and to enjoy the home baked, hand-decorated, birthday cake.

On her birthday, Dec. 29, Lynn celebrated by taking two friends out for lunch and bowling.

An open house was held Dec. 20 by the James Biesers, 815 W. George. Between 3 and 6 p.m., 20 guests were present.

HOLIDAY VISITORS in the Robert Read home at 15 S. Phelps, were the Reads' son and daughter-in-law, the William Reads. After spending two weeks in Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Read returned to their home in Ft. Collins, Colo., where Mr. Read has been attending Colorado State University.

The junior Sam Clarks, 608 S. Walnut, entertained Mrs. Clark's parents, the C. E. Bobenmeyers of Peoria, for a week at Christmas. The Bobenmeyers returned to Peoria Dec. 28, taking the Clark children with them for a visit. They returned to Arlington with their grandchildren Jan. 3, and planned to spend a few more days in the Clark home.

Virginia Bliss, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bliss, 1307 E. Eastman, spent the Christmas vacation in the home of her parents. Miss Bliss is in her junior year at Knox College in Galesburg, Ill.

A 7:30 p.m. dinner for 12 guests was given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wist, 837 S. Vail, on Dec. 31. Following the dinner, a New Year's Eve party was held. During the holidays the Wists entertained the family of Mr. Wist's brother, E. C. Wist of Dayton, Ohio.

Susan, daughter of the Wists, spent the Christmas vacation in her parents' home. Dec. 31, her friend, John Kuhn, arrived to spend the weekend with the Wists. Both are students at Bradley University in Peoria.

THE GEORGE Nicklaus, 631 S. Ridge, entertained 24 guests in their home at a champagne party on New Year's Eve. The Nicklaus' party was given prior to a New Year's Eve party in Rolling Green, which all attended.

Christmas guests in the Edwin Bublitz home, 108 S. Evergreen, were their parents, Mrs. Minna Bublitz, and the Arthur Papes of Palatine. New Year's day guests in the Bublitz home were the parents, and Mr. Bublitz's sister and family, the Richard Niemeyers.

Marilyn Smith, daughter of the James A. Smiths, 909 S. Dunton, arrived in Arlington Heights, where she will make her home with her parents.

The Francis McDonalds, 215 W. Orchard, entertained at a small dinner party in their home Sunday at 2 p.m. Those who attended the party, which was in celebration of the New Year, were the McDonalds' daughter and family, the Joseph Corrados, 906 N. Mitchell, their son, Doug, Allen Massie of Mount Prospect and the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Skiles of Oak Park.

MRS. ALBERT Williams, 750 N. Pine, was hostess at a 5 to 9 p.m. open house for 30 guests in her home on New Year's Day.

Holiday visitors in the Paul Brna home, 531 S. Ridge, were their daughter, son-in-law, and grandson, the John P. Klinkas of West Bend, Wis., who visited for a week at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beckius, 822 N. Belmont, entertained 14 guests at a New Year's Eve party in their home. The party began with a potluck buffet at 9 p.m., followed by games. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Graves, of Seneca, Ill.

A progressive dinner party was held for the 1100 block of N. Walnut Jan. 2. The party began at 7 p.m. with cocktails in the Ralph Kehe home at 1105 N. Walnut. The 30 party-goers then went to the Paul Gauvreau home, 1130 N. Walnut, where the main course was served. The Samuel Palonzies, 1104 N. Walnut, served dessert in their home, and the Paul Gauvreaus were in charge of the games played at the conclusion of the dinner.

NEIGHBORHOOD parties on the extreme opposite ends of Dunton Street heralded the coming of the new year, welcomed 1965 when it arrived and re-introduced it after Jan. 1 in case anyone missed it the first time around.

A New Year's Eve open house at 1213 N. Dunton afforded many friends a final chance for a social get-together with hosts, the Clarence Loechls. Early next month the Loechl household will be re-arranged in St. Louis, a fact that tinged Thursday night's party with regret.

Several immediate neighbors, who do not plan that New Year's Eve was their last night with the Loechls, stopped only briefly at 1213 N. Dunton en route 1201 N. Dunton where the Henry Taylors were hosts to a party of 14.

Across the street at 1134 N. Dunton several more local couples welcomed the New Year as guests of the Arthur Burmeisters, while across town 1965 received an equally gay reception in the Conrad Hoffman home, 1038 S. Dunton. Co-hosting the Dunton streeet party on the south side were the Hoffmans' next-door neighbors, the Charles Melichars.

The open-door policy hospitably prevailed before New Year's Eve, too, at Sunday and Monday parties in the N. Calvin Huber and Charles Hayden homes, 1021 S. Dunton and 1010 S. Dunton, respectively.

NEIGHBORS post-toasted the New Year Monday evening at a party given by the Delbert Dornans, 1003 S. Dunton. It was a fine "whew, the holidays are over" evening of relaxation, and a final bulwark against the inevitable, imminent mid-winter lull.

Sunday marked the end of holiday visits here of the Carl Mees' daughters, and Monday was too quiet too suddenly at 408 E. Euclid. Here from Dayton, Ohio were the Mees' elder daughter and her husband, the Robert Crevistons, celebrating not only the holidays but the recent conclusion of Creviston's two years in the armed services. Home from the University of Illinois for a 2-week vacation from the books was Miss Betty Mees who also left here Sunday, contributing to Monday's let-down.

A recent Leckband family get-together in New Hork resembled a miniature medical convention when Dr. and Mrs. Norbert Leckband, 302 N. Pine, arrived for a holiday visit at their home of their son and daughter-in-law. Son, Garwood, has a "Dr." in front of his name, as does his wife, and one confused columnist wonders if they are addressed as Dr. and Mrs. Leckband or Dr. and Dr. Leckband. At any rate, all Leckbands addressed themselves to a fine Christmas week together.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pauly, 1305 W. Mulberry, hosted 30 friends and neighbors at an "Irish Coffee" a week ago Sunday, an Irish Coffee being a hospitable way to dispel the winter's chill and warm up for the New Year. If yer not keerful ye come away with an Irish brogue, too.

"BELLE OF the Ball" at the James Dolans' New Year's Eve party in their home at 316 Stratford, was Mrs. Thomas Hoskins of Morton Grove. Mrs. Hoskins, who creates an ensemble for every holiday, wore a gown fashioned into a silver bell piped with red rick rack and a huge red taffeta bow lettered with Happy New Year. Green holly also trimmed the gown and made up her head piece and earrings.

Mrs. Hoskins, who was interviewed on TV last week, recently appeared at the Goodfellow luncheon at the Sheraton wearing her Christmas tree gown of green ostrich feathers with blinking Italian lights and hidden music box. She also wore this gown last week when she entertained paraplegics at Hines Veterans Hospital.

The Harold Kings, 350 Burton, were hosts at dinner Saturday for the Lewis Ebeners of Atlanta, Ga. and the Pete Stanfords of Naperville. Mrs. Ebener, who was Mrs. King's roommate when both attended Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S.C., is the houseguest of the Stanfords.

Also visiting the Kings for Christmas Day, were their daughter and son-in-law, the David Hicks of Chicago.

Mrs. G. Mitchell Kendrick, 921 S. Beverly, entertained at a tea Dec. 29 for her mother, Mrs. Carl C. Anderson, who is here from St. Paul with Mr. Anderson, for a Christmas visit.

The Dwight R. Prughs, 356 Burton, gave an informal open house New Year's Day so that guests, who included business associates and their wives of the Maritz Co., could watch the Rose Bowl Game. Saturday, the Prughs gave a cocktail party for 20 of Mr. Prugh's business clients.

The Donald Strathearns, 720 Bristol, took their son, Don, and daughter, Julie, to California for the Christmas holidays where they spent 10 days vacationing at the Borrego Country Club just south of Palm Springs. Their trip home was made on an astro-jet plane which featured movies while in flight.

Miss Strathearn returned to her classes at DePauw University Sunday.

THE FRED W. Siegels, 316 E. Park, went East to celebrate Christmas with their children. They spent a week with their daughter and son-in-law, the junior Curtis Rogers of New York City, and were joined by their son and his family, the Robert Siegels, who came from Concord, Mass. for a long weekend visit.

The Robert Rowans, 530 S. Belmont, spent four days during the Christmas holidays in Cincinnati, with his brother and family, the Donald Rowans, and his parents, the J. W. Rowans, who came from Daytona Beach, Fla.

Shortly after arriving back in Arlington Heights, Mrs. Rowan's mother, Mrs. W. B. Shriver of Ashland, Ohio, came for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edelblute, 209 S. Pine, spent Christmas in Minneapolis with their son-in-law and daughter, the Bill Bonnichsens and their children, Susan and Jim. They were on hand Saturday to celebrate the first birthday of grandson, Jim.

Returning home Sunday they stopped in Beloit, Wis. to visit their niece, Mrs. Bettine, and bade farewell to her husband, M. Sgt. Donald Bettine, who is leaving for Korea Jan. 18.

The Norman R. Kelloggs, 534 S. Dryden, spent Christmas in Fort Wayne, dividing the holiday with both their parents, the A. W. Kelloggs and the V. Kerrs. The Kelloggs went to Peoria over the weekend to visit friends, the Ron Gorshuths.

THE THEODORE W. Kleisners' daughter, Maryjane, went to Boca Ratan, Fla. during Christmas week. Miss Kleisner, who teaches in Chicago, was accompanied by Miss Nancy Arnold, her college roommate, who is a teacher at Forest View School.

Mrs. Frederick Fraizer, 115 S. Brighton, gave a holiday coffee Dec. 23 for her Brighton place neighbors, and the Stephen Jurcos, 217 S. Windsor, were hosts at a New Year's Eve party for 24 friends.

The Robert Kramers, 1717 Kensington, went to New York City Dec. 24 to spend a week with their daughter, Janet, who is doing graduate work at New York University. They combined a little sightseeing in New York along with their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Anderson, 1105 Mayfair, and daughter, Carla Mae, spent Christmas week with their son and family, the Mel E. Andersons in Atlanta, Ga. A cocktail party was given in their honor, at which they met many friends of their son and daughter-in-law.

Miss Anderson left Dec. 31, flying to Detroit to spend New Year's Eve with friends, and Sunday returned to her classes at the University of Michigan. The Andersons' elder daughter, Nancy Kay, who is currently studying at the Sorbonne University in Paris, sends word that she spent Christmas week in Madrid and New Year's Eve in Monte Carlo.

THE ROBERT E. Mitchells, 330 S. Gibbons, took their four children, Bob, Scott, Jackie and Linda, to Michigan Dec. 26 for a weekend of skiing at Indian Head.

The L. W. Bredehofts, 201 Wilshire, and their three sons, Bill, Carl and Paul are home from a 10-day skiing vacation at Aspen, Colo.

All of the winter sports, including skiing were enjoyed by Miss Joanne Basil during her stay in Nagaunee in the upper peninsula of Michigan with her parents, the Arnice Basils, 427 S. Windsor, over the New Year's weekend. During their stay in Nagaunee, they were houseguests of Mrs. Basil's brothers and their families, the Ronald and Allen Jensens.

The Charles Coynes of Keokuk, Iowa and their three children spent several days in Arlington Heights during Christmas week visiting the latter's sister and family, the Ray Krekels, 214 S. Gibbons.

Mrs. Charles Rickard of Humboldt, Iowa, arrived in Arlington Heights New Year's Day for a visit with her niece and family, the Fay Hamiltons, 127 S. Brighton.

The Wayne Mantheis, 1321 N. Wilke, spent the New Year holiday in Joliet. On New Year's Eve, they attended a house party and then went to the Joliet VFW with 10 other couples. The Mantheis, along with their daughter, Rebecca, spent last weekend in Joliet with Wayne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Manthei.

Last weekend was a busy one for John and Pat Kolle, 1511 Clarendon. On Friday, Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Walt of Arlington Heights, and her brother and family, the Joe Brodnans of Lynwood, spent the day with the Kolles. Saturday guests were John's parents, the Herber Kolles of Rolling Meadows, and Mr. and Mrs. William Wordel of Hackensack, Minn.

On Sunday, John's parents and three sisters, Bobby and Darlene Kolle and Mrs. Robert Forsberg and her husband visited John and Pat.

Dec. 30 was the second birthday of Laura Taillon, daughter of the Art Taillons, 1401 Clarendon. She was honored at a family celebration on Sunday. Present were her grandparents, the Harold Bukers, aunt, uncle and cousins, her parents and her sister, Robin.

FORMER TERRACE residents were guests of the Carl Blooms, 1345 N. Illinois, on Dec. 23. Mr. and Mrs. Normal Hoeffleur and two sons of Detroit were their guests.

Christmas Day the Blooms visited Betty's sister and family, the Paul Hansens in Kenosha.

Jim and Lorrie Balmer, 1216 N. Yale, entertained a number of relatives over the holidays. Jim's sister and family, the Daniel Czmyrids of Cleveland, arrived Dec. 22 for a week's visit. His parents, the L. R. Balmer's of Chicago, spent Christmas weekend with Jim and Lorrie. On Christmas day, Lorrie's parents, the Richard Schreurs of Chicago, joined the group.

On Dec. 26, Robert Wiederhold, son of the Ralph Wiederholds, 1322 N. Chicago, was 7. He celebrated Dec. 28 at a party given by his great aunt, Mrs. Walter Alexander in Sauganash. Robert's parents, his brothers and sister Kim, Kyle, Kevin, Dwight and Lisa, attended the celebration. Also present were his godparents, Lois Ann and Walter Alexander Jr. of Valparaiso, Ind., children of the senior Walter Alexanders. Robert's grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Alexander was also in attendance.

Bruce Leckie, son of the Walter Leckies, 1429 N. Chicago, was 14 Dec. 23 and a party was given for him Dec. 20 at the home of his grandparents, the Stephen Leckies of Evanston. Bruce's parents and his brother, Brian, were also present.

SPENDING NEW YEAR'S in Kansas City were Bob and Joan Cook and children, Bobby and Kathy, 1321 N. Chicago. They visited Bob's parents, the Frank Cooks, from Dec. 29 until Jan. 3. It was the Cooks' first visit back to Kansas City after moving from there last July. They enjoyed visiting many friends and were guests of honor at several parties given for them.

Bob and Brenda Crawford and sons, Bradley, Steven and Kevin, 1309 N. Chicago, spent a week over the holidays in Sikeston, Mo., visiting Brenda's parents, the J. A. Lopps, and Bob's parents, the Guy Linsmans.

Christmas was especially happy for the Crawfords, because Bob learned of his new promotion with Proctor & Gamble, professional services division. He has been made western field manager in charge of 33 central, southern and western states.

Cincinnati was the destination of Bob and Trudy Vonderheide and daughers, Cheryl and Tammy, 1406 N. Chicago, when they left Dec. 31. They visited Bob's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Val Vonderheide in Cincinnati. Bob's brother, Gus and family, live in the same city, as do his sister and family, the Bruce Cruickshanks.

NEW YEAR'S guests of Al and Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive, were Rosemary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jonas of Lake Geneva. Mr. Jonas returned to Lake Geneva Sunday, but Mrs. Jonas is staying this week to help care for her new granddaughter, Nancy Patricia.

Jack and Carrol Brahm and son, John, 1401 N. Chicago, spent Christmas Day with Jack's parents, the Alfred Brahms of Park Ridge. On Dec. 27, they visited Carroll's parents, the Warren Bichls of Chicago.

On Jan. 2, John Kelley, son of the John Kelleys, 1337 N. Race, was 6 and a family party was given for him. Present were his grandparents, the James Staniforths of Chicago and Mrs. Catherine Kelley of Arlington Heights, great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Waghorne of Arlington Heights, aunts, uncles, cousins, his parents and brother and sisters, Jim, Deborah and Lisa.

Junior College Vote Proposed for March 27

Submit Petitions Seeking Election

by HELENE BRISTOL
Education Editor

Petitions calling for a vote on establishment of a community junior college will be submitted today, Thursday, to Dr. Noble Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

The petitions contain approximately 2,500 names of residents of Wheeling, Elk Grove Schaumburg and Palatine Townships. This is five times the legal requirement of 500 signature for a junior college referendum.

Tentative schedule for the referendum has set the date for Saturday, March 27.

It is expected that Puffer will follow the date recommended by the committee which has conducted the investigation into establishment of the community junior college.

A 26-PAGE investigation report by the Area Community College Committee (ACCC) recommended establishment of the junior college district. The recommendation was based on a six-month updating of a previous comprehensive report on the "feasibility for establishment of a community college."

The petitions and the report will be transmitted by Puffer to Ray Page, state supervisor of public instruction. Page will decide whether the petitions and report meet legal requirements and if the referendum is in the public interest.

Page approved the previous report which led to an unsuccessful referendum last May. The vote last year favored establishment of a junior college in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships, but was overwhelmingly defeated in Niles and Northfield Townships. The two eastern townships are not included in the latest junior college district plans.

If Page approves the junior colege vote, Puffer will call public hearings on the question before officially setting the referendum date. The hearings tentatively are slated for the middle of February. Present plans call for at least one hearing in the Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 and another hearing in High School District 214 (Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships).

Chairman of the ACCC is Erie Jones of Palatine. The committee is composed of more than 75 residents of the area who represented educational, civic, social and village groups and organizations.

THE COMMITTEE'S unanimously agreed:

—"that the need for a community college is undeniable;

—that a community college is a feasible undertaking for the area; and —that the proposed area satisfies the requirements of the state relating to population, enrollment and assessed valuation."

Included in the final recommendations of the committee and stated in the referendum petitions is a basic tax rate of 15 cents per $100 valuation for educational and building operation.

Among the major conclusions of the committee is a statement that there is a need for more education beyond high school for an increasing number of graduates. This need, the report says, can be met through a public community college.

"The college should offer courses which constitute the first two years of a program leading to a bachelors degree. The school should also offer a variety of vocational and technical courses for those who wish to develop competencies relating to employment which requires education beyond high school."

THE COMMITTEE reported that the community college enrollment in 1970 would probably be 2,200 students.

The committee estimated the population of the proposed community college area — the four townships — to be 261,000 in 1970. This contrasts with a population of 128,000 in 1960. This is a population "sufficiently large" to support the community college, the committee noted.

Participating in the official delivery of petitions to Puffer will be Jones; Dr. Frank Smith of Arlington Heights, chairman of the steering committee for the two high school districts which sponsored the study; Donald Truitt of Hoffman Estates, Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 board member; A. M. "Bud" Bernstein of Elk Grove Village, District 59 board member and chairman of the ACCC finance subcommittee; Mrs. Fred Nicklas of Inverness and Mrs. R. B. Yadon of Arlington Heights, members of the community college investigating committees during the past three years. (B-9

High School Policies on Married Students Differ

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

High school policies on handling married students vary widely from district to district.

"As an educator I am opposed to having married students in school, other than permitting a boy to continue as an academic student until he graduates."

This was the opinion recently expressed to his school board by one area high school superintendent.

This can be contrasted against two differing opinions from two other high school districts:

—"The mere fact that a student is married does not by itself make a difference"; and —"I do not think that you should penalize young people educationally just because they have penalized themselves socially and morally."

Present Illinois school laws make it mandatory for a school board to continue to provide education for young people living within their district until they are 21.

The law makes no provision for removing married or pregnant students from school. In practice, the state provides help to a school district to allow a girl who has left school for pregnancy to study at home until her "disability" has passed.

MANY SCHOOLS throughout the state do remove married students from school, relying on the reluctance of the student or parents to make a court issue of the case.

At the convention of the Illinois Association of School Boards last month delegates approved a move for the IASB to seek permissive legislation which would permit local school boards to ask students to withdraw because of marriage, or to prohibit a student from participating in school social or athletic activities.

Carl Forrester, superintendent of Lake Park High School, Medinah, calls the removing of students from school because of marriage "puritanical." He said he was "inclined to think people who advocate this are more concerned about themselves than what happens to youngsters."

Forrester stressed that "at the same time" he did not want to be in a position of encouraging youngsters to marry.

He noted that youngsters who get married while in high school "often suddenly become serious students—they have a new motivation and try to profit from their schooling."

HE ADDED that at Lake Park "we talk turkey very frankly" with the married student about their association with unmarried students. "We will not tolerate locker-room gossip." He emphasized that if students did interfere with normal school routine they would be removed from school, but added the frank discussion seemed to remove this possibility. "We have not had any problems" (in keeping married students in school), he stressed.

Dr. Edward Gilbert, assistant superintendent of Arlington High School District 214, said the district policy permitted both boys and girls who were married to continue in school.

"We really have no particular restrictions upon them so long as their conduct is not unbecoming," he added.

The District 214 policy in almost everything—not just married students—is to treat each case individually, Dr. Gilbert explained.

He added that the high schools do have a homebound study course for pregnant girls—who leave school when they feel they should, he noted. "We have had students who return to regular full-time classes after the end of their pregnancy," he said.

DR. GILBERT said many girls who get married drop out of school, but stressed the school did not encourage them to leave. He explained that only if married students "are creating a conflict with other students are they withdrawn from school."

Emphasis on handling each marriage or pregnancy case individually is the approach at Fenton High School, Bensenville.

This is a change and a "much more liberal viewpoint" than 10 years ago, according to Principal Norman West. West credited the change to an increased concern for individual students, "helping each student to be as successful as possible."

West indicated the school would "like to give the impression that this (high-school marriage) is not the way things should be for students of high school age," but added that the school was concerned with the student and with helping in any way possible "provided it would not be detrimental to other students."

There has not been any increase in the percentage of high-school age marriages or pregnancies, West said — "Perhaps one or two marriages and one or two pregnancies each year."

BOYS WHO continue in school might be allowed to participate in sports or social activities, but this would be decided on each case, he noted.

In all cases, West stressed, the students are not "counseled out of school" and are encouraged to continue their education. In some cases this might be through a night school arrangements leading to eventual graduation.

There have been instances where girls have returned to school after pregnancies. West thought this best demonstrated the "change in attitude" from previous year when a girl and the school itself would not have considered a return.

In December, the Palatine-Schaumburg High School Board overrode the protest of Supt. G. A. McElroy and discontinued the past policy of the district of withdrawing all married female students from school and permiting married male students to continue only for academic classes.

McElroy stressed "as an educator" he was opposed to having married students in school.

Board member Willard Brown, Plum Grove, questioned what harm was done by allowing married girls to continue in school, explaining that children who enter into early marriage need education the most.

When Harris Helgeson of Palatine, board president, said he did not favor a change in policy, Brown explained that "if the policy would deny education to a student who urgently needed it" he would oppose it.

BROWN MOVED the old policy be eliminated and each case of a married student considered by the school on its merits. He added that married students should be permitted to remain in school until appropriate action by the board is taken. This would include a conference with the guidance department and an invitation for the married students and their parents to meet with the school board.

Some of the board members felt the policy change would bring more cases of married students before the school board. This was countered by William Fremd of Palatine Township, school board member for 36 years, who emphasized that regardless of the school board policy on early marriages the march of events today will lead to more and more of these (marriage) situations."

Another aspect of the married student problem is athletic participation for married boys.

Recently a Sullivan, Ill., High School senior boy who was married last spring was prevented from participating in fall and winter sports through school board action. The case has been taken to court.

ALTHOUGH there was some conversation about a change in Illinois High School Association athletic rules to bar married students, no action has been proposed to date, according to Tom Frederick of the IHSA.

McElroy, once a coach at Palatine High School, stressed he would be opposed to having married boys playing on the school football or basketball team. He added these boys should be home supporting their wives.

One of McElroy's school board members countered this stand with the question of why a boy shouldn't be permitted to participate in athletics if he had sufficient funds to support his wife.

Howard Lester, District 214 athletic director for Wheeling, Forest View, Prospect and Arlington High Schools, said that married students in athletics should be decided on individual cases. He added that many married students might be more serious players, and could be a good influence on their teammates. "It would depend upon the boy," he explained.

Lester noted that the second-place team in the 1964 Illinois state basketball contest — the Cobden Apple Knockers — had a star center who was married. "As a matter of fact, his wife was one of the cheerleaders," Lester added. (A-15

Collector Learns From German Souvenirs

Lesson of Politics In Badges, Medals

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

Ferreting out the secrets behind German World War II souvenirs has been an eight-year hobby with Robert Thompson of Arlington Heights.

The hobby has had its high spots and low spots for the father of four.

Among the plus factors is a deep understanding of the many political devices, such as badges, medals, distinctive uniform and equipment, used by the German war machine to keep spirit high in the war-torn country.

"The fun is in locating the souvenirs and finding out the background of where and how they were obtained and then connecting the pieces with the historical value and political groups they were associated with," Thompson said.

THE SAD PART of the hobby is that Thompson and other legitimate collectors must be careful not to offend the feelings of persons who suffered during the war.

"The concern of legitimate collectors is that too many people try to connect us to the war from a political instead of a historical standpoint," Thompson said.

Some collectors have been threatened with bomb threats, while others have suffered the abuse of being labeled sympathizers to Hitler's cause.

Thompson, himself, has not run into too many Cranks in the search for his hobby pieces.

"But one or two is enough to last a lifetime," he said. "The problem is that you are contacting people who know nothing about you and they are sometimes suspicious."

SEVERAL times Thompson has considered giving up the hobby and trying something less likely to arouse emotionalism "But I have a strong interest and I have been at it long enough that it means a lot to me," he said. He started out with a gun collection.

Finding the pieces is sometimes quite difficult. "You can't just go out and knock on doors and say, Do you save any war souvenirs in your attic," Thompson said.

There is also the problem of an unsavory element in the souvenir hunting business. Some of the best sources of good souvenirs are slum area pawn shops where a former soldier might be tempted to part with a piece for a few dollars.

Thompson has a representative collection of daggers, medals, guns, uniforms and books on the subject. Each piece has a story behind it.

ONE INTERESTING dagger in the Thompson collection was obtained in a small town in southern Illinois.

Thompson got it from a youth who had a relative in one state's police organization during the war. A train passing through town had a couple of unruly sailors, who were carrying some weapons as souvenirs, and these were confiscated.

The piece eventually wound up at the youth's home and a friend who had played with him as a child told Thompson of the dagger.

It was at least a year later that Thompson met the youth, who was in the Marine Corps, and later still when the weapon was rediscovered.

"MOST ARE obtained from people who brought them back," Thompson said. "They picked them up in homes and barracks and didn't know what they represented."

Collecting the pieces is difficult because most veterans have a sentimental attachment to mementos they picked up while risking their lives.

"I have had friends who would invite me over to their house and say, "I'll even give you some of the stuff,'" Thompson said.

"But when they get the stuff out of the attic or basement and start reminiscing how they picked it up when they were pinned down for two days in an old house, they won't sell it for any price."

THOMPSON said he has discovered through his study of the articles from the period that the German political machine had "a massive structure and plan for keeping the spirits up. There were all sorts of medals and daggers distinguishing the various units," he said.

His search for the German World War II articles, has led him on some strange quests. He is currently seeking a butter churn to trade to a collector friend who has an interesting dagger.

"I drove all over Wisconsin looking for a churn," Thompson laughed. "You know, the prices of those things can get pretty expensive, too." (A15

Science Fiction: Tomorrow Now

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

The lure of science fiction takes an ordinary person out of a humdrum existence and sets him down in the world of tomorrow, explains Bill Knuerr, who has been an enthusiast for 30 years.

Like many avid science fiction fans, Knuerr, of 21 Hatlan in Mount Prospect, has a scientific background. He is a mechanical engineer with Signode Corp.

"I THINK the most progressive engineers believe the things they read today will be fact tomorrow," Kneurr said. "The things Buck Rogers talked about in 1935, after all, are true today."

Knuerr said orbiting the earth was talked about years ago, as were gravity belts.

"A German, Otto Wilhelm Gerr, in 1927 or '28 talked about a 'rocket to the moon,' which had many of the aspects of the recent rocket sent to the moon to circumvent it and take pictures," Knuerr said.

KNUERR HAS noted a change in science fiction over the years.

"It now contains imagination plus a certain amount of fact," he said. "It used to just be an idea of future happenings largely written by non-technical persons.

"Thirty years ago a science fiction author was just a writer who wanted to do something different. Today if you read the fly leaves of the books, you will find they are scientists, professors and assistant professors.

"The reason for the attraction of the fiction, of course, is a good show and good entertainment," Knuerr pointed out. But there is another reason scientists become interested in reading and writing the brand of fiction.

"IT GIVES scientists a creative opportunity to tell what they think can be done. It allows them to say what they think will be happening in 30 to 100 years," he said.

"Dovetailed with fact, the books offer an opportunity to scientists to express what they think will be the results of today's discoveries," Knuerr said.

Recently he sold a science fiction library of 110 hardbound volumes.

"He thought he would let someone else get something out of them," Mrs. Knuerr said. "He has read them all and he has about another 25 volumes, which he hasn't gotten to yet."

Mrs. Knuerr, who has no interest in science fiction, estimated her husband reads about two books a month of his favorite fiction.

HIS COLLECTION was purchased by another avid reader as a Christmas gift for her two sons.

Mrs. Ted Foltman of 834 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights, bought the books for sons Randy, 15, and Teddy, 13, and for herself.

"I've always been interested in the subject," Mrs. Foltman said.

"I think there is a group of people, like me, who like it. People either like or they really don't like it."

MRS. FOLTMAN'S husband, a machinist, doesn't care for the fiction, but son Randy, who has expressed interests in architecture and archeology as future careers, definitely takes to it.

He, Teddy, and their sister, Merry, 23, have long planned to start a library of their favorite books. "They are all interested in science fiction," Mrs. Foltman said.

However, Mrs. Foltman's background proves it isn't only engineers who are attracted to the subject.

"My father was an artist and his father was an artist," she said. "I've always been a little on the Bohemian side." (A15

Teachers Commended for Aid to Injured Colleague

More than 800 delegates of the Illinois Education Association (IEA) commended the Teachers' Association of High School District 214 for the financial assistance given to one of their members.

Teachers from Arlington, Prospect Forest View and Wheeling High Schools raised about $10,000 for David Oswald. Oswald was burned and near death in an automobile crash on Labor Day, 1963—the day before he was to start his teaching career at Forest View High School. Today Oswald, recovered, is acting as a "permanent" substitute for the school district until a position opens for him.

Ray DePalma, president of the teachers' association, thanked the convention and asked for contributions for the Oswald fund. He explained there is still $6,000 to $8,000 in outstanding bills.

HOSPITAL AND medical insurance for District 214 teachers at that time did not cover teachers before the opening of school. Since that time this has been changed to begin on July 1—the official start of a new school year.

Among the major resolutions adopted by the IEA were:

—Elimination of the Illinois Teachers Loyalty Oath either through persuasion of the state general assembly or through a test court case if this fails;

—Upholding of the academic freedom of teachers in choosing reading matter for their students;

—Seeking legislation to increase the minimum drop-out age to more than the present 16-year-old level; and —Endorsement of a legislative bill which would aid culturally disadvantaged children with compensatory education programs.

The convention also endorsed policies drafted during the past year covering professional negotiations with school boards on teaching conditions, salaries and better education conditions for students.

GUIDELINES for sanctions against school districts, teacher associations or individual teachers also received approval. Sanctions could include refusal to renew teacher contracts if invoked against a district, barring of the teacher association from the IEA, or disciplining a teacher for professional conduct.

Morris Pumphrey of Arlington High School amended the guidelines to insure that rights of individual teachers were protected.

Miss Ruth Broom, senior class counselor at Riverside - Brookfield High School, was elected as the 1966 president - elect. Miss Broom belongs to the IEA Lake Shore Division which included Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine Township until the Northwest Suburban IEA Division was created last year.

Main speaker at the convention was Gov. Otto Kerner. Major theme of the address was summarized by the Governor's statement, "Education will act as preventive medicine for illiteracy."

Open House, Tours Slated at Hospital

Open house and tours have been scheduled for Feb. 13 and April 3 at the Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospitals School of Nursing, Park Ridge.

"We would like to invite all prospective students to attend on either day," said Miss Erna Rueggeberg, associate director of nursing education.

PROSPECTIVE students will have an opportunity to see Lutheran General Hospital and the school of nursing. Miss Rueggeberg and members of the faculty will be available for counseling and discussion.

Additional information can be obtained from the school of nursing.

Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospitals School of Nursing is the only school of nursing in the northwest suburban area. The school was moved to its new campus in 1960 from its location at Lutheran Deaconess Hospital in Chicago.

Weekend guests in the Joseph Ott home on North Beverly Lane between Christmas and New Year's were the senior Joseph Otts of Dubuque. They motored here to visit and to observe Laureen's first Christmas.

A TRAIN trip to Marathon, Wis., on Sunday of last week began a two-day visit back home for Mrs. Don Schreiner and son, Russell. A family gathering in the home of grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wagner, brought sons and daughters and their families from various states for the holiday visit.

Six-year-old Nancy Radcliffe celebrated her birthday Dec. 28 at luncheon party in her North Hickory home for Jay Bonner, Valerie Averill, Bobby Andrews, Nancy Saemrow, Jane Henricks and Patti Shannon.

Christmas guests in the Don Helbling home on East Clarendon were grandparents, Mrs. Bessie Ducey of Richomnd and the A. F. Helblings of Spring Grove. During the weekend between the holidays, the Helblings enjoyed a surprise visit from an aunt, Mrs. John Cox of Arlington, Va. Topping off the holidays, the Helblings hosted a New Year's Eve party for 30 friends.

Thirty guests also gathered at the Fred Damiano home on North Pine Court to hail in the new year. Among them were the Hal Warmans, former Greens residents, of Holliston, Mass., in for a holiday visit with relatives and friends. Some of the younger Warmans, Glenn, Craig, Kathy and Blair were houseguests in the Damiano home for several days during their stay.

HOLIDAY GUESTS in the George Vastine home on East Olive were a brother and family, the William Vastines of Sacramento, Calif.

Holiday activities in the Richard Persicke home on North Hickory included a Christmas Eve visit from grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jamerson, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Eller, of Rockford. On Christmas, the senior Persickes and the Hermans of Wausau, Wis. joined them for a holiday visit. They hosted their son and family for a New Year's weekend visit.

The holiday season began early for Cheryl Thake of North Douglas. Attending the Peter and Gordon Show at McCormick Place with friends on the 12th was followed by a holiday vacation to Hollywood, Fla. She was a guest of the Dale Phillis family of North Dwyer. Her return on Sunday ended the two weeks of sightseeing and swimming.

Holiday guests of the Pete Johnsons on East Olive were Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Whalen of Derry, Pa., who attended the family gathering in their daughter's home.

HOUSEGUESTS in the Robert Rees home on North Hickory since New Year's Eve, were Mr. and Mrs. Hein Juergensen of New York City. Their train trip home on Wednesday will just miss nephew David's fifth birthday. A nursery school party for his 20 classmates is planned, with a family party in the evening.

To wind up the holiday season, Sunday the Ray Harrisons hosted a gathering in their North Beverly Lane home.

Attending the Rose Bowl Game at Pasadena, Calif. climaxed their viewing the famous parade earlier on New Year's Day for the Olen Culpeppers of East Clarendon. On the West Coast, they visited the G. D. Palones, a niece and her family in Beverly Hills. A jet flight home on Sunday ended their week's sojourn. (A

Political Scientists to Tell of Yugoslavia Trip

When Heinz Loeffler was presented to a San Francisco audience some months ago to keep a speaking engagement, he was introduced as a political scientist who sells paper to finance his political science studies. Actually, as Long Grovers know him, this is not far from the truth. Local residents will have the opportunity to become better acquainted with one of their neighbors Jan. 25, at the church sponsored Community Night, which features Heinz Loeffler as speaker.

Appearing at Kildeer School, the German born enthusiast whose aim is to further favorable international relations and who became a United States citizen in 1933, will share his thoughts on the difference between theory and practice and the application of Communist and Socialist principles in Russia, also describing his October trip to Yugoslavia, made at the request of the Secretary of Commerce. Loeffler participated in five-member trade mission for a five-member trade mission for the Department of Commerce. While there he talked at industry and government meetings, a press conferences, for TV and radio in Belgrade, Zagreb, Llubljana, Sarajevo and elsewhere.

BORN IN 1910 in Nuernberg, Loeffler's interest in international relations dates back to when he was 15 and technically a reporter for the League of Nations in Geneva. This and also his father's connection with the German government were conducive to his early interest in political science.

Three years after becoming a U. S. citizen he applied to the U. S. Navy and was rejected because of his German birth and After 20 applications he was accepted three years later, entering as a lieutenant of the supply corps. Since then his naval assignmens have been with the Naval Supply Corps School in Wellesley, Mass.; as acting supply officer of a naval operating base in Puerto Rico; a liaison officer of the French Aircraft Carrier Bearne; packaging officer of the U. S. Naval Forces in Europe and packaging specialist of the Navy purchasing office in New York. He is now Captain, SC., USWR-R, commanding officer of the Supply Corps Reserve Unit, 9-7, Chicago.

Two years ago, accepting an invitation from the Hungarian Packaging Institute, he addressed their first meeing of the European Packaging Federation behind the Iron Curtain in Budapest. Other missions included a trip to NATO countries to study Military Packaging Conditions, to Alaska to study Arctic Military Packaging, also a number of trips to the Strategic Air Command Headquarters and North American Air Defense Command Headquarters. As guest of the Secretary of the Navy, he attended Naval War College Global Strategy discussions and in 1963 attended the National Security Forum of the Air War College as guest of the Secretary of the Air Force.

BUSINESS commitments have kept him busy as president of the Exeter Paper Co., Inc. in Chicago since 1948. Most Long Grovers are familiar with Heinz site, the Loefflers' home where wife Jean and daughters Susan and Patricia help him relax. When his busy schedule lets him find time for sports, tennis, riding, skiing and golf are his favorites.

Betsy Coffin, one of a group of 20 Beloit College students, left New York Monday to take part in a four-month course of study in Rennes, France, at the University of Rennes. A sophomore majoring in history, she will make her home with a French family while studying under the Beloit College World Affairs program. The group, made up of a variety of majors, is accompanied by a French professor and his wife. Completing their study May 1, the finale for the group will include a two-week tour of Paris.

Our condolences are extended to the family of Eunice Martin, who died Dec. 30 at Lake Forest Hospital after many weeks of heart illness. Her husband, Agate, and two daughters and their families, the Timothy Reeds of Venezuela and the Dean Kellys of Detroit, were at Eunice's bedside at the end. A memorial service was held Saturday at 11 a.m. at Mundelein Community Church. Instead of flowers, friends are requested to give their gifts toward a memorial fund. Contributions are being accepted at Lake Forest Hospital or Mundelein Community Church.

Women's Guild board members will meet Jan. 11 at 9:30 a.m. at the church parsonage. Mrs. Robert Coffin's morning group will gather Jan. 13 at Mrs. Jay Neubaur's home and Mrs. Roswell Ryan's afternoon circle will meet that afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Loudon Sr. Mrs. Fred Dahlberg's evening circle members will serve as hosts for the Heinz oeffler Commu ity NghL,ctoin-Loeffler Community Night, consequently they decided to omit their usual circle get-together.

THIRTY SOME Nags bid the old year adieu at the regular party held at the Milt Wingquists'. That and the gatherings at Long Grove Country Club and The Village Tavern were the community's largest New Year celebrations.

Plenty of snacks to munch on, cookies and punch, records and room to dance made the Middle-High Youth Fellowship party at the Burt Schells' a fast-moving event, welcoming 1965. Mary Jo Korbelik and Joan Schaum headed the committee, having met with a group on Dec. 27 to make plans.

Repeating a habit of many years, some long-time residents, such as the Richard Fargoes, Mrs. Guy Reed and former Long Grovers, the Earling Clemetsens, gathered at the Cy Fannings' to toast in the year over bridge tables.

At the Fred Frenches, the New Year's sociability centered around their son, Lynn, his wife, baby daughter and his wife's family, the Richard Newburys, here from Green Bay. For Lynn it's a rest from his law studies in Denver.

For John Colas, too, the vacation at home was a breather from classes. Assigned an assistantship, he is teaching at Washington University, St. Louis, while working on his PhD in political science.

Also repeating a habit of past years, the Fred Dahlbergs walked next door to greet the New Year with the Jim Korbeliks. Also sharing the occasion were Jim's sisters, Misses Emily and Mae of Berwyn, and daughter Sherron and family, the Mike McCarthys of Addison.

Ed Rodewald's brothers, William from Villa Park, Ray from Hillside and their families, also a sister, Miss Sophie from Elmhurst, spent New Year's Day here; Mrs. Dorothea Rodewald is back from Villa Park and will be spending the winter with the Rodewalds.

WILLIAM MELL'S parents of Eagle River, Wis., made it a family reunion during the holidays. The Mells expect their daughter, Judy and family, the Wesley Marzes of Los Angeles to arrive the latter part of January. The Mells are looking forward to their second look at their grandchild, Christopher Todd.

For Mrs. Robert Kenan Christmas included a trip to Pittsburgh to visit family and relatives.

When Art Edmunds walked into their house on Christmas Eve with Betty's present it was indeed a surprise! A new accordion glistening in its pearl was given to Betty, replacing the one that has been falling apart. She initiated it New Year's Eve by playing and singing at a hootenanny held at Palatine's First Baptist Church. The holidays for Art and his brother, Guy, included a week's skiing trip to Indian Head and other points along the Canadian border.

The Long Grove Church choir's first after-Christmas practice took place Wednesday at the Edmunds.

Mrs. Joseph Kathrein's famed pizza roll-ups which won her recognition last year in a national contest were the table highlight at the buffet supper the Kathriens hosted Dec. 30 for neighbors. Old fashioned games were played, with fancily decorated soap for prizes. Guests were the Fred Westneys, the Walter Lockes and Mrs. Erma Peters, the Elmer Bittners, Elden Gadkes, Stanley Youngs, Ray Fassbenders, Henry Stades, Ed Lingos and the Don Armstrongs.

Among morning coffees was the Dec. 30 get-together Mrs. Whitford Kuhn hosted for mostly Mardan Estates neighbors.

MRS. FRED Dahlberg's grade school and Chicago South Shore High School classmate, Mrs. Ed Burke and family of Oaklawn were dinner guests on a recent Sunday, former neighbors of Arlington Heights, the Frank Spychalas also dropping by New Year's Day dinner guest of the Dahlbergs was Don Michaud of Palatine for whom it was too far to join his family at Iron Mountain, Mich.

The usual Christmas Trees from Around the World display at the Museum of Science and Industry provided an interesting afternoon last week for Mrs. Heinz Loeffler, Pat and Sue. That evening, meeting Heinz, they enjoyed the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta at the Opera House, with dinner at the French Room of the Hartford House.

The Robert Taylors and the Edwin Rodewalds were invited to the Highland Park home of one-time Kildeer teacher, the former Olga Bernaey, now Mrs. Richard Nordberg. The Nordbergs were hosts at a dinner party Dec. 30 for the Long Grovers and out of town friends. Mrs. Nordberg teaches at Hawthorne School.

Doris Dombrow invited eight seventh grade girls to "sleepover" on New Year's Eve, making it an all-night "whisper and giggle" party.

It was a "back to school" splurge on Jan. 2 which made it a lively dance-to-records fling for eighth graders, hoted by Jane Wingquist.

Nathan's fifth birthday made it a fine excuse for having a celebration last Sunday at the David Edmundses.

Also, happy birthday wishes go to Betty Edmunds and Mary Jo Korbelik Jan. 7; Helen Sim, Jan. 9; Betsy Coffin, 11th; Bobby Taylor and Becky Salzman, 12th. Anniversary wishes go to the Bob Coffins, Jan. 7.

Our thoughts are with Dave McCartney, Kathy and Mike who hastened to the bedside of Dave's mother in Louisiana. She has been stricken with a heart attack.

BRUCE MASON'S accident on the day before Christmas at McHenry and Route 22 required 18 stitches and extensive repair on his car. Though Bruce is fast on the mend, his car will have to undergo considerable overhauling.

Though Eric Carl, son of the John S. Olsens of Easton, Pa., gave his parents some uneasy moments by letting himself be heard during the church service, his conduct at his baptismal ceremony was above reproach. The sacrament was administered by Rev. Alfred Williams at the Dec. 27 service, the baby's aunt and uncle, the Neil Nelsons of Broadview, serving as sponsors. Mrs. Nelson is the former Karin Gustafson and Mrs. Olsen is the former Kathy Gustafson.

At a Dec. 29 meeting of the Long Grove Church cemetery board, members decided to push the passage of a rule forbidding the erection of one's monument prior to his decease. Business was preceded by a dinner at the home of the president Elden Gadke. Sharing the evening were the Tony Bergs and th Orv Keilers.

Orv Held and Edwin Rodewald took part in a "burndown," a school for firemen, held Dec. 13 at Gurnee in which volunteers from 30 Lake County fire departments participated in the leveling of an old farm house.

Firemen have informed us with gratitude that Long Grove has set a new record. Dec. 31 marked a whole month without a single fire or emergency call. (WP

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

CIRCLE 8 TEENS

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove young people ended the old year with a most successful teen-parent dance, and are looking forward to a new year of club popularity and growth.

Their Christmas dance was the first "parents cordially invited" affair the Circle 8's have ever attempted; its spontaneous success guarantees that it won't be the last. Parents included some who were square dance veterans and some who didn't know allemande left from apple pie. Caller Jim McCall soon had even the second-left-feet contingent dancing like experts.

KIDS CONSIDERED it a real blast, parents thought so too (but phrased it differently) and everyone is looking forward to the next invitational dance.

Circle 8's get-together again Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in Buffalo Grove's Emmerich Park with Jim McCall calling and instructing. The fun goes on until 5 o'clock. All interested teens are welcome. Y'all come!

BUCKS AND DOES

Guests, bandits and everyone's new holiday dancewear made the Elk Grover's Christmas dance an especially bright and sprightly event.

Guests of the club were recently graduated members of the Bucks and Does' beginners' class; visitors were from the Buttons and Bows Club and the Bachelor and Bachelorettes Club plus out-of-towners from Paducah, and Normal, Ill.; bandits were two squaresful of Teen Promenaders from Arlington Heights who retrieved their newly-created, newly-stolen club banner.

The teen contingent also performed an exhibition dance for the crowd with their caller Wally Paulsen showing the way. Their hosts were delighted with the fine entertainment and hope they'll visit Elk Grove again.

Bucks and Does advanced workshop began Tuesday night and will continue weekly for eight more sessions. Bob and Zella Lewis are instructing and classes are still open. More information about the workshop may be had by calling Danny Hagen, 824-3870.

NEXT REGULARLY scheduled dance is Saturday night in Dempster Junior High School, Rte. 83 and Dempster, Elk Grove Township. Bob Lewis will call and Carl and Marie Peterson will lead the rounds. Start the new year right and join the gang in Dempster School.

A final word from the club has your square dance columnist as much in the dark as you will likely be: Watch for "The Bob Lewis Fleet — it is coming in." Solution, anyone?

ARLINGTON SQUARES

Tomorrow night's special guests of the Arlington Heights club will be the Square Wheels, and everyone's invited to help roll out the welcome mat for 'em. Welcome mat, Square Wheels, caller Jim Smith and all will be found in Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, in Arlington Heights.

Jim will square 'em up at 8:30, following a round dance workshop that begins at 7:45 with Dot and Jerry Daniels instructing. The workshop has been a popular prelude to the evening's fun and everyone's urged to come early for a quick and easy lesson on the newest rounds.

Refreshments and an hour of sociability follow the dancing. Everyone is welcome. The Vollands, CL 5-4183, are available for further information.

PALATINE SQUARES

New Years Eve found the annual bumper crowd of 27 squares attending the Palatiners' party dance, once again a sell-out. It was the grand finale to the club's first half of the season and, as party-goers report, a supersonic jet take off for the second half.

Bright holiday decorations and dancers' party-best costumes combined to create a colorful accompaniment to the extra-fine dancing club regular, Art Mathews was assisted in calling in the new year by Ed Hempel, with round dance specialists Dot and Jerry Daniels, adding their always-great bit to the program.

A midnight exchange of good wishes 'round a buffet supper table provided the festive touch, then there was more dancing until 2:30 a.m. Many area clubs joined the membership as is their annual custom. A slip that passed in the type of the Christmas square dance column resulted in a lot of good-natured banter at the supper table.

IN THAT COLUMN, Palatine club officers had extended season's greetings to everyone. A couple of lines were lost or transposed so that club presidents, Harold and Lil Crittenden, were separated, and Lil Langerock, club publicity gal, had her own Art plus Harold. She had a tough time explaining her apparent husband-stealing tactics, and we take this opportunity to get her off the hook.

She's strictly a one-man gal and his name is Art.

Harold and Lil extend their wish for healthy, happy good dancing in the new year, and an invitation to join the Palatiners Saturday night. It will mark the beginning of the second half of the dancing season and memberships are open for the remaining half-year.

Guests are also welcome, as always, and dancing will begin at 8:30 in Pleasant Hill School, Cedar and Illinois, in Palatine.

"Old Dad" Art Mathews is the caller, and there'll be round dancing too, led by Dot and Jerry Daniels. Everybody come.

JAMBOREE BENEFIT

A square dance jamboree featuring four callers Sunday, Jan. 10, will benefit the Metropolitan Chicago Chapter March of Dimes.

The jamboree will be sponsored at the Flick-Reedy Auditorium, Thorndale and York, Bensenville, from 2 to 5 p.m. Tickets are available at the door.

Emanuel Fivek may be called at PO 6-0575 for added details.

Five YMCA's Establish School of Fine Arts

Five northwest YMCA departments, among them Northwest Suburban YMCA at Des Plaines, have established the Northwest School of Fine Arts to begin classes Feb. 1.

Classes, seminars and workshops in art, ballet, drama, literature and music will be taught or conducted by 28 academically trained teachers.

Registration began this week at the participating 'Y's,' Northwest Suburban, Elmhurst, Park Ridge, High Ridge and Leaning Tower. Although registration may be made any day throughout January, definite days have been scheduled for consultation at each of the five departments between 1 and 9 p.m. These hours are slated at Northwest Suburban Wednesday, Jan. 20.

THE CURRICULUM was designed to meet the interests and needs of children teenagers and adults, regardless of previous training, skills or experience, explained Charles McClellan, executive secretary of Northwest Suburban 'Y' and one of the five directors of the school.

The music department courses embrace every facet of musical interest and skill. A course in the fundamentals of music will teach the grade school child the theory and mechanics of music which will serve as a distinct advantage for any type of vocal or instrumental performance.

A children's chorus at each of the five YMCA departments will be combined in the spring to present a massed chorus singing classical folk songs.

Group class instruction will be made available for beginning students in piano, voice, organ, violin and the band and orchestra instruments. Private lessons for advanced students in these areas will also be offered at the convenience of the student.

THE ART SECTION of the school will offer a course in the fundamentals of art to teach children an appreciation for lines, colors, forms and symbols. A workshop in drawing and painting will permit the adult to work at his own level of accomplishment in sketches, pastels, water colors and oils.

Three nationally known European and American trained ballet teachers will offer courses geared to girls and women who might be interested in ballet as a vocation or avocation.

The literature courses will embrace several Great Books groups and a seminar based upon a number of recent publications dealing with the complex moral and social problems that confront parents who are attempting to maintain cohesive homes for their families

EACH OF THE five YMCA departments will also offer a workshop in creative writing which will assist the participants to prepare articles, poems, plays or essays to submit for publication.

A course in play production for children has been designed to assist the child to gain clear articulation and to gain the confidence that appearing in one-act plays provides. Opportunities to participate in dramatic productions will be made available for adults who lack the training and experience to participate in professional productions.

Teen Tour Auditions To Be Held Sunday

Chicago area auditions will be held Sunday, starting at 2 p.m., at the Village Hall, Itasca.

The Talented Teen Europe troupe will leave O'Hare Airport, Chicago, Aug. 2 and fly on a BOAC jet direct to London, England, and then travel by deluxe motor coach to seven countries. Twelve special sight seeing trips are scheduled to Europe's famous spots of culture.

Plane on View

A special exhibit has been placed on view on the main floor of the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago that features the B-58 Hustler bomber, the new Coke bottle-shaped aircraft that twice a day has breaking the sound barrier in Chicago area. It will remain on public view for two months.

Plan TV Series On Stroke Care

The Chicago Heart Association and television station WTTW will score an educational first in January and February when the two organizations jointly produce six programs to aid families with stroke patients at home.

The Channel 11 half-hour telecasts on six successive Tuesday nights beginning Tuesday, Jan. 12, will instruct families in the understanding and care of stroke patients once they are home from the hospital. The programs will be seen at 9:30 p.m.

It is estimated that one family out of ten will experience a stroke within the next decade.

A WORD FROM Wendy Ward

by Ann Mahan

Now that the Christmas holidays are over and everyone feels the letdown of the hustle and bustle, it's a good time to take a look at yourself.

Do you want to be prettier? Mrs. Besterfeldt, our cosmetic manager at Wards, will show you a marvelous pick-me-up for tired winter complexions. Carol Brent, Wards' own cosmetics, makes one of the new brush-on blushers. Not "rouge" in the old sense of the word, the blush-ons are powdered pinks that you dust on ever-so-lightly with an enormous camel's hair brush. The effect is a soft glow of color rather than a splotch of color on each cheek. Try dusting the chin and forehead too for a new radiant you. It's more fun than a barrel of lipsticks.

Vacation bound — perhaps to a warm weather climate like Florida. Wards sportswear department is shedding its winter look and coming out in lighter and brighter funwear. Just in — are cotton knits in brilliant citron yellow and aqua. The sporty tops come in a raglan sleeve blouson style, a snappy "Chelsea Look" overblouse, a pullover style that is an adaptation of the old favorite sweatshirt, a tuck-in version with a perky posy growing up the side, and a wide open collarless double breasted jacket that is a perfect team up with any of these tops. Of course there are matching cotton knit skirts and slacks.

A must for any southern vacation is a new swimsuit — or make it two for looking your most glamorous at the beach or poolside. Mrs. Freedman, fashion manager has just received the very newest in swimwear. Colors are brighter, fabrics have controlled texture in this collection. Dollar sized dots in kelly green are sprinkled over a turquoise cuffed loose top. The trunks carry out the green in the top. The fabric in this suit is cotton and helanca nylon.

"Bon Bon" so called by the manufacturer is a gay confection of nylon and nylon spandex. The casual blouson top is in daybreak colors of gold, orange and the warmest of pinks.

Aptly named "Chiffon Fluff" this frosted pink swimsuit will surely pamper her owner. The blouson top has an overlay of nylon chiffon giving this suit a romantic peignoir look.

Are two piece swimsuits still going to be in style? The answer is an emphatic yes! A perfect suit for the gal with a slim midriff is a white orlon acrylic and spandex suit. The bodice top has blue Tyrolean crochet trim.

Cut like a playsuit is a little one piece suit of pink and white check. The newsy item here is the self belt. Look for more of this in 1965, it's one of the hottest items to hit the swimwear world.

Have fun at surfside in your new swimsuits! Is there a special occasion coming up that you are in a quandary over? Don't know what to wear, afraid you might be underdressed or even worse overdressed? Let me help you decide what to wear and what accessories to wear with it. Just call me at Wards Randhurst store 392-2500 for the touch of a fashion coordinator.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

Junior Troop 766 worked on the personal health badge during November. The movie, "The World of a Girl," was shown. Mothers were invited and coffee and cake provided by Mrs. Richard Fondrie were served. Nov. 24, Mrs. Don Novaria taught the girls good grooming and they had a style show. Mrs. William Payne, Mrs. Roger Browning and Mrs. Robert Bach helped each girl make a nail file and comb holder.

This troop is also working on art in the round badge. They made 14 inch high angels which were Christmas gifts for their mothers. The art gallery was visited during the holidays.

Dec. 22 Junior Troop 862 went caroling. The scouts visited several homes where people were housebound and took cookies to them.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

Brownie Troop 943, Rupley School, has been busy for the past several weeks preparing Christmas packages for the children of the Lincoln-Dixon School. The gifts were "treasured toys" or the Brownies earned money to buy new ones.

Junior Troop 895 entertained Brownie Troop 943 Nov. 23 with skits showing what Junior Troops do. Refreshments prepared by the scouts were served.

Junior Troop 204, Rupley School, held a Court of Awards Dec. 3. Fourteen girls received their Sign of the Arrow badge. his award is given after earning several badges including community service. Such a service was rendered Nov. 21 when the troop served refreshments for the Woman's Club "History of Fashions" Show. Proceeds were given for scholarships for teachers of exceptional children.

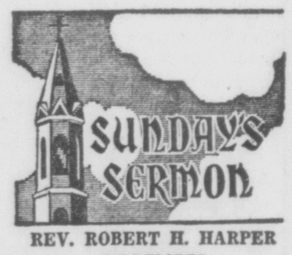
Junior Troop 879, Clearmont School, went visiting at the Wood Dale Nursing Home Dec. 21 and entertained with Christmas carols. A special thrill was meeting a 101-year-old resident who caroled with them. Christmas wreaths, made by the scouts during previous weeks, were given to the home for use on dinner trays. Accompanying the girls were Mrs. Robert Cook, Mrs. George Mello, Mrs. R. Copenhefer, Mrs. K. Waldenmeier and Mrs. W. Frank.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Scouts of Troop 732 delighted their families by singing Christmas carols Dec. 22. After making their rounds the girls split into two groups and returned to the home of their leader, Mrs. Robert Cole, or the home of Nancy Blaine for refreshments.

Troop 633 had an interesting day Dec. 28 when they toured City Hall and had an interview with Mayor Woods fulfilling a requirement for My Government badge. The 28 Cadettes held a progressive dinner Dec. 29. The girls went in groups of seven for three courses; then all had dessert at the home of leader, Mrs. Robert Winsell.

Brownies of Troop 929 had a holiday party Dec. 17 at the home of their leader, Mrs. Robert Miller. The 18 girls exchanged grab bag gifts, played games and had refreshments.



REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

DECEMBER

December, the last month of the calendar year, might well verify the statement that the last shall be first, for it includes dates of events that have largely shaped the destinies of mankind. Let us consider two of these events.

The students of history might well set the date of the first flight of the Wright brothers in a heavier-than-air machine as one of the greatest events in the annals of men. For that achievement has mightily affected the manner of life of nearly all people and had a revolutionary part in international relations. Now that a man can have breakfast in New Orleans and lunch in new York the same day is going some.

But, though he has broken the sound barrier, though on earth distance has almost been annihilated and time made a plaything, though he may rocket his way to the moon and plant the Stars and Stripes on Mars, he will never reach heaven that way if he never finds the Saviour from sin.

So the second great event to be considered here is in reality the first, the day when the herald angels sang of the birth of the new-born King, a coming which has marked a new reckoning point among the ages.

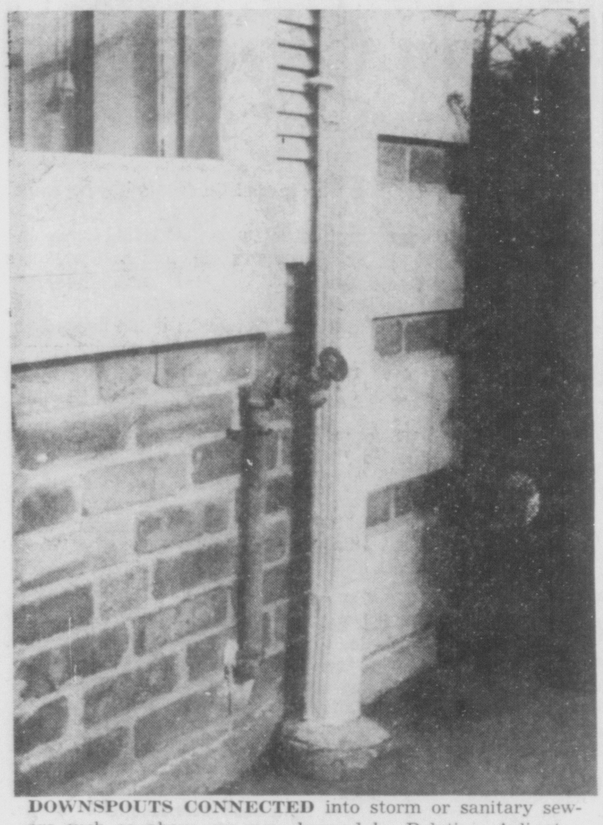
The Lowly Downspout: Big Flooding Factor



DOWNSPOUTS CONNECTED into storm or sanitary sewers such as above are now banned by Palatine, Arlington Heights and Deerfield, with some other communities beginning to follow suit in an effort to prevent overloading of sewers and resultant flooding during peak rainfalls. Keeping water from roofs on lawns also helps to maintain underground water tables. Above is illustrated a paradoxical situation where free nitrogen rich rainwater is being thrown away rather than being allowed to soak into the lawn and shrubbery, with the homeowner instead using costly municipal water drawn from underground reservoirs to supplement the water needs of his landscaping. (A15

Misuse of Water Is Costly Error

by TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

While homeowners are viewing flood problems and assessments for storm sewers with pain and disgust, it rarely occurs to them that the insignificant downspouts from the eavestroughs of their homes may be a contributing cause of flooding and the need for millions of the dollars being spent on storm water removal.

Indeed, it seemingly rarely occurs to them that the water from their own roofs is perhaps the chief cause of their flooded basements, and/or the basements of others.

Nor do they blame themselves for the inexorably falling underground water tables and resultant water shortages. Paradoxically, society blithely funnels and flushes away its water, at a cost, and then pay again to pump it from the ground for such uses as watering lawns.

And these same homeowners, as members of a local school board or board of directors of a private concern, may be further compounding local water problems by repeating what they do at home, that is, sending the rain from the roofs and parking lots of schools and commercial buildings zooming into a sewer.

WATER PROBLEMS are commonly viewed as the village government's fault, although the homeowners making up the village government may view storm water as a county responsibility, and the county may hold the state responsible for floods, with the state looking to the federal government for flood control assistance.

Yet each homeowner can help, and if all did, water problems here and everywhere would be alleviated — and taxes saved. For every downspout is a minute component of the compound beginning of a Mississippi River flood, and is a factor in determining the size of the local storm sewers.

Palatine seems to be the only village in the northwest suburbs to have taken a full assessment of the influence of downspouts on storm water removal problems.

LIKE A FEW other villages it forbids connecting downspouts into either storm or sanitary sewer, having adopted an ordinance to this effect 1½ years ago.

But Palatine is also requiring the disconnection of all downspouts previously connected into village sewers. The village board even turned down several individual requests for exemption from the ordinance after reviewing the claimed hardship it would cause and is now in the process of bringing court action against property owners who have not yet complied with the ordinance.

Arlington Heights last fall put a ban on draining residential roofs into storm or sanitary sewers in new development, but has not been so stringent as Palatine in requiring disconnection of previously connected downspouts, of which there are an estimated 1,000.

But whether villages elect to forbid such connections or not, the Metropolitan Sanitary District forbids connecting downspouts into any sanitary sewer leading into its interceptor sewers. However, the Sanitary District has left the enforcement of this law mainly to local municipalities.

SUCH "OLDER" villages as Palatine and Arlington, and also Mount Prospect in this area, have a particular problem in that they have combined storm and sanitary sewers in their older sections. And it is connections of downspouts to sanitary sewers that causes the acute — and smelly — problems.

It is the overloaded sanitary sewers that most frequently flood basements with a mixture of water and raw sewage. And the sanitary sewers overloaded with storm water in turn overload sewage disposal plants, resulting in additional stream pollution problems.

In all new northwest area subdivisions, storm and sanitary sewers are separate. Very few homeowners or developers are tempted to pay for extending a pipe underground from a downspout to a storm sewer out in the street, (although an occasional village requires this on the assumption that it is a good thing to do, with Northbrook being one such village).

But many are tempted to, and do, connect their downspouts to their inside house drains, which go into the sanitary sewer. A few evidently do so knowing that it is illegal.

THEREFORE, basement flooding caused by overloaded sanitary sewers is common in new developments as well as older ones. Illegal downspout connections plus the tampering of individual homeowners with natural drainage contours has compounded basement flooding problems in Buffalo Grove.

Wheeling has been making some mild attempts to cut down on the huge amount of storm water which goes into its sanitary sewers by eliminating illegal downspout connections. It doesn't cost anything for a homeowner to cut off his downspout with a hacksaw and funnel the water onto his lawn, Wheeling President A. R. McIntyre has aid in regard to enforcement of the law.

"Water is no problem until you bring it together" in one place, states John Sheafer, chief hydrologist of the Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission.

In most cases, according to Scheafer, people would be better off without gutters (eavestroughs) on their houses. Often "people flood their basements by taking the water off the roof and putting it in their basements," he commented.

SOME HOMES are constructed, however, so that the water running off the roof might also run down the side of the house unless it had eavestroughs.

But most homes, and almost all ranch-type structures, have overhanging eaves, and water drips directly from them to the ground when permitted. Because of such construction, the villages of Elk Grove and Hoffman Estates have not concerned themselves much with downspout regulations, and most of the homes there do not have eavestroughs.

Not only would basements be much less likely to flood, but storm water removal problems in an entire community can be alleviated if everyone would put the water from the roofs on his lawn rather than directly into sewers or streets.

Anything which slows the immediate runoff of water, that is, retards its flow at its source, may be the difference between a creek going over its banks or not, or preventing a sewer from flowing the wrong way.

No single house will make a difference. of course, but the composite of the runoff from all or many homes will. For about 30 to 40 per cent of a residentially developed area is under roof or pavement.

CONSIDERATION of the lowly downspout will perhaps also bring greater awareness of water problems connected with larger considerations over which the public has control: For instance, pouring the runoff water from the 10 acres of roof and parking areas of the new Wheeling High School directly into an $800,000 storm sewer which had just been constructed in Wheeling to prevent reoccurences of the 1958 and 1960 floods the village had.

As an example of the expense of removing storm water, over $10,000,000 has been spent on developments connected with Weller Creek, which drains Arlington, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. More is still to be spent.

Storm water should be thought of "as an asset rather than something you have to immediately get rid of," hydrologist Sheafer declares.

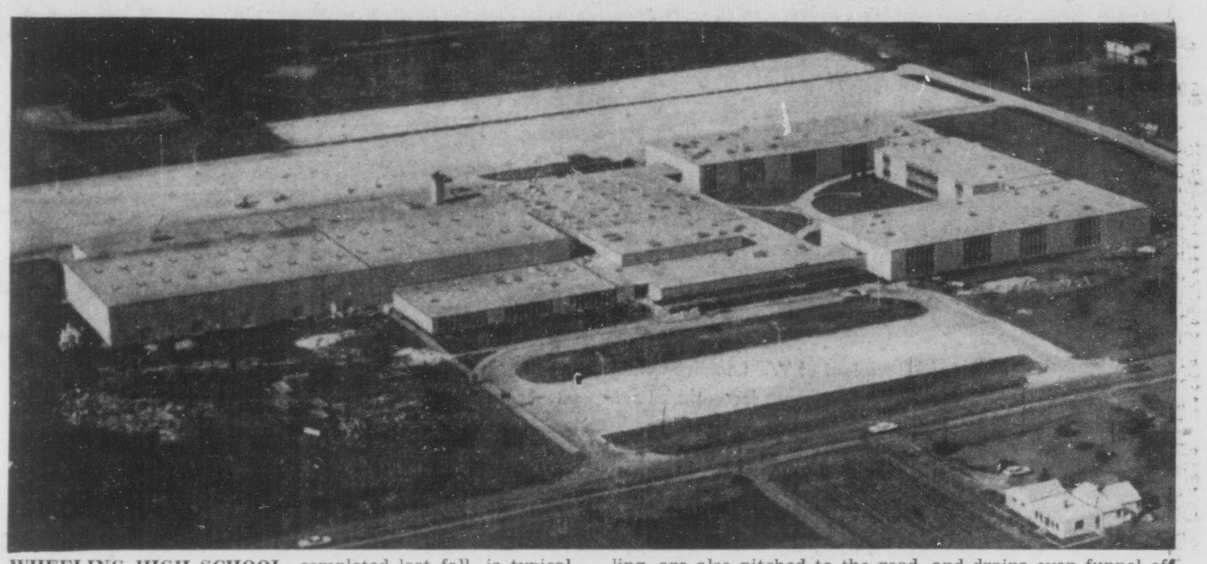
For greener lawns, he advises letting the water from the roof soak into the lawn. On his own lawn, he said, rather than a flat slanting grade he has created shallow depressions to give it time to sink into the soil.

"Splattering" can be prevented where bare earth is exposed at the roof drip line by a ribbon of gravel.

A HIGH SCHOOL on the south side of Chicago temporarily retains storm water on its roof by means of a weir at the outlet, with no extra structural work necessary. "The structural design of roofs for the snow load in this area is equivalent to six inches of water," Sheafer explained.

A few industries pond their storm water either on their roofs, parking lots, or in retention basins for use in their industrial operations at a considerable savings on water costs, the hydrologist continued. "Rain water is soft, good quality water." And earth from the excavation of a retention basin [illegible] be used in the construction of the plant itself.

Another consideration is that shallow "reflecting" ponds are used on some large industrial sites becuase the maintenance of the pond is less than of landscaping. (A15



WHEELING HIGH SCHOOL, completed last fall, is typical of the many huge parking and roof areas from which storm water is being sent gushing into storm sewers. Besides requiring communities to invest many millions of its tax funds in storm sewers, an increasingly precious resource, water, is being thrown away. Wheeling High is located on a 38-acre site, an dits roof and parking area are reported to be about 10 acres in area. But the grounds, hardpacked from much trampling, are also pitched to the road, and drains even funnel off the water from the cinder running track in the background. Storm water from the high school site goes directly into an $800,000 storm sewer constructed by the village after undergoing severe floods in 1958 and 1960, with the storm sewer emptying into Buffalo Creek. Peak runoffs from the high school site and a new industrial area close by will take up much of the new sewer's capacity. A15

MOUNT PROSPECT

O Ko Ca Ne Le Camp Fire Girls in November learned about the St. Joseph Indian School at Chamberlin, S. D. and the many needs of that institution. Radio announcer Wally Phillips on radio station WGN told that he had the names, ages and sizes of many of the children living there who would be delighted to receive any gift at Christmas time. The group wrote to Mr. Phillips and received the name of Ruby Poitra, an Indian orphan, who is the same age as themselves.

The Camp Fire Girls then set out to earn $1 each by performing tasks at their homes. This money, together with a contribution from their leader and assistant leader, made possible the purchase of a red plaid skirt, cardigan sweater, knee length sox and underwear for the girl.

The girls just recently received a thank you note from Father Tom who is in charge of the school. They are planning to correspond regularly with the girl.

Girls in the Ko Ca Ne Le Camp Fire group are Debby Henseleit, Diane Kanson, Lita Rogers, Nancy Schott, Donna Sigfusson, Jane Skafte, Kathy Sutter and Leslie Rasmusson. Leader of the group is Mrs. Wayne Schott; assistant is Mrs. William Rasmussin.

O Ki Hi Da Ka Junior-Hi Camp Fire Girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Garlinghouse, recently made candles from sheets of beeswax. They are currently learning to knit and are working on long stocking caps for themselves. Girls in this group are Sarah Anderson, Janet Donovan, Janet Garlinghouse, Dana Grantham, Virginia Laflen, Ann Livingson and Kathleen McAuliff. Assistant leader is Mrs. Donald Laflen. (B9

Q. Isn't it the girl's privilege to select the table when entering a restaurant with a male escort?

A. No; she should allow her escort to do this.

Request for More Policemen Denied

"Patrol duty is almost nonexistent," Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie has said of his police and their work in the northwest suburbs.

And this will continue to be the case.

Last Friday, the Circuit Court Committee on Help turned down the sheriff's request for 68 new police officers.

The committee's Judge Thomas C. Donovan commented that 97 per cent of the people in Cook County are in municipalities and to add more sheriff's police would be "a form of double taxation."

ALL WAS NOT black for the sheriff, however.

Ogilvie will get 28 new court bailiffs, 15 personal bailiffs for judges and 15 men for transporting prisoners to and from the suburban courts.

Had Ogilvie gotten his request for new police officers, the northwest suburbs would have gotten 17 of them.

Presently only one and sometimes two patrol cars operate at one time in the northwest suburban area.

OGILVIE HAD been opposed in his request by the Civic Federation.

This organization contends that unincorporated areas should either incorporate or be annexed by nearby municipalities. (B10

To Debate Future of Religion

An exciting year is shaping up for religion. And it will affect the lives of almost everyone in the vast Cnicagoland.

This is hinted by three probing journalists who will participate in a discussion Sunday at 9:30 a.m. over WMAQ-TV (channel 5).

"In This World" at that time will feature three religious editors in debate with Dr. E rl C. Dahlstrom, president of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago and professor of pastoral studies at North Park Seminary. The journalists are the Rev. Stephen Rose, editor of Renewal Magazine, Miss Helen Johnson, associate editor of Together Magazine, and David R. Meade, religion editor of the Chicago Daily News.

They will discuss the issues and concerns which it is anticipated will confront the church in 1965. Among problems on which the panelists and Dr. Dahlstrom will touch are ecumenicity, racial relations, poverty, education, women's roles in religion, church-state affairs, new types of ministers, and the radical right.

The telecast will be in color. (A15

Why He's Not Half Bad Looking!

Critic's Corner

A New Image For Chicago

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Editor

It was A. J. Liebling who tagged Chicago with the name "Second City."

But though Chicago must curtsy to New York City in population, she can hold her skirts with disdain. For as Chicagoans know she is first in righteousness.

The latest example showing Chicago has changed her image from hoyden to convent-mannered demoiselle is the indignation Critics corner standing her fathers show over reading lists on her college campus.

The father of a 26-year-old daughter has demanded that a "filthy and morally offensive book be removed from a literature course's required reading list at Wright Junior College. Wright is part of the Chicago school system.

RAYMOND SNYDER is getting all kinds of people to judge whether such a book should be required reading at the college level — the City Council, the board of education, Ben Willis, the school superintendent; and the Illinois Education Association.

Roman C. Pucinski, an Illinois Democratic congressman, has even been able to helpfully suggest the federal government should establish rules on how to deal with pornography. Local authorities need a standard by which to judge a book such as James Baldwin's "Another Country," he said.

Parental pressure on college professors is not new but often it is confined to the high school or lower grade level. Many can remember when "Catcher in the Rye," the classic portrayal of adolescence by J. D. Salinger, had troubles in places like Tulsa, Louisville, and San Jose.

CLOSER AT home, an English professor at Northwestern University, a private institution, was able to ignore and jibe at the parent who called to tell him how scandalous it was that his child should read a book with four letter words.

Perhaps Chicago's school system could adopt the candid advice the deputy school superintendent of the District of Columbia school system once gave, "Select books that are not objectionable to anyone." Such a policy would cost a price, of course, because it would eliminate such books as Nathaniel Hawthorn's "Scarlet Letter," Henry Fielding's "Tom Jones," or John Steinbeck's "Cannery Row."

Snyder's indignant protest over Baldwin's book is only a matter of interest because Chicago is considered to have virtue in these things. After all Chicago policemen on their beat are told to check for "nasty" books. Thus in Chicago, books like "Tropic of Cancer" and "Tropic of Capricorn" by Henry Miller have been banned with the backing of the Illinois Supreme Court. It is only the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court declaring such a ban unconstitutional that has put these books back in circulation.

LORENSON

Someone suggested it was because the staple of many homes, "Time" magazine labeled "Candy" by Terry Southern as "dirty as hell" that Chicago's vigilante force went into action this summer.

The harrassment over "Candy's" sale in Chicago finally forced city booksellers to band together to fight. Police authorities up to this time operated under the assumption their case might not hold up in court against a bookseller but it would give him plenty of trouble.

The city counsel's pattern was to charge a bookseller with violation of the city obscenity law. This law evaluates a book as obscene on the basis of "whether an average person applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken at a whole, appeals to prurient interest."

CHICAGO'S starched petticoats need not wilt under liberalizing influences elsewhere. Morris Ernst and Allan Schwartz, attorneys who recently published a book on censorship, consider the trend throughout the country as brightening.

They noted that classics are gathering immunity from suppression no matter how obscene in definition. Literary works in general circulation no longer are judged by their supposed effect on the young or perverted but on the "average" man. Books must be read as a whole.

Books with literary style or merit oi the eyes of writers will get a great boost no matter how provacative. Such books are "Fanny Hill" or "Lady Chatterly's Lover."

Fortunately, those who harass city booksellers — the columnists, the "decent" literature organizations, and the police — do not believe the right to free expression and the right to read are rights, not gifts.

The Way We See It

Municipal Action Key to Downtown

In the past several years, older villages in the northwest suburbs have, in varying degrees, come to face problems of age and deterioration in their respective central commercial districts.

Particularly in the last two years, reports of planning, development and revitalization activities in these areas have been frequent. On most officials' priority lists, the topic rates high.

But reports on activity are only one aspect. A series of four articles just concluded in Paddock Publications newspapers examined the underlying causes, the attitudes, the failures as well.

In touring the older villages of the northwest area, we found that physical similarities are striking. The problem faced by Arlington Heights, Bensenville, Addison, and Palatine is one of inertia.

Despite tremendously important changes in transportation trends and shopping habits, the typical suburban downtown has remained esesntially within the image it put forth 20 years ago.

There has been growth, but for the most part it has been along the old lines: a small new store in a block of old stores.

Only in the past few years has the "new look" come to a few downtown properties. In Bensenville and Addison, shopping centers typical of those normally set in areas of new development have been established adjacent to the old central business districts.

In Palatine and Arlington Heights the Jewel Tea Co. has set large combination grocery and drug stores in the downtown districts, but vast parking areas and modern architecture set them apart from the old downtown grocery. Mount Prospect has made changes, but these improvements stand alongside stagnant properties.

There are other examples of bold new work on an old field, but this is only part of the answer to the downtown problem.

For general redevelopment, it is quite apparently necessary, to change the field upon which private enterprises may be launched; and this means municipal action.

Three common problems which often present enough resistance to kill private interest in central area redevelopment are traffic congestion, lack of parking and open space, and high land costs which are not balanced by permitted density of use.

In all of these areas, alert village officials may take steps to change the picture.

Nearby Des Plaines has tackled its traffic problems by creating one-way streets, and at least some commentary on traffic has been included in all planning studies for central business districts in the northwest area.

Arlington Heights village officials are now exploring possible depression of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks throughout the downtown to remove one cause of congestion.

Parking lots may be acquired, and in some instances have been acquired, using revenue bonds which spread the cost to those whom the lots serve. Merchants with foresight may pay the cost to allow their customers to park free, but municipal officials must get things started.

The biggest need, though, is a sensible look at zoning requirements in conjunction with an overall plan for any downtown area. Developers and commercial interests depend a great deal on simple economics to dictate their location.

Redevelopment plans pegged on existing zoning ordinances, whether they prescribe significant changes in all other areas or do not fail to face the problem that the old requirements have not provided sufficient economic incentives to private interests.

High-rise building construction has been selected as a key to downtown revitalization by Arlington Heights and Elmhurst, and the choice by Arlington officials was both dramatic and admirable in the face of a small group of vocal opponents.

Other northwest suburban villages with similar problems should take note of the action in Arlington Heights, for this village may well set an example for others to follow — but may at the same time monopolize new commercial and office development which could have gone to another community with foresight.

In the Wrong Arena?

Republicans in Schaumburg and Wheeling Townships are making a point of running party slates in the forthcoming township elections.

Two years ago, they helped form nominally non-partisan slates.

The issues in a township election do not lend themselves to partisan positions.

Township government has two main tasks: relief of the poor and maintenance of township roads. So far, no one has been able to develop a particular Republican approach or a particular Democratic approach to either of these questions.

Township government in urban areas lacks a future. The basic reason is that municipalities continue to annex more and more of the land.

Some township supervisors have done good jobs of helping their township's needy people, but the task probably belongs with trained social workers.

Likewise, some township road commissioners have done good jobs in their field, but it still appears that these tasks could be performed more efficiently and economically if integrated into the county highway departments.

We can understand the desire of Republicans to keep their party organizations in trim and to enjoy the taste of victory by running a party slate in township elections. But we wonder if the time and energy involved in the township elections might not be better applied in an arena containing more political significance.

Citizens Tell Hope for 1965

Peace, Civic Progress

By DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Editor

Ending the war in Viet Nam, local accomplishments and personal financial security were among the things 30 northwest suburban residents mentioned when asked this question:

What single thing would you most like to see take place during 1965?

More than half the people said, "I couldn't answer that. I wouldn't know. I'd have to have time to think."

Those who were most vocal spoke of Viet Nam.

PRIBILSKI

Mrs. Richard Reiss, 122 Mohawk Lane, Hoffman Estates, said, "I'd like to see peace in Viet Nam. I'd like to see the soldiers brought home. The whole thing is very unfair when you see families of soldiers suffering."

Then Mrs. Reiss struck a militant note, "We should get out or go all the way. It's very unfair for the soldiers to fight with the light equipment when we have such powerful equipment to give them."

DEAN H. SMITH, 1208 Busse Road, Mount Prospect, said of Viet Nam, "I don't know which way we should go. We should either do something in Viet Nam or pull all the way out.

"If I thought the people of Viet Nam were behind us, I'd be in favor of expanding the action. If they were not, then pull out completely."

John M. Isard, 139 Maxon Lane, Streamwood, echoed the sentiments of Smith and Mrs. Reiss. He said, "I'd like to see some sort of settlement in Viet Nam. It seems our policy is so mixed up. I would favor somewhat an expansion of the war—but not too much. The thing is we have to do something. We've been pushed around so much."

THE IDEA of the United States being pushed around in Viet Nam and elsewhere was commented upon by Paul E. George, 932 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

"I'd like to see a little stiffening of the backbone for financial aid to people who tweek our nose at every opportunity. I think we should see that we take care or our requirements at home instead of everything across the pond. I lean toward getting out of Viet Nam."

Jack Brookhouse, 33 E. Armitage, Addison, and Maris V. Lewis, 1007 N. Ridge, Arlington Heights, said simply in answer to the question, "Settlement in Viet Nam."

SHIFTING TO the local homefront, several residents expressed wishes for things to be done in 1965 in their own communities.

Mrs. Gerald J. Donahue, 207 Orchard, Bensenville, said, "I'd like to see the library referendum passed here in Bensenville. It would be good if it were to go through. But people defeated the last referendum. For them. Taxes were everything."

As a second choice, Mrs. Donahue said, "I live here on Irving Park. It's a terrible traffic jam. I'd like to see Irving Park improved."

SPEAK UP!

Traffic was uppermost in the minds of other people.

"I would like to see better traffic regulation out here. That's for sure," said Mrs. Harry A. Kaiser, 409 W. Olive, Prospect Heights.

"I sometimes think the traffic lights out here are badly fixed."

AND MRS. Thomas Finnerty, 563 St. Mary's Parkway, Buffalo Grove, commented, "That there be more cautious driving."

While peace was usually mentioned in connection with Viet Nam, to Edgar W. Van Cott, 1401 Walnut, Hanover Park, peace should come to Hanover Park.

Van Cott, a home owners association officer, said, "Peace come to Hanover Park in 1965. Peace among the factions of Hanover Park."

Only one person mentioned the civil rights issue.

RICHARD R. Mitchell, 363 N. Clark, Palatine, said, "I'd like to see the civil rights thing progress more. Let's have less activity and more understanding."

There was a time when taxes and their abolishment was the hottest subject. Yet only two residents referred to the abolishment of some taxes.

"I'd like to see our excise said Mrs. Julian B. Hamtaxes repealed this year," mond, 550 Verde Lane, Elk Grove Village.

She continued, "Especially the elimination of the telephone tax. I know they talk about it but never do anything about it. Excise and telephone taxes have been bothering me for a long time.

"It is so easy for the taxes to be passed but you have to fight so hard to repeal them."

JERROLD L. Jensen, 404 Wa-Pella, Mount Prospect, is retired. He said, "Well, what I'd like to see is something passed for us guys who are living on social security. For instance, have the first $5,000 tax free on property taxes. You hear a lot about help for us old folks. That stuff about medicare is a lot of hooey.

"If they wouldn't tax us and leave us keep the money we'd be all right. How can we live decently on the income we do get. That's the thing of concern to all of us over 65."

And a young Wood Dale man when asked the question commented, "That's easy. Getting a job."

Perhaps Mrs. E. J. Lewinski, 1015 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, supmmed up what a lot of people think when she said, "I think if we could teach people to be kinder to one another, that would accomplish an awful lot."

A Need to Revise Reward

by BOB CUMMINS

John Bell Williams of Mississippi and Albert Watson of South Carolina have been sent to the foot of the class by their Democratic colleagues in the House of Representatives.

Because they beat the drums for Barry Goldwater in the Presidential election they have been deprived of all their seniority privileges as Democrats and now rank below the rawest Democratic newcomer in the House.

CUMMINS

The two gentlemen have made no bones about their resentment at being treated like "second-class Democrats." Here are two men who worked their fingers to the bone for Barry Goldwater and now their fellow Democrats don't appreciate them. What next?

CERTAINLY Williams and Watson have my sympathy. I believe they are victims of the sort of thoughtlessness that has become quite prevalent in recent years, which accepts the quick and obvious answer as the correct one and thereby does terrible injustice to some people, such as Williams and Watson.

Let's look at some examples.

First, imagine that we are at a hard-fought holiday basketball tournament. For days, highly trained athletes have battled their hearts out for the coveted trophy. Now the tournament is over, a champion has been crowned, and it is time to pick the all-star team.

What players are chosen for the all-star team? Aren't they invariably the players who scored many points, snagged lots of rebounds, dazzled the crowd and their foes with amazing dribbling and ball-handling? You know it.

NOW, I WOULD like to see some other types picked as all-stars for a change. I mean, the player who made only two shots out of 19 tries from the field and one out of eight from the "charity stripe." I'd like to see a little all-star recognition for the player who double-dribbled at the crucial moment, or threw a wild pass up into the crowd, or who hit the bottom of the rim on a lay-up.

Aren't they deserving? Didn't they help win a game? Sure, it was for the other team, but is that important? I know their coach was disgusted with them. But the other coach wasn't; he thought they were great. I do, too, and I nominate them for the next all-star team.

Once in an Air Force school I attended we were given a multiple choice test. There were three answers provided for each question but only one was right.

IF YOU CLOSED your eyes and marked your paper you could get a score of 33 per cent. A GI from Detroit named Davis scored 22 per cent and was ridiculed. I regret to say that I joined in the chuckling.

However, there wasn't another person in the class who could have done in a dozen tries what Davis did on his first attempt. I wonder what his secret was? Now—too late—I am ready to honor Davis and give him his due.

Here at Paddock's we run a homemaker-of-the-year contest and I have been a little disturbed at the one-sidedness of the contest. I mean, almost all the finalists are so competent.

Buffalo Grove Reader Defends Birch Society

The Paddock Publication editorial, "Birch Propaganda Must be Answered," December 24, 1964 appears to be a belated attempt by the editor to participate in that popular national pastime — Blast the Birchers.

Newspaper editors, along with other news media, have for months found it popular to blast the John Birch Society; now at this late date Paddock Publications joins in the crusade. Why?

One reason might be that the editor realizes that the Society is gaining significant support and respect throughout the Northwest Suburban area.

A second reason for the editors's belated entry into the smear the birchers campaign might be part of a national campaign judging by the editor's reference to Dr. Arthur Larson and his "National Council of Civic Responsibility." Does the editor recognize the Council of Civic Responsibility as a "front" for the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) often times referred to as the "Invisible Government"?

The editor identifies Arthur Larson as Director of the World Rule of Law Center at Duke University but he doesn't tell the purpose of that Center. Is the Center working toward the repeal of the Connally Reservation? Is the Center formulating plans to increase the role of the World Court over American affairs?

The editor also identifies Dr. Larson as Chairman of the National Council for Civic Responsibility but fails to identify the Council. Are we the readers supposed to accept the cause, without question, merely because the name Arthur Larson is associated with it?

It is probably impossible for the public to learn first hand how the Council for Civic Responsibility was formed, but a pair of events might give a clue.

A story in the Chicago Sun-Times, Saturday, September 19, 1964 by Bennell Heinecke reported that the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) was meeting in Chicago. Then, on Wednesday, September 23, 1964, the Sun-Times carried a UPI release announcing the establishment of the National Council for Civic Responsibility. This news release listed 16 well-known persons as members of the new Council. Of the 16 members, 6 are known members of the CFR: Marion B. Folsom, David Lilienthal, James P. Mitchell, Harold Stassen, Dr. Detlev Bronk and Dr. Erwin Griswold. This is not to say that the others are not members of the CFR, for membership lists are not readily available.

The timing of the CFR meeting and the establishment of the new Council, combined with the overlapping membership, strongly suggests that the Council for Civic Responsibility was organized as a "front" for the Council on Foreign Relations. If this is not true I must appeal to the editor to set the record straight.

The UPI story said the purpose of the new Council was to expose and correct the activities of the "front" organizations of the John Birch Society; i.e. "extremist organizations, linked to the Birch Society through top officers or principal financial supporters." Included as front organizations are: Americans for Constitutional Action, America's Future, Christian Crusade, Christian Freedom Foundation, Church League of America, Citizens Foreign Aid Committee, Conservative Society of America, Liberty Lobby, Life Lines, Manion Forum, National Economic Council, Dan Smoot Reports and We, the People.

The primary common concern of these "front" organizations is anti-communism and preservation of the American Heritage.

The Public Relations Director of the John Birch Society, John Rousellot offered to debate Arthur Larson on television or in public forum and "let the American people decide for themselves which organizations deal in truth."

What has happened since the establishment of the National Council for Civic Responsibility? Several proposals have been made to cripple these above listed organizations including a proposal to remove their tax-exempt status.

One of the first major pieces of literature was the publication of the book "The FBI Nobody Knows," by Fred J. Cook; a serious indictment of the Bureau and J. Edgar Hoover for their anti-communist activity. Since that time the FBI has been the center of a national controversy.

Another action is the renewed effort by the Civil Liberties Union and others to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Another is a series of six 90-minute TV programs on ABC to propagandize the UN and depict the "right Wing radicals" as anti-American, anti-humanitarian, anti-motherhood, etc.

Anyone familiar with Birch Society literature knows that it depends heavily upon the FBI, the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Senate Internal Security Sub-Committee. Any effort to discredit the Society must also discredit its source of information.

To criticize the Society because it "sows suspicion and dissension" is a total distortion of the facts. I am not a member of the Society, not because I disagree with its work, but rather because I fear social, economic and political reprisals if I were identified as a member. Today it seems more acceptable to be a socialist or a fellow-traveler than to be a Bircher.

In this day and age when the public is considered mature enough to be exposed to discussions—of sex, crime, drug addiction, etc., it would seem that the public would also be mature enough to be exposed to information available through the Birch Society. There is much to be learned.

Carload of Boys Threw Eggs at Girl Carolers

I wish to commend the carfull of Arlington Heights young gentlemen (we know the house they crawled out of, and I use the word "gentlemen" loosely), who on the evening of Dec. 23 spread their own brand of obnoxious Christmas cheer, by repeatedly egg-pelting a group of eighth-grade girl carolers from Arlington's South Junior High, my niece being one of the victims.

As if that wasn't bad enough, they followed the girls and tried to pick them up in their car, until the confused and frightened girls ran back to the school and enlisted the aid of a janitor, who scared away the pack of, "ambassadors of good will."

Merry Christmas — peace on earth — good will toward men, but why must there always be exceptions — especially in a community where children are supposed to be well bred, well educated and from cultured "caliber" homes?

to the mother who chronically burns the muffins? After all, it's a lot harder to clean and sew and wash dishes in a house full of smoke and the mothers who do it deserve a little recognition, I believe. I call their achievement to the attention of the judges in next year's homemaker contest.

These are just a few examples of snap judgment of the sort that has condemned the two Dixie Congressmen. If the ordeal of Watson and Williams calls attention to superficial thinking, perhaps their sacrifice will not have been in vain.

'Equal Time' Requested for Birch Society

I wonder—

Why such provacative reporting in the editorial on the John Birch Society? May we please have the name and address of the person who said Dr. Nye was a communist? Who received a "nocturnal phone call?" Having been reared in the American way, I don't like to condemn someone without hearing their side of the story.

I always thought the best way to find out about an organization was to read its literature, look in on its meetings, check on the background of its leaders — but if Dr. Larsen is going to do this for us, what are his credentials, please?

Excuse my ignorance, but what the heck is "The World Rule of Law Center" at Duke University where he was former director? What do they advocate? What kind of people are connected with the center"?

How about hearing from a director of the John Birch Society? I'd like to hear their side the press has covered the anti-John Birch side so thoroughly—what about "equal time"?

'Unfair to Link Birch Society With Violence'

I am enclosing (quite reluctantly) a check for $6 for a renewal of our subscription.

I could have enjoyed this little annual ritual much more if you had not printed that "Call to Arms" against the John Birch Society in your editorial column in the Dec. 24th issue.

I am not (at least yet) a member of the Society although I feel that I have made a relatively complete and objective study of the Society, its aims, methods, and structure. I was prompted to do this by the virtual torrent of abuse heaped upon it during the recent political campaign. I will now attempt here to reiterate all of the conclusions I came to. Suffice it to say there is certainly no comparison, in my opinion, between the objectives and methods of the Society and those of the Communist conspiracy that it was formed to combat.

As a conservative, I usually find your editorials fair and enlightening. Quite frequently I don't agree with your editorial opinion but appreciate hearing the other side.

I must say I was really surprised and shocked by the Dec. 24 editorial. I got the distinct impression that you were guilty of the very things cited most frequently in condemnations of the John Birch Society. For example, from the familiarity I think I have with the John Birch Society I sincerely doubt that the Society would have called Dr. Nye a Communist. For my own satisfaction I would appreciate some documentation on this charge. Until I can be furnished with such I will feel inclined to consider the statement in the third paragraph of your editorial in the half-truth category.

I was considerably more upset, however, by what can only be considered as a very carefully planted but diabolical insinuation that the John Birch Society's methods include resort to stonings and bombings. While such tactics and worse are well known tools of the KKK and Communist agitators I consider it grossly unfair, to say the least, to even indirectly associate the John Birch Society with violence of any kind. That your editorial does not do this would be very difficult to prove.

Since the current popular line of the Liberals is that they are just as concerned about Communist infiltration in our society as anyone else why don't we see Liberal editors denouncing some of the well known Communist-front organizations, at least occasionally? If nothing else it would break up some of the monotony of the almost continuous barrage against the organization of sincere stalwarts who have devoted time, reputation, and energy, to help preserve freedom for all of us.

Parking Lot Is' Complicated, Confusing Obstacle Course'

I have been driving all my adult life and have yet to see a more complicated and confusing obstacle course for a human or automobile to run through than the parking lot at Elk Groves Park and Shop Center.

It's a jungle of violations, with arrows pointing one way (those that are still up), and cars obstinately parked the other. The lanes between the parked cars are painfully narrow, and parking spaces have shopping carts left in them by thoughtless shoppers.

Cars are continually parked illegally along the curb.

In order to get to the stores, especially at rush hours, you must make your way through a crazy quilt of oddly parked cars, with weaving traffic coming at you from all directions at different speeds, wedge your way through parked cars at the curb, tip-toe or worse, through the maze of bikes lying on the walk—then—pale and shaken, you remember the new scratches just acquired on your car, and you wonder why there are not any police patroling the lot.

Is this the answer—a police officer busily writing out ticket after ticket at the lot, or is it up to us, the Elk Grove shoppers to clean up the mess we started in the first place?

As a driver and a resident of Elk Grove Village, I appeal to you, all that use our Park and Shop parking lot, let's make it and keep it neat and orderly, a lot to be proud of, by obeying arrows, speed limits, and "no parking" signs. If lots at Topps, Zayers and Rolling Meadows shopping centers can do it, so can we!

All this mess and confusion at the parking lot is enough to keep an experienced driver like myself on constant alert, but now that my teen-aged daughter is driving, I give a silent prayer every time she steers the family car in to the shopping center. May Heaven help her and others like her—if we can't!!!

Answers Letter To Fence Post On Red Policy

This is an answer to a letter written to the Fence Post Dec. 24 by Edwin Kudalis.

In a naive manner, you wrote about how we are shrewdly maneuvering ourselves in world affairs, the general "goofing" of our adversaries and the Rostow interpreted "mellowing" of the Russians. These conclusions must have been reached by interesting means.

I suppose after studying our tremendous victory of the Bay of Pigs, the architectural beauty of the Berlin Wall, the vote of confidence by our UN collegues over our attempted rescue mission in the Congo, the one-a-month types of Vietnam governments, the weekly burning and beating of our counselor offices and personnel, one would surmise that the Russians are "slipping."

What you fail to realize is that all of Russia's physical and political gains have been, and will be, acquired by violence of one sort or another. Russia's European satallites were gotten and are being held by violence. Russia's political maneuvering always has violence as its flanker. Deceit, blackmail, murder are a very important portion of its foreign policy. Why even their recent scientific gains could not have been made possible without the wholesale looting of scientific minds and material from her satallites. There is not a shred of evidence pointing to any "softening" of her way of life.

[illegible] ed the President to do some[illegible] tack. Even this took two attacks by the enemy, that we know of, before the President was jarred enough to retaliate. A more normal reaction, judging from past performances, would have been a "strong note."

This international intrigue of politics, wars, spying and populace domination is not complicated to understand. Any housewife, truck driver, salesman or secretary can understand it. You are either winning or losing. Count up your score.

Project Agriculture . . . ZIP Coded Mailings Move With Frost Line

Farmers and Gardeners Benefit From New Service

The old saw that "Everyone talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it," no longer applies to the Post Office Department.

It's ZIP Coding the Frost Line!

In doing something about the weather, the Department is offering a boon to farmers, nurserymen, truckers and businessmen whose margin of profit depends, to a great degree, on beating Jack Frost to the market.

Dubbed PROJECT A—for Agriculture—the new program consists of speeding delivery of mail order seeds, plants, and food products by ZIP Coding parcels according to the movement of the Frost Line.

Here's how Project A works:

A farm or a nursery ships its perishable products—flowers, shrubberies, trees, vegetables, seeds, etc.—by parcel post, ZIP Coded according to the frost lines announced annually by the Weather Bureau.

In filling orders from customers, the mailer breaks down these weather zones into ZIP Code sectional centers, to which delivery is made directly from his local post office.

The result? Plants are received days earlier.

Does it work? The Jackson and Perkins Nurseries, of Newark, N.J.—the world's largest nursery and the largest rose growers in the United States—are sold on the program.

They have found—in shipping nearly a million parcels of perishable plants—that an estimated three handlings are eliminated between the point of mailing and the point of receipt, when the parcels are ZIP Coded according to the Frost Line.

And the Jackson and Perkins parcels were received "in almost record time and in excellent condition."

Study Group

Developed by a Parcel Post Study group established by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski to revitalize parcel post services, Project A will also provide special Post Office Department labels, free of charge, which identify ZIP Coded parcels as agricultural or botanical products, subject to spoilage or damage.

Pool Cases

The Parcel Post Study Group has also devised a new program for extensive use of "pool cases"—large cardboard boxes in which smaller parcels destined for the same sectional center are pooled for mailing—to further reduce parcel post damage.

Upon its arrival, the pool case would be immediately opened, and the contents delivered quickly to the addresses in nearby communities.

This method saves time en-route, by reducing the number of necessary post office handlings, and greatly reduces the likelihood of damage—which traditionally has increased with each handling.

President Johnson has called for the best possible postal service at the lowest possible cost. Project Agriculture and pool casing are just two new programs recently initiated by the Post Office Department.

Scheduled Parcel Post

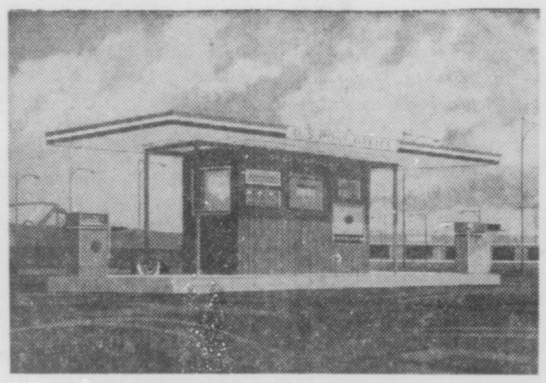
At Lansing, Mich., Mr. Fredrick Belen, Deputy Postmaster General, recently supervised the start of a new program for shipment of automotive parts using ZIP Code and pool cases.

In many areas of the country parcel post shipments are being scheduled so that mailers can be told when they can expect their packages to be delivered. In many instances next day delivery is being accomplished.

On Sept. 9 at Annapolis, Md., Mr. Gronouski announced an experiment for "scheduled" delivery over about 16,000 square miles in the mid-Atlantic area for parcel post, providing guaranteed delivery within specified times between 656 post offices. This is the first of many such programs being developed.

Christmas Stamps

More than 2 billion special Christmas stamps will be sold this year. Each sheet of 100 stamps will contain 25 each of four designs.



The nation's first self-service, round-the-clock post office was opened in suburban Washington, D.C. in late October, 1964. One of many innovations resulting from President Johnson's directive for the best possible mail service at lowest cost, this experimental unit offers stamps, post cards, and stamped envelopes at cost, plus limited parcel post services. The unit is located in a large shopping center.

Postmaster General Only Ph. D. Ever In Cabinet

Postmaster General John Austin Gronouski, took office September 30, 1963. He is the only known member of a President's cabinet ever to hold an earned Ph. D.

The Nation's top postal executive has gained a reputation as a skilled administrator, educator, and economist. In conducting the farflung operations of the Post Office Department, he runs, in Navy parlance, a tight ship.

The postal budget he submitted to Congress in January of 1964 for fiscal 1965 was $150 million under the estimate made 4 months earlier. This reduction was achieved without eliminating essential services, and within the framework of safeguarding the livelihood of career employees.

As major projects of his postal administration, Mr. Gronouski has taken action to speed up parcel post deliveries and to cut down delay and damage to the mails.

Under his leadership, strides have been made in implementing President Johnson's program barring discrimination and assuring equal job opportunities for the Department's 590,000 employees.

The productivity of clerical help was boosted 4.3 percent in fiscal 1964 over 1960, producing savings of $69 million over that period.

The Postmaster General's human touch was characterized in a news story in the Schenectady (New York) Gazette during a visit to that city in May of 1964. The story described him as "the warmest man since Wallace Beery."

Wisconsin Born

Mr. Gronouski was born October 26, 1919, in Dunbar, Wis. He holds three degrees from the University of Wisconsin in the field of economics, with a major in public finance. He was awarded his Bachelor's Degree in 1942; his Master's Degree in 1947 and his Doctorate in 1955.

He entered the Army Air Corps in April of 1942 as a private and later served as a navigator with the rank of First Lieutenant. After 24 combat missions in the European Theatre of Operations, he was discharged in October of 1945.

Educator

Mr. Gronouski taught public finance, money and banking and related subjects at the University of Maine at Orono, Maine, and at Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., and statistics at Roosevelt College Evening School, Chicago, Ill.

Taxation Commissioner

In February 1959 he became research Director for the Wisconsin Department of Taxation and in the following year was appointed State Commissioner of Taxation by then Governor Gaylord Nelson.

He is a Catholic and is the first American of Polish decent in history to achieve Cabinet ranking.

Stamp Bargain

The nickle newspaper, phone call, and subway ride are a thing of the past.

But, you can still mail a letter from Nome, Alaska, or Honolulu, Hawaii, to Boston, Mass., or Miami, Fla., for only a nickle.

Your message can be sent a fifth of the way around the world for mere pennies.

Mr. ZIP Moves Long Distance Parcels Faster

Five Digit Code Skips Sorting Stops

Mr. ZIP has a new assignment—to accelerate delivery of long distance parcel post by 24 hours or more.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has announced plans to distribute outgoing parcel post by ZIP Code in the Nation's largest post offices. These offices account for more than 50 percent of the total volume.

The program, he said, not only speeds deliveries but reduces damage to parcels because of fewer handlings in transit.

"I have made a commitment to President Johnson to revitalize our sagging parcel post service," Mr. Gronouski said.

"I envisage a virtual revolution in the handling of parcels."

"The success of the program," Mr. Gronouski said, "hinges on public use of ZIP Code numbers in addressing packages, as well as the cooperation of firms that mail parcel post in large volume."

Explaining how the program operates, Mr. Gronouski pointed out that ZIP Coded parcel post bypasses larger cities where there is a heavy mail volume in post offices and is routed directly to the sectional center nearest its destination.

Faster-Safer Deliveries

Delivery thus is accelerated by as much as 24 hours, especially for packages which travel 300 miles or more. And since fewer handlings are involved, the possibility of damage is reduced.

By way of illustration, Mr. Gronouski said a parcel mailed from Los Angeles to Alexandria, Virginia, without ZIP Code must be halted enroute at Cincinnati for further sorting. From there it is sent to the Washington, D.C., sectional center and then forwarded to Alexandria.

But if the package is ZIP Coded it will bypass Cincinnati and move directly to Alexandria through the Washington sectional center, usually by local delivery star routes, saving as much as a day in transit.

ZIP Code is built around the concept of 566 of these sectional centers throughout the country, Mr. Gronouski explained. By the end of the year, he said, the distribution of outgoing parcel post by ZIP Code is expected to be implemented in each of these mail handling plants, which serve as transportation centers for surrounding post offices.

New design in mail boxes is tested out by Tyler Abell, Assistant Postmaster General. Experimental models in aluminum and stainless steel are lighter, better protected against vandalism and less costly to maintain.

Mailster Routes On Increase

Mailsters, the three wheeled red, white, and blue postal delivery vehicles, now are used on 12,000 routes. Ten thousand are being added.

Putting a footcarrier in a mailster gives him wheels, gives the patron more service, means economy for the Post Office Department, and adds comfort for mailmen.

The millions of people now on Mailster routes receive 6-day parcel post service from the same postman who delivers their other mail.

Trucks and personnel previously used on parcel post routes are freed for other important duties. Mechanized routes in areas away from the congestion of the city can usually be expanded to serve more people as the suburban areas grow.

Mail carriers are not required to carry pouches which can weigh up to 35 pounds when loaded. In northern areas mailsters are being equipped with heaters for winter use.

U.S. Sees Mail Explosion

The U.S. Post Office is in the middle of a mail explosion. Six billion more pieces of mail will be delivered this year than were delivered only 3 years ago. That's enough mail to reach around the Equator 25 times.

Motorized equipment has helped keep postal employment relatively stable. As the mail explosion continues, the total number of postal employees is expected to rise very slowly in comparison with the soaring volume figures.

Moves To City, Business Mail Surge Change Building Pattern

The growth of business mail and the move to urban areas have brought about a dramatic change in the Post Office's construction program.

The folksy, newsy letters from Aunt Matilda and her counterparts make up only 10 percent of the 72 billion pieces of mail that the U.S. Post Office Department will process this year.

Ninety percent of U.S. mail is business mail.

Since 1900 our population has multiplied about two and a half times—from roughly 76 million to 190 million. By the year 2000, if the present rate of growth continues, there will be more than 330 million U.S. citizens.

It is expected that 85 percent of the population will live in urban communities and only 15 percent in rural areas.

In President Johnson's appeal for the "Great Society," he noted the need for increased services in urban areas.

"It will be the task of your generation to make the American city a place where future generations will come, not only to live, but to live the good life," he said.

Use of the mails has accelerated four times as fast as the population rate. Most of the increase is attributed to business. It is now estimated that 75 percent of all domestic mail is originated by commercial and industrial organizations and 15 percent is generated by the public in response.

Five-Year Program

The Post Office Department now aims to build post offices and mail handling plants where the greatest volume of mail is concentrated.

This is the essence of the Department's 5-year program, begun in mid 1964, to halt a threatened hardening of the arteries in the Nation's postal system.

Much of this space is needed in the larger cities. Cities like New York, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Buffalo, Omaha, Portland and Indianapolis are struggling along with postal buildings of 50-year vintage or more.

New Buildings

During fiscal 1964 the Department took a big step toward sprucing up the postal system in the larger cities by awarding contracts for construction of new buildings in nine cities. Another 13 are scheduled for fiscal 1965, and plans have crystallized for an additional 15 cities in 1966.

In most of the larger post offices contracts are awarded to qualified architectural and engineering firms to draw up plans for the building. Postmaster General Gronouski has continued the Department's policy of encouraging the architects to exercise initiative, freshness and originality in their designs, provided they keep in mind the basic functional use of the building and the always existent factor of economy in a building constructed for government use.

Frills Out

Frills which unnecessarily increase construction costs are out.

Wherever feasible, the Department tries to follow the architectural pattern of the community. Provided other postal needs are met. It is also willing to cooperate in a community effort to rehabilitate and revitalize downtown areas.

While it is concentrated in the big cities, the building program is not confined to those areas.

The 5-year program encompasses a total of some 4,700 buildings, of which less than 100 are planned for the big cities.

The overall cost for new space is estimated at $1.1 billion. Some post offices would be built under federal ownership, requiring direct appropriations from the Congress. But the projects planned through fiscal 1965 probably will be built under the Department's Lease Construction program.

Boosts Local Tax Rolls

Under this program the building is constructed with the use of private funds.

Essentially, the Government's financial contribution is limited to paying the rent, while the owner contributes to the local tax rolls.

Sled Route

Mail was still being delivered by dogsled in Alaska as late as 1963.

Today the airplane has replaced the husky.

Cosa Nostra White-Collar Swindles Noted

If you are an average American—with the average American's trust in his neighbor—be careful! You may be marked as a target for the Cosa Nostra.

So lucrative has the white-collar swindle become that the Black Hand Society has begun moving in for its share of the grand prize—the $63 million a year that is bilked from the gullible and unsuspecting public by every conceivable means of mail fraud.

Fortunately, the Cosa Nostra's interest in robbery by mail has attracted the attention of the oldest and one of the most respected law enforcement agencies in America—the Postal Inspection Service.

And if the recent past is indicative of things to come, some members of the dread underworld "family" will find themselves behind bars within the next 12 months.

Last year, more than 12,000 persons—a thousand a month—were arrested by the Nation's 1,000 Postal Inspectors for violating the postal statutes, according to Chief Postal Inspector Henry Montague.

Ten thousand, four hundred and eighty-five persons were convicted and sentenced by the courts for such crimes.

99 Percent Convicted

This was the highest record of arrests and convictions attained by the United States Postal Inspection Service since its founding nearly 200 years ago by Benjamin Franklin—32 percent higher than that of 1960!

No other law enforcement agency in the world can boast a better record of successful court cases than can the Postal Inspection Service today—99 percent of all cases brought to trial resulting in convictions.

Cosa Nostra Trick

One of the areas in which the Cosa Nostra is now active involves a merchandising scheme in which the reputation and credit standing of a financially stable and well-known business firm are invoked to mislead the victim into trusting the swindler.

One of the most successful con men of all time—Hyman David Novick—several years ago fleeced millions from businessmen in America and other countries by chartering such firms as Safeway Chain Stores (to be confused, he hoped, with Safeway Stores, Inc.), A-P Supermarkets (mistaken by some, regrettably, for A&P Food Stores), the J. C. Penny Co. (which looks almost like and sounds exactly like J. C. Penney Co.), and many other variations on successful business themes.

By culling the sales ads of small firms from business publications, Novick had no trouble at all building up a profitable list of prospective "customers."

Once he had them hooked, Novick would order merchandise—often by the carload—sent on a "bill us later" basis to an address in Canada. When the bill finally arrived—usually after Novick had conned the victim out of several reorders—the swindler was nowhere to be found, and the merchandise had long-since been disposed of by Novick at a neat profit.

Novick is now behind bars, thanks to the Postal Inspection Service—which nailed him when he crossed the Canadian border one day, to pick up some mail.

Pornography

The Postal Inspectors brought one case to court last year that lifted a lot of eyebrows. A man was charged with mail fraud because he did not deliver to a customer the pornographic materials he promised in his "bait" brochures.

At first blush, this might make it appear that the Inspection Service is on the side of the devil. In actuality, however, it is a test case. If a conviction is obtained, it will give the Post Office Department an extremely valuable double-edged weapon to use against those who would utilize the mails to undermine the public morality.

It will enable prosecution of obscenity dealers under the mail fraud statutes if pornography is promised and not delivered, or under the mailability laws if it is promised and is delivered!

In either case, justice would be done.

Since the present Administration took office in 1961, all cases brought by the Post Office Department to enforce the obscenity laws are handled through criminal procedures—rather than through such administrative action as was often used previously.

This policy, strongly endorsed by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, is based upon the realization that when an administrator is given the right to determine what is obscene and what isn't, he becomes, for all practical purposes, a censor.

The success of this policy is evidenced by the fantastic increase in arrests and convictions for obscenity law violations secured by the present Administration—an increase of more than 100 percent over those of 1960, when administrative procedures constituted a major weapon in such cases.

Disasters

Where there is a natural disaster or a catastrophic accident, the Postal Inspector is among the first to arrive on the scene.

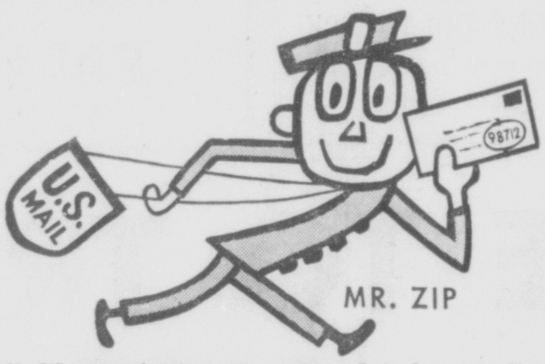
It is his mission to protect the mails at all cost—from fire, from water damage, from looting, from anything that delays or threatens its safe delivery.

In one instance, an inspector sifted through six tons of dirt and rubble at the scene of a plane crash, looking for 661 diamonds that had been contained in a mailed package. He found every one of them!

Housekeeping

About 49 percent of the Inspectors' time was devoted last year to the mundane but vital chore of keeping the Post Office Department's house in order—auditing the books of the Nation's 35,000 post offices—investigating personal injury and automobile accidents—tracking down lost mail—correcting discrepancies in metered and second class mail—installing postmasters—coordinating Civil Defense Preparedness planning—inspecting postal units—seeing that the mail gets through, regardless of the circumstances.

For that is their reason for being—to guarantee the safe delivery of the mails.



Mr. ZIP, cartoon character representing the new Zoning Improvement Plan (ZIP), is being used in a constant campaign to remind mailers to use ZIP Codes because they speed mail delivery and save postal costs.

Post Office Is Big Business

The United States Post Office Department has become one of the largest business establishments in the world, conducting the greatest system of communications ever known to mankind.

- Its annual payroll is $3.85 billion.
- 590,000 employees serve a Nation of 192 million people, working out of 44,500 stations and branches.
- This year, the Post Office Department will collect and deliver 72 billion pieces of mail. By 1970, volume is expected to reach 83 billion pieces.
- The Department adds an additional 1½ million city, 100,000 rural, and 75,000 business addresses to its delivery system annually.
- Forty-four million families and 4.1 million businesses receive mail over 103,000 city routes, and 9.5 million families are served over 31,000 rural routes.
- On the average, every American citizen gets at least one piece of mail every day.
- Seventy-five percent of total mail originates today with business and commercial interests, more than half being initiated by 20,000 large mailers. Ninety percent of insurance business, for example, is transacted by mail, and the percentage is as high or higher for many other enterprises.
- The Department owns 45,726 motor vehicles. In addition, it pays $110 million to private vehicle operators for hauling the mail. It hires 9,600 motor vehicles full time and mans them with Department employees. Another 63,000 vehicles and drivers are hired under contract for rural and star (contract) route delivery.

Less Mail Trains

Thirty years ago there were 10,000 trains available to carry mail. Today there are less than 1,200.

Electronic Brain Reads Invisible Ink, Sorts Letters

An electronic beam flashing at the rate of 500 beats a second in Dayton, Ohio, automatically separates airmail letters from other mail, faces all envelopes in the same direction, and cancels them faster than the eye can follow. This mechanical marvel marks only one of the modern advances in mail processing technology now in operation—advances that are bringing the 20th century Postal Service out of the "Ben Franklin Era."

During the past 3½ years more mechanized devices have been installed in post offices throughout the Nation than at any other time in our history.

The Post Office Department knows that mechanization is essential if it expects to keep pace with the rapidly-growing mail volume now approaching 72 billion pieces a year. This is almost as much mail as is generated throughout the rest of the world annually. By 1970, they estimate, the volume will amount to a staggering 83 billion pieces per year.

Mechanization

And something is being done now to cope with this immense mail load.

Since 1961 major mechanization has been installed in 54 post offices, as compared to 18 prior to that time. The "Rube Goldberg" concept of modernization prevalent in past years has been superceded by proven, time-tested equipment.

In Miami, for instance, where nearly 34,000 parcels pass through the city daily, a huge parcel post sorting machine, covering an area of 32,000 square feet, can automatically send 6,500 packages an hour to 342 different destination bins.

This one new machine, acclaimed as the most advanced device of its kind in the world, makes possible an annual operating saving of $135,000. Smaller models, based on the same design, will be installed in other major post offices in the near future.

Since mechanization became a reality in 1961, the Detroit Post Office has realized a saving through increased productivity, of $4.7 million—an annual rate of $1.6 million. This was accomplished despite an ever-growing mail volume.

Machines Save Money

Two of the most tedious and time-consuming jobs in a post office are those of stacking letters so the addresses all face the same way, and then canceling each stamp by hand or by feeding the letter into a semiautomatic canceling device. In postal lingo, this is called "facing and canceling." The practice, as old as the Postal Service itself, has until recently been commonplace in many of our large post offices.

Today, in 72 of the Nation's largest post offices, high-speed facer-canceler machines called the "Mark II" complete the job in one simple operation.

As recently as 3 years ago, over 1 million letters daily had to be hand processed in the Los Angeles Post Office before cancellation. Immediately after 10 high-speed facing and canceling machines were placed into operation, the record showed a 36.2 percent improvement in productivity, or a direct savings of over 63 thousand man-hours annually. In dollars and cents this amounts to about $200,000.

Six machines showed an annual return of 142 percent, with the machines paying for themselves in 9 months. At present 204 "Mark II's" are in use throughout the country. The machine has proven so successful that other nations have standing orders for them.

Tagged Stamps

In Dayton, Ohio on July 7, 1963, a small, inexpensive black box was attached to the Mark II Facer-Canceler to automatically separate envelopes bearing airmail stamps which had been printed with a special luminescent ink. This program, called "stamp tagging," has an efficiency rate of 99 percent, and since the tests began, over 30 million tagged regular and airmail letters have passed through the system.

Postal engineers expect to have a stamp tagging device incorporated into all the Mark II Facer-Cancelers in operation by 1966.

"Stamp tagging" of airmail letters eliminates a minimum of one manual handling and cuts the time of processing a letter one-half hour once it arrives at the post office.

Mechanical ZIP Reader

Although mechanization has taken a giant step forward during the past 3 years, the Post Office Department's principal objective is the development of a ZIP-Coded optical scanning device.

In a short time plans call for having ZIP Code scanners in operational use in about 200 of the Nation's post offices, reading and sorting ZIP-Coded mail.

Postal Alphabet . . . Recent Service Improvements

ABCD . . . Accelerated Business Collection and Delivery. Installment of this plan in 1962 made it possible to mail a letter in any of 271 downtown areas before 11 a.m. and have it delivered in the same downtown section within 4 hours.

NIMS . . . Nationwide Improved Mail Service. Begun in 1961, NIMS encourages businesses and Government agencies which are major users of the Post Office to deposit their mail earlier in the day and several times a day. Before NIMS a glut of mail piled up in all bigger post offices at the end of the workday . . . most large businesses were saving mail for only one deposit, usually around 5 p.m.

With a smoother flow of mail throughout the day, postmasters are able to reschedule some personnel from night to day shifts. Expensive machines which were left idle for as long as 18 hours a day, waiting for peak loads, are now used more efficiently.

The approximately 20,000 businessmen who serve on 350 mail users councils around the Nation play a major role in improving mail service for all citizens.

VIM . . . Vertical Improved Mail. A pilot project at the Crown-Zellerbach building in San Francisco has demonstrated that a single letter carrier, in a basement mailroom, placing mail on conveyors going to all floors, can deliver the mail much faster than floor-to-floor foot delivery.

Postal planners expect that before the turn of this decade most new "high-rise" buildings will have VIM.

ZIP . . . Zoning Improvement Plan. Since 1963 each city neighborhood, nonurban section of the country and some large buildings in major cities have been assigned a 5-digit ZIP Code. The ZIP system is designed to speed delivery, save money, and ship mail by more direct routes, thus reducing the number of times each piece of mail must be handled.

The first three numbers represent a sectional center or major post office located at the junction of rail, highway, and air routes. The last two numbers are used to direct the mail to the specific post office served by the sectional center which is responsible for delivery at the address of the recipient.

ZIP-coded mail generally moves directly from the sectional center nearest the mailing point to the sectional center nearest delivery point and bypasses inbetween sorting centers.

Favorable Response

The response to ZIP Code has been especially favorable among large mailers, which account for 75 percent of all first class mail. Using their own data processing equipment, they can sequence their address files to ZIP Code and presort. This enables them to ship the mail directly to the nearest transportation terminal, frequently bypassing the originating post office.

A recent analysis indicates 30 percent of the mail from large cities is now ZIP Coded, and the figure runs to about 58 percent in the smaller towns.

People Important

The Post Office Department has never lost sight of the human factor in dealing with machines. The program has had an opposite effect. At present hundreds of career postal employees have advanced their knowledge in the fields of mechanization in 24 recently established technical training centers throughout the Nation.

And the majority of post offices of this Nation which service most of the grassroots communities will never house major mechanized equipment, but will feel the beneficial effects of the Machine Age.

The Post Office Department's firm policy is that it will only install mechanization where it can be economically justified in terms of increased productivity, meaning less cost to the American taxpayer.

Marie Marshall — CLearbrook 5-2936

Rob Zmrzly, 521 S. Forrest, has been a patient in Holy Family Hospital for the past month, and it was expected that he would be home after the holidays. Now his parents, Al and Lil, rport that Rob's progress is not what was hoped for and he may remain in the hospital for several months. His room number is 302.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Hulse, 509 S. Forrest, returned Saturday from a holiday visit with Mrs. Hulse's parents, the K. C. Hoffmans of Topeka, Kan. They were away two weeks and were accompanied by their children, 6-month-old Stephen Jack and 6-year-old Jill who found a delightful playmate in her mother's 5-year-old sister.

If Christmas in the Jack Curtin home, 420 S. Forrest, was merrier because they had their daughter, Sue Ford, her husband and young daughters, Laura and Christine, of Santa Clara, Calif., home for the holidays, then New Year's was doubly happy. Their son, Tom, was granted a Navy leave and arrived home Dec. 29. He is stationed aboard the rescue and salvage ship U.S.S. Windlass, docked at Norfolk, Va., between missions.

DENNIS JENKO, 440 S. Prindle, celebrated his Dec. 31 birthday the Monday between the holidays with a trip to Chicago accompanied by two friends, Jim Barton and Larry Kutt of Mount Prospect. Two highlights of the day were a visit to radio station WLS and a steak dinner.

Dennis's parents, Frank and Betty, and his sister, Barbara, joined in a second celebration of his 15th birthday at a family dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Cerva, 425 S. Forrest, planned on spending a quiet evening at the home of neighbors Saturday. When Norma was called home to handle a minor domestic emergency, she was greeted by more than two dozen guests who, after taking Don into their confidence, had planned a celebration in honor of the couple's 15th wedding anniversary Jan. 2. Magically, an elaborate buffet supper appeared and the Cervas were feted at a never-to-be-forgotten anniversary party.

Christmas holiday houseguests at the Richard Bruce home, 441 S. Gibbons, were the grandparents. Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Neumann, came from Crystal Falls, Mich., for a 10-day visit before leaving for Wisconsin to spend the New Year holiday with a son. Dick's mother, Mrs. Etta Cardwell is from Chattanooga, Tenn.

ALTHOUGH MICHAEL Roy's birthday fell two days after Christmas, it was not overshadowed by the holiday. The 2 - year - old son of the David Roys, 425 S. Prindle, was the center of attention at a family dinner party Dec. 26. Present were Michael's twin sisters, Diane and Denise, and Grandma Offerman of Kankakee. Denise drew her share of attention because she suffered a severely cut finger Christmas Day and sported a hospital bandage for several days.

Maureen Shawhan's 10th birthday Jan. 3 was marked by two days of celebrating looked forward to for several days by Maureen and her houseguest, a cousin, Mara Hintz of Des Plaines. Saturday the Shawhans were joined by Mara's parents, the Art Hintzes and son, Bruce, for cake and ice cream. Sunday was grandparents' day and Maureen was congratulated by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McPherson and Mrs. Nell Shawhan of Des Plaines at a second party. The weekend of celebrating ended on a high note with a family dinner Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Q. Yowell saw the old year out and the new in with a group of friends and neighbors at their home, 441 S. Forrest. Area couples included were the Frank Jenkos, Carl Schmidts, Gust Hermansons, Lyle Longries and the Boyd Briscoes. Guests who did not have to leave early were treated to a southern breakfast of eggs, potatoes and sausage.

JOEY McARDLE may have been too young to appreciate the celebration of his second birthday Jan. 3 but that did not deter his parents, the James McArdles, and his brother, Chris, from enjoying the festive family dinner.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burke, 509 S. Prindle, who celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary New Year's Day.

Dinner of the Month Club members, the Roy Stoehrs and the Frank Marshalls were guests at a cocktail party New Year's Eve at the Al May home on North State Road, and then dined together, as is their custom. Following dinner the group saw the new year in at the Stoehr home, 441 S. Prindle. Non-member guests for the evening were the Jerry Jeromes of Park Ridge.

Sunday saw an exodus of college students from Arlington Acres to their respective campuses. Among those for whom Christmas vacation ended were Jack Barlow, 424 S. Phelps, Upper Iowa University at Fayette; Gary Cook, 525 S. Forrest, University of Wisconsin at Madison; Carol Hinchliff, 428 S. Forrest and Mike Williams, 424 S. Waterman, Carroll College at Waukesha; Gary Shawhan, 532 S. Prindle, University of Illinois at Champaign; Richard Smith, 517 S. Prindle, Iowa State at Ames; and Rip Van Sky, 1915 E. Grove, North Texas State College at Denton. Margaret Marshall, 432 S. Forrest, Northwestern, was home until Tuesday, and Maureen Beem, 412 S. Big Sums Marked For Expressways Slightly more than $136 million will be spent on state roads, interstate and non-interstate, in Cook and DuPage Counties this year.

This is 56 per cent of the $253,443,000 to be spent by the state this year for road construction and improvements and maintenance.

In north DuPage County, $448,000 will be spent on the interstate road system. This includes $98,000 for landscaping Interstate Route 90, (Eisenhower Expressway), from northwest of York Road to Emroy Avenue in Elmhurst and Emroy Avenue in Elmhurst to Electric Avenue.

Some $350,000 will be spent on construction and right of way acquisition for Interstate 90 from the Cook - DuPage County line to northwest of Illinois Route 83 ($100,000), and from that point to northwest of York Road ($250,000).

The additional money for DuPage County will be spent for non-interstate road work.

The Cook County area, including Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Hanover Townships, will see roadwork totaling $6,110,000 plus $28,000 for traffic signal programs on Higgins Road, and on Route 59 at Schaumburg Road; Route 62 at Roselle Road; Route 19 at Sutton Road and Route 62 at Barrington Road, plus several improvements listed only as "district wide" including modernization of lighting systems.

OF THE $6 million-plus figure, about $5.25 million will be spent on Route 53. The biggest expenditure of that amount is $4.5 million for 1.86 miles of the road, six lanes wide, from Anderson Road to Dundee Road.

Two interchanges will be built, one at Rand Road and the other at Dundee Road for $300,000 each and a grade seperation costing $150,000 will be put in at Anderson Road.

In addition to work already contracted for on Route 14 (Northwest Highway) through Arlington Heights south from Route 53, $150,000 additional will be spent to resurface the road through Mount Prospect and to River Road (Route 45) in Des Plaines.

In addition, the state will spend $250,000 to reconstruct a grade separation on Dundee Road at the crossing with Route 14 and the Chicago and North Western Railway. About $80,000 will be spent to resurface two lanes of Dundee Road for 3.10 miles from Route 14 to Route 53. An additional $175,000 will be spent to resurface four lanes of Rand Road from Dundee Road to Schoenbeck Road in Prospect Heights.

THE STATE plan calls for the expenditure of $80,000 to resurface two lanes of Barrington Road from Hillside Avenue in Barrington to Algonquin Road, a distance of 3.55 miles.

Right of way costing $20,000 will be purchased for Dundee at Wolf Road for future construction.

About $105,000 wil be spent on right of way acquisition for Golf Road in those townships for future construction.

This includes land at the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad crossing east of Elgin; 1.78 miles from Route 53 (Rohlwing Road) to Route 62 (Algonquin Road), and 4.40 miles from Route 62 (Algonquin Road) to Route 14 (Northwest Highway).

THE PLANS call for future widening of Golf Road.

The highway program, announced by Gov. Otto Kerner, will be paid for by $72,232,000 in state and local sources and $181,211,000 in federal funds. Of the latter figure, $147,500,000 must be used on interstate highways and $33,711,000 will be used on non-interstate routes.

In his message on the program, Kerner said the 1965 program provides for continued construction of interstate highways as rapidly as federal funds permit.

Eight bid lettings are planned for the year with the first to be held in Springfield on Jan. 29.

Cook County highway officials said the program for the county will not be ready for a month or two. Leo Mertka, division head of advance planning and programming, said the county's program for 1964, '65 and '66 is still in effect, but said the revisions have not been made.

TOWNSHIP and village plans for 1965 depend largely on motor fuel tax funds and plans have not been decided upon as yet.

Ronald L. Bradley of Elk Grove Township, the highway commissioner, said "a whole lot of our program will depend on the county plans."

William W. Luehring, Wheeling Township highway commissioner, said that of the 90 miles of road in his township, including 30 miles of curbed and guttered roadway, 15 miles will be resurfaced.

Luehring was appointed to his position in September, 1964, to fill a vacancy. He said final plans have not been made as to which 15 miles will be improved this year. (A15

Predicts Continued Growth For State's Small Business

Illinois, where almost seven per cent of the nation's small firms are located, will see continued expansion of small business in 1965, Richard E. Lassar, Chicago regional director of the Small Business Administration, predicted this week.

Lassar forecast an increase of 12,000 small business in Illinois in the next 10 years, based on the present rate of growth. The number of small firms in Illinois increased four per cent in the last decade, raising the state's total to more than 302,000.

Summarizing SBA activities in the state, Lassar reported that Illinois small businesses received about $12.1 million in prime military and civilian contracts during the three-month period ended Sept. 30. These contracts, he said, resulted from SBA's cooperative set-aside program under which proposed government purchases are reserved for competitive bidding by small businesses. Firms that performed these contracts provided such items as construction machinery, electronic components, food, paper and metal products.

Lassar reported that SBA approved $956,000 in business loans to small Illinois firms during July, August and September, an increase of 13 per cent over the same period in 1963.

"THESE LOANS went to small businesses to help finance expansion, new facilities and equipment and for working capital," he said. Since the agency was created in 1953, Illinois small businessmen have received $5.6 million in SBA loans.

The regional director pointed out that SBA has licensed 29 small business investment companies in Illinois, with total capital and surplus of $30.3 million for investment in small firms. These SBICs are privately-owned companies that provide equity and long-term loans to promising small businesses.

In addition, Lassar said that SBA makes loans to local development companies to assist local small businesses. The eight loans made in Illinois resulted in creating 570 new jobs. The agency is working with business and civic leaders to extend the program to other communities throughout the state.

"Under this program," he explained, "the SBA, banks and locally-organized development companies jointly finance community efforts to establish new small businesses and to expand existing little firms."

HE REPORTED that through September, communities in 45 states were using SBA's development company loan programs, and that since the first loan was approved in 1959, the agency has made 500 local development company loans totaling more than $71.5 million. The cooperative projects have created an estimated 27,000 new jobs.

In addition to financial and procurement assistance, SBA has provided management and technical help to many Illinois small firms. Approximately 85 retired business executives have volunteered for SBA's new SCORE program (Service Corps of Retired Executives), Lassar said. Under the SCORE program, these retired executives counsel small firms on financial and management problems upon request.

SBA also co-sponsors administrative management courses with educational institutions to provide management training for owners and managers of Illinois small businesses. These courses, usually held one night a week for six to eight weeks, provide outstanding speakers in the field of management. On a cumulative basis, SBA, has co-sponsored 180 courses in Illinois, attended by 3,813 small firm owners and managers. (15BB

Citizens Urged to Help Boost Economy of State

Every Illinois citizen can play a part in stimulating economic growth and expansion of jobs in the state.

This is the view of John L. Gordon, chairman of the Economic Development Committee of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the board of Central Illinois Electric and Gas Co., Rockford.

According to Gordon, opportunities abound for the individual Illinois resident to be a "booster" for his community and state. "Unfortunately," Gordon says, "all to many golden opportunities are missed because of lack of knowledge or motivation.

"The efforts of the many groups working to increase job opportunities in Illinois would receive a remarkable boost if only 100,000 additional Illinoisans made and kept a New Year's resolution to learn more about the desirable aspects of their locality and state and to conscientiously try to sell them."

GORDON LISTED these ways in which the ordinary citizen can play an invaluable role in "selling" Illinois:

—In personal and business correspondence and conversations — talk up Illinois! Remember, anyone may be a prospect. (Taxi drivers, retail clerks, waitresses and bartenders, please note!) Make sure of your facts and sell Illinois at every opportunity.

—Write to friends or associates who work for ouet-of-state companies which might expand operations — tell them why Illinois and your community are good places to work and live. Urge them to consider your area when they expand or relocate.

—Keep your eyes and ears open. When you hear of a company that's planning to expand or locate a new plant, contact your local chamber of commerce and let them know.

—SUPPORT YOUR chamber or other local industrial development group with time and money.

—When a local industry or business expands, or a new industry comes to town, send a note of congratulations, or write a letter to the editor of your local paper.

—Learn about the tourist attractions in your own area, and visit them yourself. For full information contact your local chamber.

—Take a vacation in Illinois. There's no better way to get to know your state! Urge your friends to do the same.

—PUT OUT THE welcome mat to strangers and tourists in your town. Be courteous and helpful — let them know what to see before they leave (an historical site, monument, new building, spectacular vista, a good restaurant).

—Write to friends outside the state — invite them to take a vacation in Illinois. Information and maps are available from the State Department of Conservation, Illinois Information Service, or Board of Economic Development in Springfield.

—Persuade your lodge, club or union to hold a convention in Illinois.

—When it's gift-giving time, choose something made in or related to the State of Illinois.

ILLINOIS HAS A unique set of assets and advantages which just can't be matched anywhere, Gordon said. "What we need most of all is some good old-fashioned salesmanship on a day-to-day basis to take full advantage of them.

"We might all be surprised at the results which would be achieved by a little enthusiastic "boosterism" on the part of a sizable number of citizens in all parts of the state." (BB

Business Building Improving

Palatine National to Install IBM Computer

A suburban bank, the Palatine National, is the first Chicago-area business to order IBM's System/360, model 20 computer.

The computer, announced Nov. 18, is a low cost electric data processor featuring card-handling flexibility, simplified instructions and data transmission capability.

Gerald F. Fitzgerald, president of the Palatine National Bank, said availability of a small powerful computer, such as Model 20, means smaller banks can give the best in fast electronic customer service through data processing, while providing the basic essentials for the bank's own future growth. The bank currently has all its accounting processed by electronic data processing and believes it is the most automated bank in the state.

The Palatine National Bank, according to Fitzgerald, will use the computer for the savings, payroll, mortgages, installment loan and bond accounting. Future plans include installation of magnetic ink character recognition equipment for demand deposit (check) accounting and establishing of a computer service center for area business, industry and professional organizations.

THE BANK, serving the Northwest suburbs, has 10,000 checking and savings accounts and more than 1,000 installment, commercial and mortgage loans. Established in 1944, the bank has assets of over $11 million.

Fitzgerald said the System/360 will save a number of internal operational procedures and reduce repetitive chores to relieve personnel for more personal customer service.

"In addition, plans to install a computer signify the bank's determination to provide a broad range of bank services." (15BB

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

If you're like our family, the Christmas tree comes down right after New Year's day . . . and that means a disposal problem.

This year we're going to solve it by making the tree into a feeding station for the birds. Chunks of suet, crusts of bread and chunks of peanut butter should make a welcome snack for the flocks of winter visitors.

There's a responsibility, though in starting such a project. Once started, the birds learn to depend on such feeding stations. If such sources of food are allowed to run out because of temporary absence of the bird lover, the results can be unfortunate.

Many people become so interested in bird watching after setting out a Christmas tree feeder, that they go to a year around bird attracting program. One of the best ways to start such a program is to follow nature's plan. Plant shrubs that attract the birds.

There are many shrubs that are noteworthy for their ability to draw birds into the area. With some shrubs the attraction is their dense protective branching . . . such as hawthornes. With others it is the attractive fruit or buds that provide winter food.

Among the more inviting trees and shrubs to birds are hawthornes, junipers, apples, mountain ash, snowberry, bush honeysuckle and vines such as Virginia creeper. Not only do these plants provide food during fall and winter months; they also provide excellent nesting sites and cover during the rest of the year.

This winter is a good time to study the garden books and nursery catalogs and become familiar with trees and shrubs that invite birds near the home. Then next spring plant these materials where they will give the most pleasure. In the meantime, make use of that old Christmas tree to introduce yourself and the children to the satisfaction of becoming acquainted with the variety of birds that live in our suburbs. (15BB

Office Building Rises Where Farm Once Was

THE BARE STEEL FRAMEWORK now being erected at 1200 N. State St., Arlington Heights, will in a few months be transformed into a new masonry and glass office headquarters building for the Midwestern Department of Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co. The company is in the process of recruiting and training local residents to staff the offices, expected to be ready by June. (Staff Photo) (15 BB

A $600,000 masonry, steel and glass office building is now under construction on the site of what was once one of the oldest homes in Arlington Heights.

Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co., one of the nation's largest mutual property insurance firms, is erecting the building where formerly stood the Thomas Allison farm house and its out buildings. The house at 1146 N. State Road, built in 1852, was demolished in September, 1963, to make way for the new home of Northwestern Mutual, currently at Clark and Adams in Chicago.

H. G. Holmes, 206 E. Woodworth, Roselle, manager of Northwestern Mutual's Midwestern department, said construction is expected to be completed in June, and the plans are to move at that time.

"WE WILL BE needing more office personnel when we move to our new headquarters," Holmes said. "We are presently trying to hire local residents in Arlington Heights and nearby suburbs and already have found 15 employes from the Arlington Heights area. We will need between 30 to 40 more workers who will be trained in our Chicago office prior to our move to Arlington Heights."

Holmes said the company is paying the commuter fare of employes residing in the Arlington Heights area and going into the loop for training.

The new office building will be completely air conditioned and will feature an employes' lunch room that opens to an enclosed patio.

The Arlington Heights office will supervise Northwestern Mutual operations in 11 Midwest states, including Illinois. D. Wayne Petrie, 1526 E. Chicago, Palatine, is assistant manager, and Glenn Putnam, 203 E. School, Mount Prospect, is chief casualty underwriter. (15BB

Collins said that the $590,000 figure represents a 15 per cent earnings increase over Dec. 31, 1963.

Safe Driver

J. E. Wingren of 1006 Stratford Circle, Streamwood, was among 285 Consolidated Freightways intercity drivers based at Chicago who achieved a rare safe driving distinction in recent weeks by driving for two million miles without an accident of any kind. 10BB

The Dec. 31 payment will be the 24th consecutive semi-annual earnings distribution by Arlington Heights Federal Savings. Since the association began operations almost 12 years ago, a total of $5,584,852 in earnings has been paid to savers. 10BB

Changes Mid-Year Birthday Policy

The standard insurance practice of considering policy buyers to be a year older half-way between birthdays has been dropped by Country Life Insurance Co., according to an announcement by Country Life's vice president and general manager, Leonard Fuchs.

"Country Life policies now are issued at premium rates based on age at last birthday instead of age at nearest birthday," Fuchs reported. "As a result, premiums will be lower for many new Country Life policyholders."

The new method of determining age is one of a dozen important policy changes which took effect Jan. 1. Another major change is the paying of four percent interest on all money left on deposit with the company.

"PREMIUMS ON SOME optional coverages have been reduced substantially," said Fuchs. "Included are premiums covering waivers of premium in case of disability and those on children's policies in the event of death of the person making payments.

Other changes provide for hew methods of determining policy cash values and offer additional settlement options and benefits. In addition, Country Life has increased the "quantity discount" advantages of larger policy purchases.

The company also has widened the choice of decreasing term insurance by replacing its standard family income provider policy with a new series of decreasing term policies ranging from 10 to 30 years. (15BB

WIN $900.00 THIS WEEK ...play

Paddock Publications exciting twice weekly

NEWSPAPER BINGO

WINNING CARDS
can be dropped off at Paddock Publications office through mail slot any time prior to 9 a.m. of following Monday.

TWO GAMES EACH WEEK

Consult Your PINK Cards thru Jan. 9 for BOTH Games — Once for the Jan. 3 SUNDAY SUBURBANITE Game, then the New Set of Numbers for the PADDOCK THURSDAY Game

Get Your GRAY Cards for Next Week's Game (Jan. 10-16) from sponsoring merchants

THESE BUGS CAN WIN YOU $300.00

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS

Each week pick up your Free Bingo Cards from any of the sponsors (Adults only, please). Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish. The more cards you play the better your chances of winning!

HOW TO PLAY

To play, merely check the ads in the Sunday Suburbanite on Sunday, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. Different set of numbers each Sunday and each Thursday means two different games with the same card. Many ads contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the Bingo Bug (shown above). Other numbers, most of them in this symbol, will be scattered throughout the paper. On the want ad pages the numbers will be included in special type with the notation of "Newspaper Bingo Bug Sez." If you can match all 24 numbers on any one of your Bingo cards with those appearing in either the Sunday Suburbanite, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications (but not both), you have a "Bingo" and you are a winner.

$300 WEEKLY!!

Winners will snare a weekly cash prize of $300. If there is only one winner, he gets all $300. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share equally. If there are no winners any week, the $300 weekly prize money will be added to the following week's prize fund.

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER

Each Sunday Suburbanite game is complete within one issue of the Sunday Suburbanite; each Paddock Thursday game is complete within one issue of the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. You cannot use numbers from both issues for the same game. A new set of numbers will appear in the Sunday Suburbanite each Sunday, plus another new set of numbers in the Paddock Thursday editions. A new color Bingo card will be available each week at the participating stores. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week's games. The color card for each week's games will be announced each week in the newspaper.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER . . .

If you have a winning Bingo Card, all 24 numbers of which appear in either the Sunday Suburbanite or your Thursday edition of Paddock Publications, write your name, address, phone number and from which store you procured the card on the back, and drop in the mail to Paddock office. Envelope must be postmarked by Friday of that week; or bring your card in to the office of Paddock Publications at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights by 9 a.m. of the following Monday morning.

RULES OF THE GAME:

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY

There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at office of Paddock Publications as well as public libraries and at sponsors' stores. You can play as many cards as you wish — they're free. Get additional cards, one at a time, from the friendly sponsors listed below. (Adults only, please.)

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK

The color of the cards changes each week. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week. Mutilated cards will not be honored. All 24 Numbers must be covered to win.

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS

Bingo numbers will be drawn at random from a Bingo Number cage at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Some duplication of Bingo Numbers may exist in certain sponsors' ads due to a newspaper production problem. This duplication in no way affects the total number of Bingo numbers drawn. All numbers drawn at random from our Bingo cage appear somewhere in each issue of the newspapers.

Employees of Paddock Publications and their families are not eligible to win any cash prizes.

Pick up Bingo cards now . . . play the game from the Sunday Suburbanite; and again from our Thursday editions . . .

Demonstration Set On Meat Cookery

In today's fast pace of varied interests and activities for the teenagers in your family, the up-to-date teenage girl is apt to be as interested in preparing family meals as she is in following the current fashion trends.

These young ladies will be the audience for a special meat cookery demonstration January 26, at Arlington High School. This informative educational program, "Spotlight on Foods," will be presented by Miss Madelin Streu, a graduate home economist from the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago.

It is interesting to note that by 1965, more than one-half the population will be under 25 years of age, and by that time, there will be a total of 24 million teenagers in this country. It is also noteworthy that teenagers have $10 million to spend per year, a primary reason for their being made aware of the value of the food dollar and the percentage of that dollar spent for meat, which amounts to approximately 25 per cent.

"ALTHOUGH tomorrow's young homemaker, today's teenager, is constantly concerned with her slender figure, she's well aware of the importance of meat in her diet," according to Miss Streu.

"She knows, too, that meat—as the center of the family meal—is an important subject to those whose responsibility it is to buy and prepare it for the table. The teenage girl of today is becoming more and more aware of the need to learn the basic rules on meal planning and meat identification, care, and storage, preparation and serving — realizing that she will soon be putting this knowledge into practical daily application."

The most up-to-date methods in meat cookery, including broiling, roasting, braising, and cooking in liquid, will be demonstrated during the presentation. The board's home economist will prepare such easy and practical recipes as harvest meat loaf, pickle pot-roast, popular pork steaks and lamb terriyaki, all of which have been carefully tested in the meat board's kitchen laboratory.

DESIGNED to interest and assist high school students in meat cookery problems which they will confront as homemakers, the demonstration will show how a thorough knowledge of meat cookery can benefit the homemaker's budget, tempt the family's appetite and provide the basis for a nutritious and well - balanced meal.

"Spotlight on Foods" recipe books containing meat recipes prepared during the demonstration and many others will be distributed to students attending the program. Meat charts, time tables, measurements, equivalents and substitutions are listed in the book, which can be used as a handy reference in the home or classroom.

Behind the meat board's high school meat cookery demonstration stands nearly 40 years' experience in solving food problems and demonstrating food techniques for the food industry, institutions, restaurants and homemakers. In addition, the Board sponsors scientific studies on food and nutrition.

Moms of Twins Meet Jan. 14

Miss Nubia Comacho, a house guest of the Harold Chamberlains of Palatine, will be the speaker at the Jan. 14 meeting of Double Dydee Mothers of Twins Club. An exchange student from Bucaramanta, Colombia, Miss Comacho is attending her senior year at Palatine High School with the Chamberlains' daughter Sheri.

Along with her talk Miss Comacho will show movies of her country.

Members of the club may bring guests to the 8 p.m. meeting in Lauterburg and Oehler meeting room, Arlington Heights.

The club is open for membership to all mothers of twins. Those interested may call Mrs. Dale Bottom, 392-0676.

Parent, Teacher Both Get Scapegoat Role

Parents and teachers at times use each other as scapegoats for their frustrations when understanding of the other's problems could result in constructive help for the child.

This viewpoint was expressed recently before the Indiana State Teacher's Association by John J. Alderson, of 608 W. Thomas, Arlington Heights, assistant professor in the Jane Addams Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Illinois Medical Center campus, Chicago.

Alderson also said the reason schools are often heavily criticized by parents is "in part due to the failure of parents to understand changes in education, and to a continued negative comparison of the modern school with a somewhat nostalgic and idealized memory of their own school experience."

"IN TURN," he added, "school people often place very heavy demands and expectations on parents, and are critical when parents fall short of the teacher's high expectations."

Pointing out that very high demands are placed on both educators and parents by the current value system of our culture, Alderson said each may "criticize the other for a sense of failure when the pupil experiences problems."

"A nagging sense of guilt and frustration on the part of parents and teachers may be the basis for much of the mutual blame which is sometimes observed, and which defeats the attempts of school personnel and parents to work together in behalf of the child."

THIS SENSE OF frustration can be based on many factors.

For example, a child may get a false impression that his parents are not interested in school. Therefore, the child may become a poor or, at the extreme, a delinquent student.

The parents, because of their own poor early experiences in school, may create a situation in which the child has a negative attitude toward school. This can happen even when the parent says he wants the child to be a good student.

"The other aspect of this situation," said Alderson, "is that school personnel inevitably develop a concept of parents based on their own family experiences. The teacher or administrator is, therefore, somtimes unable to fully understand and develop empathy for the problems of parents."

PART OF this problem, he added, may be a reflection by the school of the high expectations our culture demands of parents. "Misunderstanding and misconceptions about psychological and psychoanalytic theory has also been a part of the trend toward placing blame on parents for social and emotional disturbances of children."

Another parental problem sometimes arises from the inability or unwillingness of mother or father to share responsibility for the child's development with the school. Other parents willingly accept and welcome the interest of the school in their child.

"These feelings are inevitably transmitted to the child and either free him to freely and confidently take advantage of the educational opportunity . . . or will place him in severe conflict between home and school which will inevitably drain some energy he could better use for constructive learning."

Ground Beef Good Friend For Family Menus, Budget

by GISELA FRERICHS

If you are wondering how to meet all those January bills and at the same time feed your family well, you need a dependable friend to stand by.

Your proven friend could be ground beef. Its price snuggles comfortable into any strained budget; its nutritious qualities compare with those of steak; its versatility makes it a favorite with many nations.

Long before the Swedes made their meatballs famous, German dukes feasted on Konigsberger Klopse, an intriguing combination of meat, fish and capers. Bavarians rely on their cabbage rolls and Mexicans on their chili con carne to get them through a hard day's work. The Hungarians came up with stuffed green peppers and the Italians with a meat-macaroni-tomato combination.

But perhaps the most sophisticated concoction, "green-white over noodles," was invented by hungry students on our West coast. This dish is an exotic but inexpensive and noursihing combination of meat, spinach, sour cream and noodles.

KONIGSBERGER KLOPSE

1½ lb. ground beef
2 eggs
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup onion, grated
2 tablespoons anchovy paste
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons capers
Sugar

Mix well the first seven ingredients. With wet hands form 12 meatballs. Place in one-inch of boiling salted water. Turn heat down and simmer 20 minutes, turning once. Remove to serving dish. Keep warm.

Make a light brown sauce from butter, flour and cooking water of meatballs. Add capers, some liquid from capers jar and a little sugar. Cook a few minutes. Pour over Konigsberger Klopse.

Serve with potatoes and a tossed salad. Makes four servings.

CABBAGE ROLLS

1 large head of cabbage
1 lb. ground beef
2 eggs
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup minced parsley
¼ cup minced onion
6 oz. can timato paste
Canned beef broth, diluted
Butter or margarine
Salt
Pepper
Cream or half and half

With a sharp knife remove core from cabbage. Then separate leaves. Trim center veins. Pour boiling water over leaves. Dry on paper towel.

Meanwhile, combine meat, eggs, bread crumbs, parsley, and onion. Season.

Then, place two or three cabbage leaves one on top of each other. Set small amount of meat mixture in middle. Fold leaves around meat envelope-fashion. Fasten with string.

In butter saute cabbage rolls until golden. Add tomato paste and beef broth. Cover. Simmer over low heat one hour, turning once. Remove strings. Before serving add a little cream to sauce.

Dish goes well with boiled potatoes. Makes four servings.

CHILI CON CARNE

1 lb. ground beef
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
Dash of turmeric
Dash of red pepper
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon cumin
1 bay leaf, crushed
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 No. 2 can red kidney beans
2 tablespoons shortening

In shortening brown meat, onion and garlic. Sprinkle with seasonings. Combine with tomatoes and beans. Pour into greased two-quart casserole. Cover. Bake in 325 degree oven for two hours. Three to four servings.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

8 green peppers
2 lb. ground beef
2 slices white bread
½ cup milk
½ cup uncooked rice
½ cup onion, minced
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
3 cans tomato sauce (8 oz. each)
1 cup water
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Cut stem end from peppers. Remove seeds. Boil peppers in salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Soak bread in milk, then squeeze to remove liquid.

Combine meat, eggs, onion, bread, rice, salt and pepper. Pack mixture into peppers. Place in baking dish. Combine tomato sauce, water and sugar and pour around peppers. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour, turning peppers once. Four servings.

MACARONI ROMAN STYLE

1 lb. ground beef
14 oz. elbow macaroni
a tablespoons olive oil
½ teaspoon oregano
6 oz. can tomato paste, or more
Salt
Pepper
Parmesan cheese

Cook macaroni according to directions on package. Reserve. Brown meat in olive oil. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, oregano. Add tomato paste. Mix well and heat thoroughly. Add macaroni. Stir constantly over low flame.

The dish has to be well-mixed and piping hot. Remove to hot serving dish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Serve with a tossed salad. Four servings.

GREEN AND WHITE OVER NOODLES

1 lb. ground beef
½ cup onion, minced
2 tablespoon shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 pkg. frozen chopped spinach, cooked and drained
7 oz. egg noodles
Butter
8 oz. sour cream

Cook noodles according to directions on package. Swish in butter and keep piping hot. Meanwhile, brown meat and onion in shortening. Add salt and spinach. Heat thoroughly. Pour over sizzling noodles. Cover with sour cream. Serves two hungry students.

Groups Offer Counsel, Fun

by PAT ADAM
Staff Writer

Life poses a unique challenge to parents left without a partner through death, divorce or separation.

They must rear their children alone and at the same time create a new life for themselves.

A growing awareness of commonly shared problems has led to the creation in the northwest suburbs of two organizations through which these individuals may help themselves while helping others.

One is the local chapter of the Naim Conference of the Catholic Church, a national organization for the widowed. This chapter, St. John's, is entering its sixth year in the northwest suburbs.

The other group is the Fifth Wheelers, aptly named because it accurately describes the feelings of the single parent. This group, not affiliated with a particular church, but drawing members through many churches, is not quite two years old.

BOTH HAVE a similar purpose—to provide fellowship for their members, counsel in solving individual problems and guidance in rearing children alone. Recognizing that the single parent still represents a family, their activities often include the children. Members range in age from the late 20's through the 60's.

The Naim chapter meets monthly at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Des Plaines. Its president is Mrs. Robert Melchiore of Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Mary Civinelli of Mount Prospect heads the Fifth Wheelers, which meets bi-monthly and currently holds its meetings at Trinity Lutheran Church in Des Plaines.

An Arlington Heights couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ford, were instrumental in getting the Naim chapter established. As members of the Catholic Family Movement, they felt this was a good way to help their fellow churchmen who had been left alone.

"NO ONE understands suffering as he who has suffered and no one understands the widowed as he who has shared their plight." So states in part the purpose of Naim, which derives its name from the Biblical town of Naim, where Jesus had compassion on a widow and raised her son from the dead, according to the scriptures.

While the ultimate adjustment must be worked out by the individual himself, explained Mrs. Ford, Naim does afford counsel in solving problems, a Catholic social outlet and companionship with persons in similar circumstances. The group has a spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Grace of St. Mary's Church in Des Plaines.

St. John's chapter currently has about 60 members and already has witnessed about 15 marriages between members. There is even a chapter for those who have remarried because, as Mrs. Ford pointed out, they still have problems, especially where there are children.

THE FIFTH Wheelers encompass not only the widowed but those whose lives have been changed by divorce or separation.

"Life is different. You just don't fit in with your old friends any more," commented Mrs. Doris Johnson, a divorcee who has found both friends and fun through the Fifth Wheelers.

"For a while you feel you're different, and then through this group you discover you're not alone in being different."

Doris wsa amazed at first at how freely members discussed their individual situations.

"YOU'VE BURIED a lot of feelings," she explained, "But once you have expressed them, they don't matter so much any more."

Doris, a single parent for five years, has three daughters, 14, 18 and 22. She was a little reluctant at first to attend the Fifth Wheelers "because it verifies you are alone," but now she and her girls all think the organization "wonderful." She has made new women friends and she has found hearing the male viewpoint helpful.

"Male companionship is fine, too," she laughed.

For Red Crowe of Arlington Heights, joining such an organization was a step he took rather hesitantly. The widowed father of four children from four to 22, he still is not fully adjusted to his single state but has found the Fifth Wheelers a big help in building a new life.

"RAISING a family is not a normal thing for a man," Red explained. "My biggest problem is being patient. Sometimes I just have to get away and be with adults."

The Fifth Wheelers has provided him that outlet.

Mary Civinelli, left a widow with two small girls three years ago, admits she's not a joiner.

"But I felt so grateful for what the group did for me, I had to give something back," she said, explaining why she accepted the presidency of the group.

UNDER HER energetic leadership, the Fifth Wheelers are trying to offer varied fun activities in addition to the bi-monthly meetings.

In January for instance, they've scheduled bowling, a play and a jam session besides the regular programs. They're also organizing a bridge group. In December they held a Christmas party for the children, and they hope a dance for their teenagers.

Don Pfeuffer, a divorced father with custody of his 7- and 8-year-old daughters, frankly confesses that groups like Fifth Wheelers afford him the feminine companionship he seeks. A member of another organization for single parents, he has attended a couple of Fifth Wheeler functions and is contemplating joining that group, too.

"One thing I like is going places I probably wouldn't go by myself, like Old Town," Pfeuffer said.

He's also found help in raising his girls and answers to some legal questions regarding custody from these single parents groups.

THAT THESE groups can serve a good purpose is affirmed by two men whose professional lives bring them into intimate contact with parents without partners.

Dr. William Crotty, administrator of Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights, who has spoken to the Fifth Wheelers, believes they can be worthwhile as what he termed "a halfway house to normal adjustment."

"If they encourage the members to move on to new interests and to find substitutes for what they lost, they have a definite function," Dr. Crotty commented. "They should not be only a mutual sympathy society."

Such groups afford the opportunity to socialize and be with adults, this is particularly important for mothers, he said, some of whom tend to isolate themselves from the community because they feel like "outsiders." He recommended a diversified program if the organization is to grow.

The Rev. E. A. Zeile of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect also thinks there is a place for such groups in the community and in the church.

"THE COMMON problems faced by these parents can be worked out together, the sense of loss and grief can be shared," he said.

"Of course the danger is there, too, that they become a mutual sympathy group. The goals ought to be toward preparing for assuming a normal place in a complex society, toward the acceptance of a personal role in life as we are."

Inside groups like Naim and Fifth Wheelers, the single parent is no longer an outsider.

Geneology Is Good Hobby To Start Now, Use Later

By BETTY AINSLIE

Just what will we do when we get into those extra 20 years of living offered to us by modern medicine? What will we do with joints that refuse to be obedient to walking or eyes that tire too soon. How can we amuse ourselves, be useful and not a burden to state or children.

Those extra years can be a real problem if they mean just more time to sit and brood over the past—moan over the aches and pains of the present and dread the future ahead.

Betty Ainslie

For a woman in late sixties or seventies, widowed with children scattered into small homes in other states, life can become a weary, unhappy existence. For the man of the same age, a widower, possibly shuttled from one child to another. Annoyed and confused by the noise of grandchildren growing up, days ahead appear meaningless and empty.

BUT YOU there in your forties, now is really the time to decide just how you'll handle those additional years if offered to you. Because we'll be that large group presenting a future problem to ourselves if we don't decide now on an absorbing hobby.

No one is anxious to think about getting old; but we're all told in articles and books that preparation now will help to make for happiness in the future.

A hobby started now might be developed into something mentally stimulating and time filling for the retirement years.

NOW HERE'S something in which more and more people have become interested — it is called tracing the family tree or the fascinating hobby of geneology.

I was told the subject is family history rather than family tree. Folks at the Newberry Library in Chicago prefer to call it that and this is the library where you can do a great deal of research.

This subject so I'm told, becomes more captivating the more time you spend on it. For instance you might find out that great, great, great grandpappy left Ireland one step ahead of the law, as a potato famine at that time built up debts he couldn't pay — or a great, great grandfather fought for the Confederacy — or possibly a several greats back grandmother was really a passenger on the Mayflower.

Finding the family name listed on a ships passenger list might have you studying a bit of history to discover just why past members of your families left their country of origin.

ACCORDING TO one of the women I talked to in the Geneology and Research section of Newberry library, this is a very popular hobby, and one followed by the elderly too.

The DAR, which traces the family history of its members is one group which constantly is searching for new sources in tracing names.

"This organization is one of many that use our facilities" said the librarian speaking of the DAR.

"But please," she said. "Don't come unless you can do your own researching as we are too busy to do your hunting for you."

"One woman very well dressed stopped here to find out something about her ancestors. She thought we had them all under file and it was merely a matter of looking up her name in a card file. She said she had never learned her letters and didn't realize it was such an undertaking to trace her history. Believe me, you can spend years and years on this research."

IF YOU START talking to living elderly relatives they can remember names and dates back a far piece. Then the fun is in taking those names—deciding on one—and tracing it back as far as you can. If you hit a snag, try another name suggested by grandma.

If you turn to some of those old family papers hidden in attic trunks or go through the family bible and you'll be helped in your research.

If you know the city or town where your people lived, you can find information in town records.

Inscriptions on cemetery headstones might help you to locate some members of the family tree. Wills and church records of Baptism or membership often list the name for which you're searching.

THIS IS A subject that grows more delightful the more you research. One small bit of information may unlock the history and whereabouts of an entire past generation. You can write letters to relatives to obtain family information. That Grandma or Grandpa can often recall past names, places or events to help you pinpoint a past relative.

You can spend interesting hours leafing through old records and enjoy every minute of it—as it is like unraveling a mystery story where only you can find all the characters and search for the ending.

I've a friend who spends extra enjoyable hours tracing the family history. He's fascinated by the information he's uncovered and plans to use this subject of Geneology as a retirement program. You can earn extra money as the researcher and tracer of other peoples' history.

This is a hobby which can be done at home by carrying on a lively correspondence with possible sources of information.

THERE ARE a number of magazines and books to help you get started. One book source to whet your interest in this subject is called "American Origins" by L. S. Pine.

Geneology is a hobby which can be started now and carried on through the retirement years, an absorbing pastime that will have you meeting new people. A hobby that will give you a smattering of history, a touch of geography, a bit of extra knowledge and a lot of fun.

Savory Rice Shares Billing with Baked Ham

MUSTARD SAUCE FOR HAM

Yolks of 2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 small can evaporated milk

Beat egg yolks. Add, sugar, dry mustard and salt. Beat until thick and smooth.

In the top of a double broiler over hot water, stir the evaporated milk until hot. When hot, add the egg-sugar mixture. Stir and cook until it thickens. Then slowly add the vinegar. Continue to stir and cook until thick and creamy.

This sauce will thicken more as it cools. Serve a small dish with either hot or cold ham. This amount is ample for 12.

CHEESE RICE CASSEROLE

1½ cups regular rice
1 green pepper, chopped
1 onion, chopped
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped parsley
2 cups milk
3 beaten eggs
2 cups grated sharp American cheese or cheddar cheese
1½ tablespoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook the rice and when done, turn into a greased casserole.

Saute the green pepper and onion together in butter. Add to cooked rice. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour. Serves 8 amply.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL DESSERT

2 6-ounce packages semi-sweet chocolate bits
3 beaten egg yolks
¼ cup creme de menthe
3 egg whites
1/3 cup granulated sugar
2 cups whipping cream
1 small angel food cake
Salted, slivered pecans

Melt the chocolate bits over hot water. When hot, add a small amount to the egg yolks. Add the yolks to the chocolate in the pan and blend well. Cook, stirring, for five minutes. Let cool. Then stir in the creme de menthe.

In other bowl, beat the egg whites until foamy but not stiff. Gradually beat in the sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time.

IN ANOTHER BOWL, whip the whipping cream until stiff. Fold first the meringue and then the whipped cream into the chocolate mixture.

Tear the angel food cake into bite-size pieces. Arrange the cake and the chocolate mixture in layers in a lightly-buttered 3 by 13-inch pyrex dish. Top each layer with a sprinkling of the salted, slivered pecans. Chill for several hours.

Serve with additional chipped cream, if desired. Serves 12.

Apricots Glaze Viennese Torte

One of the most famous desserts in all the world is Vienna's renowned Sachertorte, said to have been created in 1832 by a Viennese cook named Sacher, the same Mr. Sacher who later built the Sacher Hotel.

A Sachertorte is a chocolate cake, glazed with apricot and frosted with chocolate. It is quite different from our own American style chocolate cake. To serve, chill thoroughly.

SACHERTORTE

2/3 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
6 egg yolks
4 ounces unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup finely grated almonds
1 cup sifted flour
6 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
(filling and frosting)
1¼ cups apricot preserves
1/3 cup light corn syrup
3 ounces unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 teaspoons hot water
Chopped pistachio nuts (optional)

Cream margarine with 1 cup sugar until light and fluffy. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, then beat into creamed mixture. Blend in melted chocolate and almonds. Fold in flour.

Beat egg whites until thick and frothy, then gradually add ¼ cup sugar, beating until soft peaks form when beater is raised. Fold into chocolate mixture.

POUR BATTER into greased and floured 9-inch spring form pan. Bake in a 300 degree F. (slow) oven until cake tests done, 50 to 60 minutes. Cool overnight, then remove from pan.

Split cake into two layers. Spread about ½ cup apricot preserves on top of one layer; stack second layer on top. Spread remaining preserves over top and sides of torte. Bring corn syrup to boil in small saucepan.

Remove from heat and add unsweetened chocolate. Let stand until chocolate is melted and syrup is cooled to lukewarm. Blend chocolate and syrup, then stir in hot water. Quickly spread on top and sides of torte.

Garnish sides with chopped nuts. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

New Dinner Idea For the New Year

by LOIS SEILER

To start a bright new year we are featuring a new idea for an old favorite that everyone enjoys.

Baked ham has long been a standby of many a good cook, for either an appealing family dinner or for serving a large crowd. And with her baked ham dinners our cook-of-the-week, Mrs. Stephen L. Donchess of Arlington Heights, likes to serve a nippy mustard sauce with a delicious cheese rice casserole as an accompaniment for the meat.

The mustard sauce combines egg yolks, sugar, dry mustard, evaporated milk and vinegar. Cooked in a double boiler until thick and creamy, Mrs. Donchess chills the sauce and serves it in a little dish. Its tangy flavor gives zest to either warm or cold ham, and is delicious on leftover ham sandwiches.

"The cheese rice casserole is something a little different from the usual scalloped potatoes or baked beans that is often served with ham," Madge Donchess explained. "It can be prepared in advance and simply popped into the oven before serving."

This casserole combines cooked rice with sauteed onion and green pepper, parsley, milk, eggs, cheese and seasonings. Baked for an hour, the fluffy rice is quite colorful with its bits of green pepper and parsley, and has a savory, delightful flavor.

"A VEGETABLE and a tossed salad are all that are needed to complete this meal," Mrs. Donchess said. For dessert, we suggest serving this good cook's rich and luscious chocolate angel dessert.

To make this recipe, a smooth and creamy chocolate mixture is prepared first and flavored with creme de menthe. This is arranged in a pyrex dish with pieces of angel food cake and salted, slivered pecans.

Chilled for several hours, it may be garnished with additional whipped cream. This is an elegant bridge or dinner dessert and will serve 12.

Chairman of publicity for the Arlington Heights PTA Council, Mrs. Donchess is also a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mount Prospect Pair Weds In St. Raymond's Church

Two Mount Prospect families were united Nov. 28 in St. Raymond's Catholic Church when Miss Barbara Louise Pepper, daughter of the Foster Lewis Peppers, 118 N. Emerson, and Ralph George Urban, son of the Ralph John Urbans, 212 S. Hi-Lusi, were married by Fr. Gerard Weber. The double ring service took place at 11 a.m. and was followed by a dinner reception for 140 guests at Chevy Chase Country Club.

The bride approached the altar, which was decorated with two bridal baskets, on the arm of her father. She chose a floor-length bell skirted gown with chapel train, flared in back from two bows. The gown was fashioned of candlelight peau with alencon lace and featured a bolero effect lace bodice and long sleeves. She wore a matching peau headpiece covered with lace to hold her fingertip veil, and she carried a round simplicity bouquet of stephanotis and white miniature roses with white satin streamers and cording.

Completing her costume was a strand of cultured pearls, a gift from her bridegroom.

THE GROOM'S sister, Gaillee Urban, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Judith Seegers of Mount Prospect, Jean Persowich of Elmhurst and Linda Dicks of Chicago. The maid of honor's gown was of gold and mango brocade and she carried gold and mango pompons in an angel drop bouquet with gold cording. The bridesmaids' gowns were in gold brocade without the mango, and their bouquets were also of gold and mango pompons, but with rust cording.

The gowns were floor-length, the maid of honor's fashioned with A-line skirt, jacket and long sleeves and mango organdy trim. A matching pill box headpiece completed her ensemble. The bridesmaids' gowns, also floor-length, were fashioned with scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves and flared backs adorned with cabbage roses. They also wore cabbage rose headpieces.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Pepper chose a 2-piece sleeveless suit of royal blue with matching accessories and a white japhet orchid. Mrs.

Urban chose a pale blue dress with matching feather veil hat and a white japhet orchid.

BEST MAN to the groom was Dennis Dryjanski of Rosemont and ushers were Frank Muscia of Chicago, David Paisley of Wheeling and Gerald Glaser of Des Plaines. The groom's 6-year-old brother, Tod, served as ring bearer.

The newlyweds honeymooned in the Pocono Mountains for a week and are now at home at 207 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect. Both graduates of Prospect High School, the bride is employed at Mount Prospect State Bank. The groom, who also studied at Lee Automation Institute, is an IBM programmer for a Chicago firm.

Given in marriage by Mr. Bingaman, the bride wore a floor-length dress of silk taffeta and French lace. The A-line skirt of silk taffeta overlaid a longer skirt of re-embroidered lace and at the back was a detachable chapel train. The taffeta bodice had a rounded neckline and bell-shaped sleeves which also overlaid the lace. A silk taffeta pillbox held the bride's illusion veil in place, and her bouquet was composed of white roses with ivy.

HER MAID OF honor wore a moss green velvet dress with wan A-line skirt, floor-length, and a matching green velvet pillbox hat and circle veil. Her bouquet was of gold and bronze mums tied with green ribbon.

A centerpiece at the altar was composed of white mums and daisies, and cadelabras at either side lit the sanctuary for the double ring rites.

Area Maternity Center Team Plans 70th Birthday Party

Mrs. George N. Tuttle of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Frank Seery of Palatine- co-chairmen of the Chicago Maternity Center's Paddock area charity team, were hostesses to the 27 team members at luncheon in Mrs. Seery's Inverness home Monday, Jan. 4. On this occasion final plans were made for the celebration of the 70th birthday of the Chicago Maternity Center, established Feb. 14, 1895, by Dr. Joseph B. DeLee.

Individual team members are inviting their friends to an "Anniversary Bawl," their 12th annual cocktail dance, followed by dinner, which will be held at Itasca Country Club Feb. 13 to benefit the maternity center. George Fanelli's orchestra will provide music for dancing from 4 to 8 p.m.

THE CHICAGO Maternity Center is said to be the world's largest traveling maternity hospital, providing obsterical care for needy expectant mothers by delivering their babies safely, yet inexpensively, at home. The Center provides a clinic for complete pre-natal and post-natal care and is a unique practical training center for doctors and nurses and for all senior-year medical students at Northwestern University and University of Chicago.

It also maintains a research laboratory conducting studies whose findings are shared with the medical profession around the world.

Cost of giving home delivery care to a patient is $125, including all pre-natal and post-partum care. Families are charged according to their ability to pay; care must often be given free. The Center is supported by voluntary contributions from individuals, firms, foundations; four women's auxiliaries and the Extension Board; and a yearly allocation from the community Fund of Chicago, Inc.

TEAM MEMBERS working with Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Seery on the Feb. 13 benefit dance include: Mrs. G. T. Beard, Mrs. Betty Black, Mrs. Vernon R. Boman, Mrs. Nat T. Burfeind, Mrs. Robert P. Campbell, Mrs. William Cook, Mrs. Harry Colburn, Mrs. Charles B. Cronin, Mrs. R. W. Daeschner, Mrs. James L. Drake, Mrs. F. W. Hamilton, Mrs. James F. Hendricks, Mrs. Robert S. Hoffman, Mrs. Arthur W. Komarek, Mrs. John A. Lindstrom, Mrs. Carl V. Palmer, Mrs. L. Pearson, Mrs. S. L. Sage, Mrs. Joseph Schneller, and Mrs. William Townsend of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Ole Christensen of Prospect Heights; Mrs. William C. Eilbracht, Mrs. John D. Patterson of Mount Prospect; Mrs. John S. Flaherty of Palatine; and Mrs. C. J. Zettek Jr. of Elk Grove Village.

NEW MEMBERS of the Chicago Maternity Center Benefit Committee, Mrs. F. W. Hamilton and Mrs. Robert S. Hoffman of Arlington Heights, study the placing of candles on the cake which will be the central motif of the "Anniversary Bawl." An invitational cocktail dance and dinner, the affair is planned for Saturday, Feb. 13, at Itasca Country Club, to celebrate the 70th birthday of the Maternity Center. Mrs. Hamilton is working on special features for entertainment of guests at the party and Mrs. Hoffman is planning decorations.

TWELVE TABLES, decorated in the theme of the month, will provide seating arrangements Wednesday, Jan. 13, when the Women's Society of Palatine Methodist Church holds its Birthday Luncheon. Mrs. Durwood Smith, Mrs. James Fulford and Mrs. Edward La Croix give a preview of their costumes to Mrs. Herbert Chidley, vice president of the society. Lydia Circle is sponsoring the luncheon. Topics Run Gamut For AAUW Branch Interests of the Arlington Heights American Association of University Women will range this month from India to card parties to international fellowship grants.

At the Jan. 14 meeting, AAUW members will hear a talk on "India's Dilemma — East versus West" by Dr. Wilbert H. Rosin, a professor at Concordia College, River Forest. The meeting will take place at 8 p.m. in Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Building.

A CHECK FOR $124, representing one dollar for each member of the local branch, will be sent by Mrs. F. J. Riedl, treasurer, to the national association as a contribution to the International Fellowships Fund. By doing so, the Arlington Heights women will help make it possible for outstanding women scholars from other lands to do advanced study in the United States.

Success in the AAUW Used Book Fair of Nov. 20-21 made the $124 donation possible. The local AAUW had been working to raise $500 so it could underwrite a U. S. fellowship grant bearing the name of the Arlington Heights branch. The money was to have been raised by the book fair, which brought in $200 last year, and by a card party on Jan. 25.

"THE BOOK FAIR upset all our calculations by raising $630 for the fellowship fund," said Mrs. Charles Toot, AAUW president, in telling of plans for the international fellowship donation. "Not that we're complaining," she added. "Special credit for the book fair's success," she said, "should go to Mrs. Francis Egan, its chairman, and to Mrs. Dan Farris of Palatine, fellowships chairman."

The benefit card party will take place at noon Monday, Jan. 25, at Long Grove Country Club. Tickets will be on sale at the Jan. 14 meeting and are available from the event's chairman Mrs. Paul Davis, 358-5643.

SIX AAUW STUDY groups will meet this month. The Migrant Ministry was the topic at a human relations study group meeting Jan. 5 with Mrs. F. D. Swanson as hostess.

The Contemporary Thought group for couples will discuss "Federal Aid to Schools" at a meeting Friday, Jan. 15, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John Parsons, 508 S. George, Mount Prospect. (S

Imported Spanish 'Tapas' New for Appetizer Tray

Serving a strange new exotic item from overseas makes a party fun, especially when nothing more need be done than open a can and sprinkle a simple but delicious sauce over the contents.

ADD SPANISH FLAVOR to your next party with these imported food items dressed in olive oil and sherry vinegar.

Recently in New York City food editors were treated to a display of imported Spanish wines and delicacies which included such hits as canned octopus, cockles (berberechos), huge plump sardines, and delicate white meat of tuna put up in pure Spanish olive oil.

Most of these could be served just as they came from the can, with garnishes of minced parsley, strips of pimiento (also imported), and perhaps a sprinkling of imported Spanish sherry and fresh olive oil.

A NUMBER of vegetables are now available from Spain in cans. These include tiny sweet artichoke hearts, small whole mushrooms and white asparagus spears. A sauce of Spanish olive oil and wine vinegar added to these turns them into superb hors d'oeuvres, or the artichokes or asparagus may be served in place of a salad at dinner.

ANCHOVY AND PIMIENTO CANAPE

Thoroughly drain a large can or jar of pimientos, cut pimientos in rounds to fit Melba toast rounds. Butter the Melba toast rounds, place a pimiento round on the toast, then a curled anchovy in the center of the pimiento.

Sprinkle olive oil and imported Spanish sherry vinegar over the canapes (using at least twice as much olive oil as vinegar).

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

Thoroughly drain ½ pound can imported Spanish artichoke hearts, marinate in a sauce of ¼ cup Spanish olive oil, 2 tablespoons sherry vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon oregano, dash of pepper, 2 whole garlic cloves.

Marinate overnight and remove garlic before serving as a hors d'oeuvres.

HERBED OLIVES

Drain off half the brine from a jar of pimiento-stuffed green olives, add 1 tablespoon imported sherry vinegar, ¼ teaspoon oregano, dash of thyme, dash of fennel. Fill jar with Spanish olive oil.

Marinate several hours before serving, then remove olives from the jar, drain thoroughly. Save the sauce for storing any olives that may be left over.

SPANISH SARDINES

Arrange the large imported Spanish sardines on a platter, sprinkle lightly with imported sherry vinegar. Garnish sardines with strips of pimiento.

SPICY TUNA CHEESE DIP

1 cup imported Spanish white meat of tuna, drained
¼ teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon cheese-garlic salad dressing mix (Good Seasons)
1 tablespoon capers
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon Spanish olive oil
1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients, mix lightly until well-blended. Serve garnished with minced parsley and strips of pimiento. Makes 1 cup.

BERBERECHOS EN QUESO (Clams in Cheese)

Drain thoroughly a 4-ounce tin of imported "Berberechos en Salsa Tomate" (baby clams or cockles in tomato sauce); add to 1 8-ounce package cream cheese. Beat to blend well.

Serve as a dip with crackers or use to stuff celery. Makes 1 cup dip. (Instead of the cockles, well-drained minced sea clams may be used.)

Elk Grove Juniors Set 'Discotheque'

The Jerk, Swim and Monkey will share billing with the fox trot, tango and twist at "Discotheque," the Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club's eighth annual benefit dance Saturday, Jan. 16, at the Elmhurst Country Club. A feature of the dance will be the demonstration of the new dance steps during band breaks throughout the evening.

"Discotheque" (pronounced dis-ko-tek) has been called this generation's answer to the Jazz Age. The new dance mania began in the private clubs of high society in Paris and New York but quickly spread to include all ages and social levels.

VARIOUSLY DESCRIBED as "the twist with hand movements and "syncopated sign language," disco dancing is uniquely individual. Music is recorded or taped. The steps may be done with or without a partner and each person can do different movements to the same music. Even the dress for discotheque may vary from formal gowns through easy fitting dresses to skirts and sweaters.

To set the festive and friendly mood of the evening, a "Happy Hour" cocktail party at the Country Club will precede the dance.

Tickets for the dance are available from any Elk Grove Club member or Mrs. Charles Schultz, 439-2416.

Orange Cider Punch Brims With Healthful Vitamin C

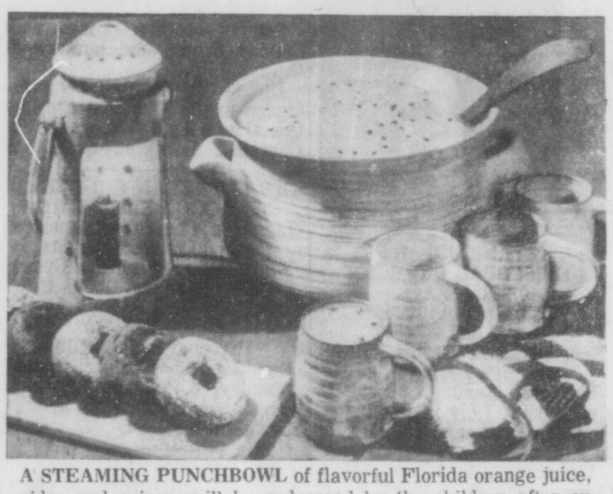
After hiking or skating, skiing or sledding, a chilled child deserves something hot and nourishing to "thaw the icicles." And a steaming potful of Orange Cider Punch is just the tasty ticket.

The fragrant brew is composed of healthful Florida orange juice, sweet cider, sugar, allspice and nutmeg, topped by floating orange slices studded with cloves.

WE'VE PARAPHRASED the familiar line "one if by land and two if by sea" to "one if by C," and lit the lantern in our photo to remind you that pure, natural orange juice is one of Mother Nature's best sources of nutricious vitamin C.

This is the one vitamin not stored by the body, so it must be replenished daily. Adults, too, need vitamin C every day to maintain their good health and resistance to winter's colds and respiratory infections.

So old and young alike will enjoy and benefit from this Orange Cider Punch.



A STEAMING PUNCHBOWL of flavorful Florida orange juice, cider and spices, will be welcomed by the children after an active day outdoors. (SH

ORANGE CIDER PUNCH

½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup cider
3 cups Florida orange juice.

Mix sugar, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg; add cider and heat until sugar dissolves. Add orange juice and heat until warm.

YIELD: About 1 quart.

A Mid Winter Treat— Fresh Corn Mexicali

Even though the barbecue area may be heaped with snow, it's still possible to munch your way happily up and down sweet, pearly rows of fresh Florida corn-on-the-cb.

This is one of Florida's proudest mid-winter crops, grown from special extra-sweet strains of corn which thrive in spite of the shorter days and longer nights that are unavoidable during winter months, even in The Sunshine State.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Asociation sends this flavorful recipe using fresh corn.

FRESH CORN MEXICALI

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups diced green pepper
½ cup diced fresh onions
1½ cups fresh corn, cut-off-the-cob
1½ cups sliced okra
2/3 cups bef consomme
¼ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Melt butter or margarine. Saute green peppers and onions for about 3 minutes. Add corn, okra, consomme, salt and ground black pepper. Cover and cook 5 minutes or until corn and okra are tender. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking.

Yild: 6 servings. (SH

FRESH CORN MEXICALI couldn't be easier or more flavorful. Saute together briefly fresh Florida sweet corn cut from the cob, green peppers, onion rings and sliced okra.

Variety Meats For Breakfast

If you enjoy eating sweetbreads, you'll like brains. These two variety meats are similar in tenderness and texture.

Gourmets who appreciate food are high in their praise of the mild flavor of brains, just as they are of sweetbreads.

PRECOOK brains in water to which vinegar or lemon juice has been added to help keep them white and firm.

BRAINS SCRAMBLED WITH EGGS

1 quart water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
6 eggs
½ cup milk
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings pings

Wash brains and simmer 20 minutes in water to which vinegar and 1 teaspoon of salt have been added. Drain, remove membrane and separate into small pieces.

Beat eggs, add milk, ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper. Cook brains in lard or drippings until lightly browned.

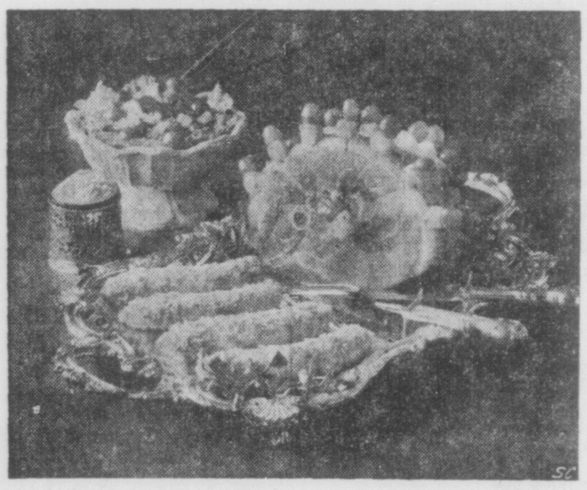
Parma Bananas



Even the mundane banana goes gourmet for parties in a tasty coat of bread crumbs and grated Parmesan and Romano cheese.

The Borden Kitchen reports this Parma Banana recipe is simplicity itself to prepare—just coat, then bake. It's a delightful compliment for baked ham scored with cherries and pineapple cubes, and a generous mixed green salad, sparked with more grated cheese.

Truly a joy to the hostess and her guests, be they many or just a few.

PARMA BANANAS
(Makes 8 servings)

½ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan and Romano cheese
1/8 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons melted butter
4 large simi-ripe bananas
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a pyrex pie plate, combine bread crumbs, cheese and salt. Blend well. Stir in melted butter; mix well. Set aside. Peel bananas. Coat well with lemon juice.

ROLL IN CRUMB mixture, coating all sides well. Place in lightly buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrres) 20 minutes, or until crumbs are lightly browned.

To serve, slice bananas in half lengthwise and serve hot as accompaniment with baked ham, roast loin of pork or pork chops. Allow one-half banana per serving. (SH

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. A Delmonico (rib eye) roast.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. It comes from the rib section of beef, the same section as is used for the beef standing rib.

In a Delmonico or rib eye roast, the back and rib bones, fat and muscle covering over the rib eye are removed. Only the muscle known as the rib eye remains.

It is usually cut to weigh from 4 to 6 pounds.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting. Since the diameter of this roast is comparatively small, it's roasted at a slightly higher temperature than a regular beef standing rib.

The temperature used is moderate (350 degrees F.).

Q. How is roasting done?

A. The Delmonico roast is placed, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. It's seasoned with salt and pepper.

A roast meat and thermometer is inserted so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part, making sure it does not rest in fat.

Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast to the desired degree of doneness, as registered on the meat thermometer.

Pork Chops, Wild Rice Casserole

At a small dinner party, or just when you want to treat your family, you'll gain applause from all with a specialty pork chop entree.

One particular dish stars thick, meaty chops baked atop an unusually tasty wild rice and mushroom combination.

It's appropriately named Gourmet Pork Chops, yet is simple to prepare with expert reresults.

And once the dish goes into the oven, there's no watching involved. You're free to mingle with your guests.

GOURMET PORK CHOPS

6 rib pork chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/3 cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped celery
1 package (6 ounces) fresh mushrooms, quartered
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 beef bouillon cubes
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked wild rice (about ¾ cup uncooked)
1/3 cup light cream

Grease a 12 by 8-inch baking dish. Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season chops with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper.

Cook onion, celery and mushrooms in butter or margarine until onions and celery are tender and mushrooms are lightly browned.

ADD BOUILLON cubes to hot mushroom mixture. Crush cubes and stir until dissolved. Add ¼ teaspoon salt, rice and cream. Put rice mixture in baking dish. Place chops on top.

Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking 15 minutes, or until chops are done.

Six servings. (SH

Art Gallery Schedules Bolte Memorial Exhibit

A memorial exhibition for sculptor Orville Bolte, who resided at 1314 W. Euclid St., Arlington Heights, until his death Oct. 23, will be held the Countryside Gallery in Arlington Heights during January. Bolte was one of the founders of the gallery at 10 W. Miner St.

The memorial exhibition, which also will feature the work of five painters, will be on view through Jan. 29. The other artists include William Wimmer, also of Arlington Heights; Barbara Housekeeper and Lucille Shellman, Deerfield; Betty Jurgens, Chicago, and Valfred Thelin Lincolnwood. A reception and special viewing will take place at the gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday to which the public is cordially invited.

Bolte was graduated from the University of Iilinois and for eight years worked as an industrial designer for Montgomery Ward. He served as a former vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Industrial Designers Institute. As a sculptor, he took selected studies at the Art Institute of Chicago and often worked in highly polished bronze and aluminum. His abtract sculptures have won prizes in recent local contests.

WILLIAM WIMMER, who has a master's degree from the Art Institute of Chicago, works primarily in graphics, (etching, wood engraving and wood cut) and oil painting. He has exhibited at invitational shows throughout the Chicago area such as the Highland Park Art Fair and the Old Orchard Festival of Arts, and was the winner of the first prize at the Art Institute Alumni Association Print Show this past summer.

Wimmer's work has been shown nationally in museums such as the Smithsonian, Washington, D. C., and the Boston and Norfolk Museums of Fine Art. Currently a teacher of art at Evanston High School and at the Art Institute, Wimmer has taught all age groups from elementary school children to adults. He served as chairman of the directors for the Countryside Gallery during the 1963-64 year.

Barbara Housekeeper, also a teacher of varied experience, recently represented the Countryside Art Center on the Jim Conway TV show. Her oil paintings have been exhibited locally through the North Shore Art League, and in 1962 she received the Calendar Award from this group, a second prize at the Evanston Women's Club, and in 1963 was awarded an honorable mention in the Countryside Art Fair.

Lucille Shellman, who studied with Rudolph Pen, will have oil paintings on view in the current show while Valfred Thelin will exhibit watercolors. Thelin has just returned from a trip to Paris, which was the grand prize awarded him this past summer at the Atlantic City. N. J., On-The-Boardwalk Show.

Ink drawings and oil paintings by Betty Jurgens complete the gallery's January showing of art works. Further information concerning this memorial exhibition may be obtained by calling 255-9718 during gallery hours, 1 to 4 p.m. daily except Monday.

Bouras was artist in residence at his alma mater, the University of Chicago, until 1964. His work is currently included in the Art of Assemblage exhibit at the Museum of Modern Art in New York and will be at the B.C. Holland Gallery in Chicago this spring. THIS SUMMER Bouras took first prize at the Old Orchard show. He was the recipient of the 1963 Logan Medal for his sculpture, "The Core," in the Vicinity Show at the Art Institute. He is represented in many museums and collections and has had shows at the Stable Gallery in New York, Denver and Europe.

Subseuent speakers at Countryside Art Center meetings will be Tom Strobel, "Developing A Style," in February and Jack Parker, "Great Galleries of Italy," in April.

Actor Has Trouble Finding A Uniform

Obtaining costumes for each new production at Country Club Theatre in Prospect Heights usually presents only a minor problem, according to Norman Rice, permanent member of the theatre's company.

A resident of Arlington Heights, Rice acts, designs sets and, in his role as general factotum, sometimes finds himself responsible for appropriate clothing and props each time the playbill changes.

When he won the male lead in "Voice of the Turtle," currently playing at Country Club Theatre in the Old Orchard Country Club, Rice found the part of a U.S. Army soldier of World War II vintage who has difficulty finding a hotel room in wartime New York called for an army uniform of the early 1940's and it seemed at first there should still be plenty of those around.

BUT CHICAGO costume specialists were no help, and an S.O.S. call to veterans' organizations drew a blank. He finally contacted an officer at Ft. Sheridan who assured him such a uniform was at the post — but on display at the Ft. Sheridan Museum!

Patrons of Country Club Theatre who have seen the show know that actor Rice finally did succeed in assembling a proper uniform. The soldier's blouse and shirt came from the attic of popular Chicago restaurateur Ric Riccardo. The slacks were donated by a fellow actor who enjoys the reputation among his friends of never discarding anything.

"Voice of the Turtle" tells about a weekending soldier who, decides to become better acquainted with a pretty actress to whose apartment he had come to meet the girl who jilted him. The comedy's complications increase as the girl who stood up the G-I tries to break up the romance that develops between the soldier and the actress.

IN "VOICE OF THE TURTLE," currently on stage at Country Club Theatre in Prospect Heights, Norman Rice of Arlington Heights plays the weekending G-I of World War II who seeks shelter from a rainstorm and finds romance. Locating an authentic Army uniform caused some difficulty for Rice, who as a permanent member of the theatre's company also designs sets and rounds up costumes.

JOHN VAN DRUTEN'S story is one of the longest running plays in stage history, and the cast at Country Club Theatre also includes Faith Quabius, who plays the lonely actress, and Patsy Karp, who portrays the calculating roommate.

The curtain goes up every night except Monday at 8:30 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m. on Sundays. Country Club Theatre is on the lower level of the Old Orchard Country Club, Rand and Euclid Roads. Theatre reservations can be made by phoning CL 5-2025 after 10 a.m.

Play Tryouts Set Jan. 17 by Village Theatre

Village Theatre of Arlington Heights will hold tryouts for its winter play, "Dinny and the Witches," Sunday, Jan. 17, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Bank of Rolling Meadows. Tryouts are open to the public.

William Gibson, author of "Dinny" as well as "The Miracle Worker" and "Two for the Seasaw," describes this play as "a light commentary on mankind."

Richard Tyler, resident director of Village Theatre, will direct this play, to be presented the first two weekends of March at Arlington High School. (Bill

Pinocchio Players Plan 'Cinderella' Performance

Living theater for children will be brought to the northwest area when an original version of "Cinderella" will be sponsored by the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club Saturday, Jan. 16. The Pinocchio Players Guild will give two live performances, at 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., at St. Viator High School Auditorium for children of the 6 to 12 age group.

This the third year that the Guild has performed in Arlington Heights under the Junior's sponsorship, and according to the chairman, Mrs. Harry Krol, "the plays have been so well received, that we have arranged for two plays to be presented again this year." The second play, "Rapunzel," will be given on March 20.

TICKETS FOR "Cinderella," on Jan. 16, are now available for either of the afternoon performances. The tickets may be obtained from any Junior Woman's Club member, or parents in Arlington Heights may call these numbers: northside, Cl 5 3675, southside, Cl 5-3673, eastside, 392-1774, or westside, Cl 3 2623. Mrs. Robert Chadderdon is in charge of all tickets in the Mount Prospect area.

Proceeds will go to the club's local philanthropies as well as the Illinois Federation of Women's Club state projects, such as scholarships for teachers of exceptional children and the Brain Research Foundation.

"As written for the Pinocchio Players Guild by Loyd Brady, the play "Cinderella" holds closely to the classic story line, but the play emphasizes color and action while appealing to the imagination of the child of 6-12 years old," commented Mrs. Krol.

"The story line of the wicked stepmother and her two stupid daughters victimizing the hapless Cinderella is perfectly preserved. The fairy godmother, and her magic wand which sets things on the path to rightness, will provide something of a surprisei for the small fry who attend," she added.

SETTINGS were designed by Rosemary Thurber, daughter of the late James Thurber, humorist of the New Yorker magazine. She also will create one of the step-sisters.

The part of the other stepsister will be taken by JoAnne Craig, formerly a featured dancer at the Diamond Horseshoe in New York, and veteran of the national company of "Oklahoma," where she portrayed Ado Annie.

The title role will be taken by Carmencita McDonald, who created the part of Anybodys in the Brush Hill Music Theatre production of "West Side Story."

Members of the Arlington Juniors will meet Tuesday, Jan. 12, to hear Mary Gordon, TWA woman's travel advisor. A native of New York, Miss Gordon was associated with TWA in Jerusalem, Cairo, Beirut, Lebanon and Los Angeles before coming to Chicago. Included in her program will be demonstrations on packing and advice on traveling with children. (S

Prospect Battles Forest View Friday

THURS., JAN. 7, 1965 PART B

Sports

BY BOB FRISK

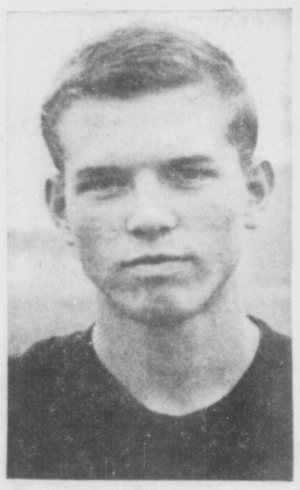
KICKIN' IT AROUND

TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS, one second place, and one fourth . . . that was the successful holiday basketball story supplied by area high schools.

When the final returns were in last week, Paddock area quintets showed a snappy profit of four handsome trophies for their efforts at holiday hardwood attractions.

Prospect swept to an impressive title in the Joliet festivities, knocking off Wheaton in the finals 55-52. Forest View grabbed the Fenton tourney prize, and Arlington picked up second place at Kankakee. St. Viator landed a fourth place finish in the rugged 16-team Chicagoland Invitational.

It wasn't easy. Prospect reached the semi-finals with a one-point thriller over touted Lincoln-Way and needed a fourth period explosion to turn back Wheaton. Forest View used two overtimes to dispose of Ridgewood and was a three-point winner in the title bout. Arlington coasted in the opener but had to knock over highly regarded Ottawa to reach the final game. St. Viator opened with a four-point victory and advanced to the semi's thanks to a brilliant 31-for-36 night at the free throw line.



BILL PHILLIPS

Balance paid off for the area entries. They didn't rely on one boy to carry them through the rugged tournament grind.

Prospect afforded an excellent example of this balance and prompted Joliet Central coach Ed Woods to comment, "They were such a well-coached team that it would be hard to name any boy from this squad as best. I was greatly impressed, however, with guard Bill Phillips because of his floor generalship and ball handling skill."

Phillips has been drawing raves this season and for reasons other than explosive nights on offense. He doesn't have to be a prolific scorer to keep his starting job. Bill runs the club, engineering the attack and spearheading the defense. He's a two-year regular and one of the best around.

But Phillips, a unanimous all-tourney selection, wasn't the only Knight standout at Joliet. There were Steve Johnson, another all-tourney choice, John MacKay, Rick Mader, Steve Kerr, Jim LaRocco and soph Tommy Lundstedt. Head coach Warren Collier would be the first to admit that a team effort paid off with Joliet championship.

Forest View also exhibited fine balance en route to the Fenton title. Pat Dunnigan was the Falcons' top scorer with 36 points for three outings, but only 12 markers separated the top four. And the fifth man in line, guard Byron Borgardt who hit the clutch basket against Ridgewood in the opener, was just 17 behind the leader.

"I was disappointed with our offense at Fenton, particularly our foul shooting," head coach Ken Arneson said. "But we did well on defense."

Forest View yielded only 132 points in three games and checked Reavis with 39 in the finale.

Arlington also showed excellent balance in reaching the championship contest at Kankakee. Chuck Lloyd, the Cardinals' 6-foot-7 center who had a fine tourney, was tops with 46 for three outings, but Bob Conner, Steve Allen, and Mike Frase also had games in double figures.

The play of the big boys, Lloyd and 6-foot-5 Conner, was encouraging for head man Ted Wissen as he looks ahead to the remainder of the conference campaign. Sophomore Allen also impressed with a smooth performance under pressure.

Although Chuck Grandt was the mainstay over four tourney contests, St. Viator also demonstrated balance as it picked up the fourth place trophy in the 16-team Chicagoland meet.

Grandt, a talented 6-foot-4 senior, was in double figures in each of four games and finished with 65 points, but each of the other starters also hit 10 or more in at least one tourney fray.

Guard Mike Hogan did it three times with games of 11, 13, and 17. Paul Pomplun, the 6-foot-6 center-forward, chipped in with outings of 18 and 11, and guard John Erfort had two 15-point nights. Paul Dumke collected 10 in one period against St. Francis of Wheaton.

Balance was a key word as Prospect, Forest View, Arlington, and St. Viator combined for ten victories in 13 tourney games and brought home four handsome tropies!

Ski Tournament To Open Jan. 16

Olympic and World champions will attend the 1965 Norge International Ski Tournament

The competition, sponsored by the Norge Ski Club of Chicago, will open on Jan. 16 and run for two days at the club's jumping hill in Fox River Grove.

Heading this year's list of entries is Toralf Engan from Norway. Engan won the 1960 world's championship held in Poland and also took the gold medal at the 1964 Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria.

Chief among Engan's rivals for the Norge first place medal and trophy will be Torgeir Pradtzag, from Norway, and Fins Miilo Halonen and Raimo Vitikainen. Pradtzak captured the 1963 and 1964 Norwegian championships and was a double bronze medal winner in the last Olympics. Halonen was second in the Squaw Valley gathering of 1960.

About 20,000 spectators are expected to view the 160 contestants who are entered in the tournament which is the fifty-eighth annual contest sponsored by the Norge group. Those entrants will be divided into three levels, veterans, seniors, and juniors, for the trip down the 150 foot Norge jump.

Up to 400 tons of ice will be held in reserve to insure an adequate surface on the jumping slope even in summed-like weather.

Admission to the tournament is $2.00.

Arlington Quintet Travels Friday for Conference Game

by BOB FRISK

Arlington's varsity basketball Cardinals, back home this week after a successful holiday stop at Kankakee, hit the road again Friday evening.

Coach Ted Wissen's travelers, an impressive runner-up in the eight-team Kankakee holiday tournament, will journey to Downers Grove to resume warfare in the West Suburban Conference.

Arlington makes this next trip with renewed confidence. Wissen's outfit showed some fine basketball at Kankakee, toppling a highly regarded Ottawa five and taking formidable Peoria Central to the wire in the championship game.

WISSEN IS encouraged, and he hopes the Cardinals didn't leave their game in the Kankakee gymnasium. "We had a good practice Monday after the layoff," Ted said.

While Arlington was picking up an impressive trophy for its second place finish at Kankakee, Downers Grove ran into some problems in the Proviso West 16-team attraction.

Lloyd Wasmer's quintet fell to LaGrange by 21 points (97-56) in the opener but did reach the consolation championship before getting mauled by Niles West, 65-35.

"LaGRANGE AND Niles are both strong, quick clubs," Wasmer said. "Those are the types of teams that have been giving us a lot of troube this year."

Wasmer isn't unhappy with the Trojans' 6-5 season record. "We're young. We're going to be better," he says.

Yotuh is evident in the Downers starting alignment. Wasmer may open with three juniors and a sophomore Friday against Arlington.

THE KEY PERFORMER is 6-foot-4 Bud Bocker, a junior who also sparkled as an end in football. "Bud is a hard worker and has been coming around very fast," Wasmer praises.

Bocker has a season high of 28 against LaGrange in the Proviso tourney opener. He also hit Glenbard West with 27 in the final conference outing before the holiday break and owns 75 in four league frays.

Falcons Host League Game

Area Clubs Resume Loop Play After Tourney Wins

by MICHAEL HESS

Similarity — that's the key!!

A battle of champions — that's the billing!!

Forest View vs. Prospect — that's the schedule!!

Friday night on Goebbert Road — that's the time and the place.

When Forest View hosts Prospect tomorrow evening, two nearly identical quintets which recently grabbed tournament triumphs will struggle for a chance to stay near the top of the Mid-Suburban League standings.

FOREST VIEW, currently 3-0 in league, needs a win to remain in a first place tie with Maine West. Prospect, owning a 2-1 conference mark, needs a win to maintain any hopes of capturing the M-SL title.

In addition to finding that tomorrow's game is definitely on the "must win" list, each squad is strikingly similiar in many other ways:

The Falcons enter the game direct from winning the Fenton Holiday tournament. The Knights are hot after taking honors in the Joliet Holiday tournament. Both are champions.

BOTH TEAMS dominated the all-star teams picked at their tourneys. For Prospect the all-tourney choices were 5-11 guard Bill Phillips and 6-3 forward Steve Johnson. From Forest View the selections were Pat Dunnigan, a 6-3 guard, and forwards Jeff Grismer, 6-1, and Steve Jacobsen, 6-5.

The Knights' Phillips is the cool, efficient leader whose sharp passing, smooth dribbling and agressive defensive work paced his team's tournament win. Dunnigan, of the Falcons, is a defensive wizard whose 36 points topped his team's offense and sparked FV to its tourney title.

Both coaches agreed that their squads benefited from the holiday action.

"THE TOURNAMENT win couldn't help but help us," stated Warren Collier, Prospect's head man. "And what we did at Joliet could be a turning point in our season."

"I don't see how winning at Fenton can hurt us," said Forest View's coach Ken Arneson. "That tourney should increase our confidence. But any turning point for us will come after we've met tougher competition."

Both teams show eight wins and just two losses in overall action this season. Forest View has lost only to Elgin and West Leyden while Prospect has dropped decisions to Proviso East and Maine West.

FINALLY, BOTH teams feature a balanced but modest attack and a mighty defense.

The Falcons have three players who have tossed in more than 80 points, two of them over 100, for an offensive unit which has averaged 53.5 points per game. Dunnigan has 94 points in ten games, Jacobsen 100 and center Jim Baumgardt has tossed in 107 points.

The Knights, who have averaged 51.9 points per game, have four players with 80 points or more but none with higher than 100. Phillips has 92 points, Johnson has 82, guard Steve Kerr shows 94 and forward Rick Mader has 83.

PROSPECT HAS held opponents to a 47.3 average and the defenses of Forest View have limited the opposition to a 49.6 total per game.

Even with all this similarity between the two championship quintets, here is one important difference: a Forest View varsity has never won in an engagement with Prospect.

Over the past two years the Knights have scored 65-26, 53-40, 55-45, 45-42 and 65-52 triumphs in the five meetings between the two schools.

How do the coaches sum up the coming battle?

Said Arneson: "We'll have to work on our offense and free throw shooting which haven't been good lately, especially in the fourth quarter. We expect a very tough game with Prospect."

Said Collier: "We'll have to try to cut down their height advantage. Naturally they play better at home and we can expect almost anything when we go to Forest View."

Knight JV's Top Conant

Clutch foul shooting by Tony Kulasa in the final period led the Prospect Jayvees to a 56-48 victory at Conant last Saturday.

Kulasa hit on seven of eight throws while the Knights were protecting a lead to gain their sixth win in seven games.

Ray Kleinhuzen led the Knights with 15, followed by Kulasa with 14 and Tom Beard with a dozen.

John Glassoff led Conant with 15, followed by Walt Riley with 11, Larry Powell with nine and Dave Sander with seven.

St. Viator Launches League Play Friday

by BOB FRISK

They get down to the serious business of finding a conference champion this weekend in the Chicagoland Prep League.

The preliminaries are over for the eight schoolboy basketball teams, and firing begins on all fronts Friday evening.

The favorites? St. Patrick and DeLaSalle finished 1-2 last winter and are the clubs most likely to succeed again this time around.

DeLaSALLE IS considered the best bet to sanre the coveted league championship thanks to an impressive 55-46 thumping of St. Pat's last week in the Chicagoland Prep League tourney.

Although the Meteors and Shamrocks are the leading title favorites, there appears to be more overall strength in the Chicagoland in 1964-65 than in recent years.

St. Viator of Arlington Heights a fourth place finisher in the rugged Chicagoland Christmas headliner, should give everyone trouble. Larry Nomellini has molded a capable outfit built around one of the league's finest performers, 6-foot-4 Charley Grandt.

THE LIONS stepped through [illegible] conference games with an impressive 7-3 record and reeled [illegible] streak of six straight victories at one time. They have good size and scoring balance.

Nomellini's crew kicks off its league schedule Friday evening with a home game against St. Mel of Chicago. The Lions travel to St. George of Evanston Saturday to complete the first of seven straight league double-headers.

Scoring balance dictates on this St. Viator outfit after ten games. Grandt, who set a school mark with 29 points last Saturday in a 73-53 rout of Foreman, is the leader with 167 and a 16.7 standard, but four others are averaging in double figures.

NEXT IN LINE are Paul Pomplun (11.5), Mike Hogan (11.2), and John Erfort (10.4). Paul Dumke, who averaged 17 a game with the Lion sophs last winter but is off to a slow start with the varsity, still has an 8.7 per game standard. Paul

Nursing Bad Knee

Newman Doubtful For Weekend Pair

by TOM TULLY

As if things aren't going badly enough for the Wheeling Wildcats, they face the prospect of opening the 1965 segment of the current basketball season without leading scorer and playmaker, Mark Newman.

Newman, tied for the Mid-Suburban scoring lead with Stoney Jackson of Maine West, banged up a knee before the Fenton tourney and is still on the doubtful list for this weekend's doubleheader.

The Cats return to MSC play tomorrow evening when they host Deerfield. The following night they travel to Conant to battle the only club they have beaten in nine outings this winter.

WHETHER NEWMAN goes or not, Wheeling fans will not see the same lineup that took the floor for Mike Owens before the holidays. Bob Demres, a skinny 6-5 junior is slated for a start at center. Chances are he'll be joined by Scott Bischoff and Al Gibbon at the forwards and Tom Neukranz and Newman or Jerry Kerr at the guards. Domres, promoted from the jayvees for the Fenton tourney, started one game over there and chipped in with seven points.

The Cats have a fair chance to bag their first conference win on Friday, for the visiting Warriors appear to be one of the circuit's weaker clubs. Lyle Frahm's club stands at 2-7 for the season and 1-2 in conference play. The Warriors have beaten Niles North and lost to Maine West and Forest View in league play. Their other win came at the expense of Ridgewood.

The visitors are young, almost as youthful as Wheeling. Guard Rusty Benedict is the only senior in Frahm's starting lineup and a pair of 6-2 juniors, John Lindquist and Tom Fuzzey, are the tallest. Leading scorer Dick McDermott (14 points per game) and watch charm guard Kevin Morrison round out the starting five. Brian Gunderson, a former starter, is the first man off the bench.

Frahm is looking for more scoring and tougher rebounding. He hopes he added some punch with a recent move that saw Fuzzey going from forward to center. The insertion of football star Lindquist at a forward seems certain to beef up the boardwork. He snared 18 in the Warriors last game.

Wheeling edged Conant 51-48 the first time around and the Cats are not likely to find the Cougars much easier this time. In the first place, 6-6 Cougar center Larry Powell sat out that first match. He'll play in this one. Secondly, despite their 2-10 record, the junior laden Cougars are improving. They were impressive in a three game stint at the Fenton tourney. Finally, that first match took place at Wheeling. If the Cats are to repeat, it will have to be done on the Conant boards.

The man the Cats have to stop is high scoring Conant guard John Glassoff. Glassoff, a long range bomber, has a 16.4 average.

Forest View Dumps Reavis for Tourney Title; Fenton 3rd

by BOB RADER

Forest View's Falcons came from behind after one period and withstood a fourth quarter flurry of Reavis' Bill Bukousky to win the Fenton Holiday Tournament championship 42-39 last week (Wednesday).

The host Bisons overcame a lack-luster first half performance to beat out Conant 62-45 for third. Elmwood Park won the consolation championship by whipping Lake Park 81-67.

The Falcons of Coach Ken Arneson got off to a slow start against the Rams in the championship game. They were on the short end of a 13-4 score until Bryon Borgardt hit from the line with slightly more than a minute left in the period. With 15 seconds left. Jeff Grismer hit a 20-footer to make it 13-8.

MIDWAY THROUGH the second period, the Falcons took the lead as a result of a scoring splurge by Jim Baumgardt. Baumgardt made a layup at 7:35 to make it 13-10. Bob Sala gave the Rams a 14-10 margin when he made the second of two free throws.

The Falcons then tied the game up as Baumgardt stuffed two rebounds through the hoop and moved in front 15-14 when he made a free toss at 4:56.

Rich Simons pulled Reavis even at 4:04 on a charity toss, but Borgardt connected on a layup; Grismer hit a long one from the left corner; and Baumgardt put a short one through to give the Falcons a 21-15 lead. The teams then traded two baskets each to make it 24-19 at the half.

REAVIS WAS HELD to only seven points in the third stanza while the Falcons hit for 14. A 30-footer by Pat Dunnigan gave Forest View a 38-24 lead with 40 seconds left, but Simons countered with an 8-footer from the baseline to make it 38-26.

In the final stanza, the Falcons played deliberate ball trying to force the Rams to come out and also to wait for a sure shot. However, the plan almost backfired. The Falcons scored only four points, all on free throws, while Bukousky went on his scoring spree. He hit for nine of the Rams' 13 points.

In the last three minutes with the score 41-35, the Falcons turned the ball over four times to the Rams. Two times Dunnigan was called for traveling, once he passed the ball out of bounds and Borgardt got caught traveling. However, the Rams scored only one basket as a result, a shot from the top of the key by Sala.

WITH 26 SECONDS left, Bukousky narrowed the gap to two points, 39-41 on a field goal from the left of the key. With eight seconds left, however, Jerry Fiat fouled Borgardt. Borgardt made the first and missed the second of a one-and-one to close out the scoring.

The game was punctuated by traveling violations. In addition to the four mentioned above, Reavis was called a number of times for walking with the ball in the first three periods.

Both teams shot miserably from the charity stripe. Forest View had 17 baskets and 8 free throws to Reavis' 16 and 7. The Falcons had a .40 free throw average, hitting eight of 20. Reavis was 7 of 19 for a .37 average.

BUKOUSKY TOOK scoring honors with 15 points. Steve Jacobsen and Baumgardt led the Falcons with 11 each.

Fenton's Bisons showed the effects of fighting and losing a close 58-57 decision to Reavis Tuesday in the first half of their game with Conant for third place Wednesday.

First round action saw the champion sophs gain a 46-35 victory over Carl Sandberg. In that game the winners grabbed an early lead and never were headed after the opening quarter. High point men for Prospect were Al Shers with 15 and Dan Carda with 12.

Only Card Winner

Brown First In Mat Quad

Scott Brown, wrestling at 112 pounds, gave Arlington High School its only first place last week in the Lake Park Quadrangular.

The Cardinal varsity, coached by Julius Fliehler, placed third in the four-team alignment with 75 points.

Glenbard East (91) and Maine West (85) finished 1-2 with host Lake Park fourth at 57.

Arlington's Brown posted two straight two-point decisions in picking up the 112-pound championship. He whipped Glenbard East's Pekny, Prospect tourney titlist, 4-2 in a first round tussle and dumped Maine West's Krumpos 5-3 for the championship.

Arlington showed five seconds in the 12 weight divisions.

Bruce Conti was second at 127 pounds, falling to Glenbard East's Rader 5-2 in the title bout. Conti had whipped Maine's Rozanski 6-0 in his opener.

CHIP DOUGLAS fashioned a pin in his first match at 138 but fell to Maine West's Hansch 4-3 for the title. Don Lindmark got by Maine's Kautz 3-1 at 145 before bowing to Lake Park's Piagentini 2-0.

Charley Hood gave Arlington another second with a runnerup berth at 165 pounds. Hood blanked Lake Park's Kalivoda 4-0 in the opener but fell to Maine West's Cichowski 7-4 for the championship.

Mark Frase, operating in the heavyweight slot, pinned Glenbard East's McGown in 2:30 in a first round tussle. Mark fell to Maine West's Kruse 5-4 in the title meeting.

Meadows Baptist defeated Edgebrook Free 33-29 last Saturday to remain the only undefeated team in either division of the Northwest Suburban YMCA Church Basketball League.

As a result of the win Madeows Baptist stayed on top of the Red Division with a 5-0 record while Edgebrook Free, even with the loss, still held first place in the Blue Division with a 4-1 record.

Other winners in last Saturday's action were Arlington Free, which defeated Des Plaines Bible 64 to 50, Cumberland Baptist, which drubbed Immanuel Baptist 82-41, and Palatine Bible, which won on a forfeit from Christian Alliance.

For Third Place

St. Francis Handles Lions

A disastrous second period cost St. Viator High School third place in the Chicagoland Prep League Invitational basketball tournament.

St. Francis of Wheaton hit the Lions with a 25-9 nightmare in the second quarter of their third place battle last week (Wednesday) and held on for a 71-59 victory.

DeLaSalle turned back host St. Patrick, 55-46, for the Chicagoland championship.

ST VIATOR battled St. Francis on even terms through the first eight minutes of their third place tussle, but then disaster struck.

"We threw the ball away a lot and missed three one-and-one free throw situations," Lion coach Larry Nomellini explained. "We could never catch up."

St. Francis' Jim Derrig, the tourney's most valuable player, hit St. Viator with 11 baskets and seven free throws in sparking the 12-point decision. Derrig had 17 at halftime as St. Francis pulled out to a 37-21 lead.

PAUL DUMKE came off the bench to pace a third quarter revival for the Lions but it was too late. Dumke flipped in 10 points in the third segment and St. Viator was down by only 11, 50-39 heading into the concluding quarter.

Mike Hogan found the range in the fourth period with four baskets and Chuck Grandt contributed seven points as the Lions collected 20 in a futile rush.

St. Viator had a rare bad night at the free throw line, connecting on only 17 of 31. St. Francis was red-hot with 19 of 23 finding the mark.

Derrig, who collected 106 points in four games in setting a new tourney scoring mark, hit 12 in the second half to finish with 29 against the Lions. Grandt was high for St. Viator with 19 on eight baskets and three free throws.

Waukegan Tops Card Swimmers

St. Viator Five

hit six baskets against Foreman and may be coming around.

The Lions continue to amaze at the free throw line with five of their top six boys hitting at 65 per cent or better. Grandt is the leader with 57 of 72 (79 per cent).

St. Mel, the Lions' opponent Friday night, will carry a 4-4 record into the contest. Coach Vern Gaugush has his attack built around two stickout guards, Jimmy Crivolio (5-10) and Dennis White (5-9).

CRIVOLIO IS AVERAGE 21 points per game and White, a brilliant halfback in football, is hitting a 15.0 per game average.

Working under the basket for St. Mel are Tony Vymola (6-0), Jim Paolello (5-11), and Mike Harrison (6-2). Art Walker (5-10) is the top reserve.

When St. Viator visits St. George Saturday, the boy they'll have to watch is 6-foot-4, 205-pound junior Don Geist. Don is the key performer on Ed Slingerland's outfit.

St. Mel was 4-10 in the league last winter and St. George finished one notch ahead of St. Viator with an 8-6 standard. The Lions were 7-7.

Lions' Frosh Bumped, 40-38

Glenbrook North's frosh basketball team shaded St. Viator last week, 40-38, in the Glenbrook Holiday Tournament.

The two teams were tied heading into the final period.

Barry Carlson fired in 11 points for the Lions on four baskets and three throws. Bill Yeager and Bill Reising collected seven each.

ket Friday will be junior Dick Lane (6-1) and senior John Howat (6-2) at the forwards. Howat has had some trouble with his knee but is a likely starter.

IN THE backcourt a sophomore, junior, and senior are the top candidates. The soph is Rick Howat, a sharpshooting six-footer. He's the Trojans' second leading scorer in West Suburban play with 39 points, but he has a bum ankle that may slow him down Friday.

If Howat doesn't open at guard, senior Barry Minehart (5-8) will get the call. Bob Perkins (5-7), who quarterbacked the football team, is the other guard.

Over in Arlington's camp Wissen plans no changes in the alignment he utilized at Kankakee. Bob Conner, Chuck Lloyd and Dave Lockwood will operate in the front-line with Steve Allen and Mike Frase at guards.

LLOYD WAS Arlington's top scorer at Kankakee with 46 points in three games, and Conner earned all-tourney honors. "The play of the big boys was a definite bright spot in the tourney," Wissen said.

Lloyd paced the tourney field both in shooting percentage from the field and free throw line. He fashioned a snappy .612 mark from the floor and .727 standard at the line. Conner was second in field goal percentage with a .607 mark.

Lloyd earned a second team selection on the all-tourney squad, and Allen was named to the third unit. Steve continues to impress although only a sophomore.

Larry Also Claimed First

Jim Johannesen of Arlington High School was credited with some points his brother Larry actually earned in the story last week of the Cardinals' varsity gymnastics meet with Prospect.

Jim, a junior, was reported to have won both the high bar and rings. He did win the high bar, but brother Larry, a senior, won the still rings in one of his top performances of the season.

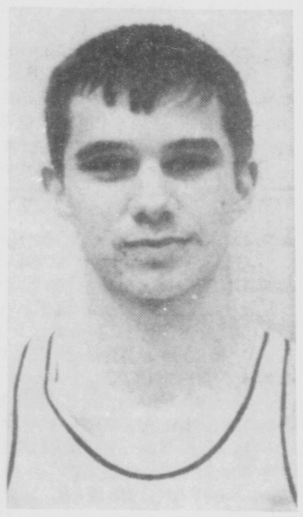
Grandt Sets Single Game Record; Lions Rock Foreman, 73-53

by BOB FRISK

Before he gets through this season, Chuck Grandt just may rewrite the entire record book in basketball at St. Viator High School.

The varsity record book — or most of it anyway — currently belongs to Jim Murray, a sharpshooting guard who played under head coach Ron Feiereisel.

You name the record and Murray probably has it at the Arlington Heights school. But Jim will probably lose some of those marks this season if Grandt stays healthy through the remainder of the schedule.



CHUCK GRANDT

Murray lost one to Grandt Saturday evening — the single game scoring record.

CHUCK POURED through 29 points on nine baskets and 11 free throws as St. Viator laced Foreman of Chicago in a non-conference game, 73 - 53. Grandt's impressive effort wiped from the books the 27-point night Murray enjoyed last winter against St. Ignatius.

Twenty-five points in a single game has been eclipsed six times at St. Viator. Murray did it four times and Grandt the other two. Chuck's previous high was 26 against St. Mel last year.

With Grandt leading the way coach Larry Nomellini's Lions snapped a two-game loss skein and posted their seventh victory in ten games for the 1964-65 campaign.

IT WAS EASY once the Lions got untracked, but Foreman proved to be a stubborn adversary through the entire first half and for a good part of the third quarter. St. Viator started to pull away midway in the third segment, outscoring the visitors 13-5 at one stretch.

Everyone got into the act for the locals, but Mike Hogan and Paul Dumke actually were the pace-setters in this third period surge.

With St. Viator nursing a precarious 37-31 lead at the 6:19 mark Hogan hit for two. Mike replied with another point from the line and it was 40-31. Two more free throws by Hogan offset a Foreman basket.

JOHN ERFORT tallied for the Lions, and that's when Dumke went to work. Paul hit two straight layups and banged in a tip off a missed Grandt free throw. St. Viator was on top 50-36 and coasting home.

Nomellini's crew carried a 59-43 lead into the final eight minutes and put the game out of reach early thanks to seven straight points by Grandt.

Foreman, sparked by high-scoring forward Joe Jesensky, gave the Lions fits early. They were on top 15-13 after one period and remained within striking distance throughout the first half.

ST. VIATOR gained a lead (16-15) it didn't relinquish when Hogan dropped in a free throw with 6:55 remaining before the intermission.

Jesensky, a highly regarded performer in Public League circles, continued to hit for Foreman in the third period, but he found himself on the bench with five fouls with one minute remaining in the quarter. The Lions had a comfortable 57-41 lead at the time.

GRANDT'S 27 topped both teams, and Chuck picked up only two personal fouls in four periods. The senior ace has been having foul troubles this season, but he didn't have any problems Saturday while enjoying his biggest night. Dumke added 13, Hogan 12, and Paul Pomplun 11.

Jesensky posted 21 for Foreman with nine baskets and three free throws.

Lions' Sophs Split

Powerful York of the West Suburban Conference rocked St. Viator's sophomore basketball team last week, 53-29, in the Glenbrook North holiday tournament.

The Barons started slowly but picked up steam in the second quarter and coasted to a one-sided victory.

Chuck Grandt was the only St. Viator player named to the all-star team in the Chicagoland Prep League Invitational basketball tournament.

Grandt was one of ten boys honored in the tourney won by De LaSalle of Chicago.

Others named were the tourney's most valuable player Jim Derrig of St. Francis, Paul Nitz of Marian Central, Tom Miller of St. Joseph, Jay Popp of Immaculate Conception, Paul Newport of Marian Catholic, Tom Hunter and Dave Gilmore of De LaSalle, and Bill McManaman and Dan Pierce of St. Patrick.

Crown 4 Champs In Grade School Cage Tournament

The Sixth Annual Arlington Heights Park District Holiday Basketball Tournament, held at Miner Jr. High School, had 39 entries competing for four division championships.

The eighth grade division was dominated by the South Jr High School teams with the Ra Ra's posting three straight wins on their way to the championship.

The Ra Ra's first triumph was a 42 - 16 win over the Buccaneers. They stopped the Red Hots 33 - 27. In the final contest the Ra Ra's played-off against their schoolmates, the South Tigers, and handed the Tigers a sound beating, 42 - 21.

The Cheap Imitations were crowned the seventh grade victros as they handled three foes. Those to fall were the Basketteers, 55 - 6; the Rejects, 20 - 10, and finally last year's sixth grade champs, 29 - 24.

The Miner Blue Devils had to scramble through a couple of close contests en route to the sixth grade championship. The Wayside Giants proved to be a tough opponent as the Blue Devils edged them out, 15 - 12. Next Miner breezed to a 42 - 2 rout over the South Jets. In the final game the Blue Devils had to hold off a late surge by the South Thunderbolts to become the Champs, 25 - 24.

In the fifth grade division teams found it hard to score against the Wayside Bombers. The Bombers blanked the Eagles 34 - 0 then held the Wolverines scoreless 17 - 0. In the final the Wilson Colt 45's bowed to the new kings of the court, 22 - 7.

Tourney scoring leaders were Emerich of Wayside Bombers in the Fifth Grade Division (15 points), Lundstedt of the Miner Blue Devils in the Sixth Grade (41 points), Foreman of Wayside Tel-Stars in the Seventh Grade (43), and Schmelzer of the South Ra-Ra's in the Eighth Grade (37).

Conner on Star Squad

Bob Connor, Arlington's 6-foot-5 forward, was named to the all-tourney team in the Kankakee Christmas basketball meet. Others on the first team were Bill Truy (6-3) of Ottawa, Jim LeMaster (6-2) of Peoria Central, Tom Taulbee (6-5) of Normal High, and Lee Hahs (6-1) of Kankakee.

Arlington's Chuck Lloyd (6-7) was named to the second team at center and sophomore Steve Allen (6-2) was a third team choice at guard.

Of Kankakee Tourney

Peoria Central Tips Card Five for Title

Jim LeMaster has been a regular at Peoria Central for three years. He started as a sophomore on the Lions' state tournament entry in 1963. He knows what pressure is in a basketball game.

LeMaster, a 6-foot-3 forward, was at his best under pressure last week (Wednesday) in a championship game of the Kankakee Holiday Basketball Tournament. Jim tossed in eight straight free throws in the final period as the Lions pulled out a 51-43 victory over Arlington High School.

LeMaster finished with 23 points for the night as Peoria swept to its seventh straight victory of the 1964-65 season and snapped Arlington's four-game winning streak.

CENTRAL'S ONLY loss was a 59-47 decision to state champion Pekin in the season opener.

LeMaster's clutch work at the free throw line was the difference in this tight battle to the wire in the Kankakee tourney. Arlington didn't yield without an argument.

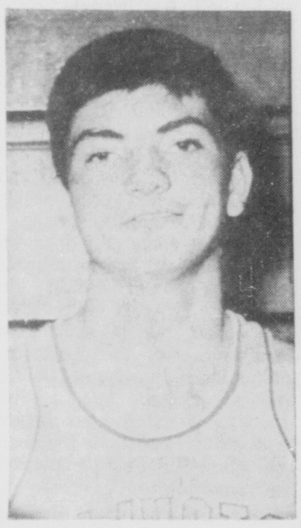
Arlington had tied the game at 38-38 early in the fourth period when junior reserve Mike Nelson banged in a 15-foot jump shot to move the Lions into a lead they never relinquished.

AFTER NELSON'S score LeMaster hit four of his free throws and Peoria held a 44-38 lead. The Lions slowed the game down and Arlington committed several fouls in attempting to steal the ball.

Central bagged nine of 10 free throws in the final six minutes. The Lions' only field goal during that time came when Nelson hit a jumper at 2:15.

The two clubs traded points in the first half with LeMaster and Arlington's Chuck Lloyd the offensive leaders through the opening eight minutes. LeMaster flipped in three baskets and a free throw and Lloyd had three fielders.

BOB CONNER TOOK over for the Cards in the second period with seven points, and the two clubs went into the dressing room with a 25-25 deadlock.



CHUCK LLOYD
High Scorer

Arlington moved in front 34-29 with 4:02 remaining in the third quarter, but Peoria recovered and took a 38-36 lead into the concluding segment. During that spree, when Central outscored the Cards 9-2, Peoria guard Stan Swedell hit two baskets, LeMaster two, and Nelson got a basket and free throw.

LeMaster went to the free throw line eight times in the final period and hit on eight as Peoria wrapped up the tourney championship.

PEORIA TOOK 59 shots from the floor and hit on 20. Arlington bagged 18 shots in 36 attempts. At the line Central was 11-for-14 and Arlington 7-for-11.

LeMaster's 23 topped both clubs. Lloyd, who was the Cardinals' leading scorer with 46 markers in three games, connected for 14 against Central. Conner had 13.

A hunter who salves his conscience by also terming himself an outdoorsman should be able to return to his traditional deer camp after the season has closed and feel little or no craving for the weight of a weapon in his hands.

He should be able to smile at the fact that he walks through day-old snow along a highway of deer tracks leading past the cabin door, and wonder only a bit whether the deer are smiling also.

THIS WAS THE SITUATION over the weekend as two of the dozen or so of us who have been journeying to Michigan's upper peninsula for the past seven years made a return trip. We were lucky to have the comparatively light snow accumulation with a recent enough topping that the age of tracks could be determined.

The hunting area, near Iron Mountain, is a combination of second growth timber, cedar swamp and cultivated fields offering potatoes and rye for the deer to browse on.

During hunting season, potatoes are the favorite—and one of the most pleasant and humorous sounds of any day in the field has been the crisp, crunching sound of a deer chewing a fresh-rooted potato in the middle of a field.

The deer were still fond of potatoes as recently as last week, because most tracks led to areas where culls had been dumped after picking.

EDWIN (PADDY) ANDERSON, potato farmer, insurance salesman, owner of the comfortable hunting cabin and hunter in his own right, related the successes of last year's hunting to the two of us who had missed the season.

A group of archers uses the cabin during bow season, then rifle hunters take over for their turn. Members of both groups had gotten deer, and others had gotten the pleasure of seeing them.

That is, all except one hunter who sat, with his rifle ready, on a small game trail for a full week without seeing a thing. Paddy explained that this same hunter had gotten a buck two years in a row on that spot the first day out.

"He should have known," Paddy said philosophically. "He already killed that deer twice."

THE HUNTING REPORT was not the only benefit to be derived from a mid-winter trip. The three-room cabin was as comfortable as ever. An oil heater had replaced the old pot-bellied wood burner, destroying a bit of the atmosphere but producing a lot more heat during the cold night.

We still cooked on a wood-burner, though, and more heat came from that than from the oil heater.

An old Victrola, spring-wound and scratchy, again belted out strains of "Come Wet Your Mustache With Me" while a sparse listening audience did just that.

SUNDAY MORNING, as we were walking out from the cabin to County Highway M-69, we again saw tracks neatly laid over ours by a deer coughing blood from its lungs with every step.

There was no apparent faltering in the tracks, and probably nobody will know in that wild an area what happened to the deer. But a good guess is that some hunter feels bad about wounding an animal which would just not lie down and die.

The weekend added nothing to anybody's game bag, and ended on a less-than-happy note, but for two hunters who had been away too long, the cabin door was as welcome a sight as any buck cooling on a pole.

Prospect's Gym Teams Win 6th

The Knights' varsity and frosh-soph gym squads each scored their sixth straight triumphs by identical 86-46 tallies.

The winning varsity, coached by Rick Farris, used sweeps in the trampoline, side horse and tumbling events to build its one-sided total.

On the trampoline, Rick Carr, first, Mike Zadel, second, and Greg Dombrow, third, took honors for the winners while the top three places on the side horse went to Paul Zander, Pat Kivland and Mike Duda. Carr's total of 167 points was the highest in the meet for either team.

The tumbling routines of Rick Burger, Bob Goffinski and Mike Coughlin were one, two, three on the mats for the Knights.

Other firsts for Prospect's varsity were captured by John Hardt on the horizontal bar and Kivland on the parallel bars.

In taking their meet the frosh-sophs, directed by Fred Gaines, grabbed five firsts in the six events. The individual winners were: Jim Sestrahann, trampoline; Ken Barr, side horse; Bruce Boult, horizontal bar; Jeff Long, parallel bar; and Vince Franzone, rings.

The two Prospect gymnastics teams will travel to Glenbrook North for their next meet this Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

Tight Matches Feature Play In Classic

The balance that showed up in the first half of the season when three teams had a chance to tie for the title going into the final week—and two, in fact, did finish in a deadlock—was again in evidence as the Paddock Classic Traveling League began second half play last Saturday evening.

All four matches resulted in 2-1 game splits and no winning team had a total pin margin of more than 45 pins.

Jeffery Lanes and Pioneer Lanes emerged as the first week leaders with 5-2 victories. Casares Pro Bowl and Country Lanes are a point off the pace after registering 4-3 decisions.

JEFFERY, bowling at home, opened with a pair of tight victories over the Brass Rail Restaurant, tipping the Railers by eleven and 24 pins. The Brass Rail turned the tables with a 13 point victory in game three, leaving Jeffery a slender 22 pin edge in total count. Paul Zubak of the Brass Rail was the only 600 bowler in the match, topping the figure by four pins.

The Pioneers used the same formula at Gunnell Lanes, wins in the first two games and a bonus point for total pins in their victory over the Concourse Sports Chalet. George Schmidt topped the winners with a 597, but match honors went to Sport sub, Bob Gill, who put together a 224-196-233—653.

The Pro Bowlers got a big night from Don Oberg to nip the Pontiacs at Beverly Lanes. Casares won the first game by one pin, the third by 15, but settled for a 4-3 victory when the Pontiacs gained a 28 pin decision in the second game. Oberg strung a 210-198-234—642. John Miller had a 603 for the Pontiacs.

Country Lanes shrugged off a first game loss to win the next two against Bill Cook Buick. Joe Simonis fired a league topping 656 and Wayne Hahn carded a 606 for the winners while Al Jordan and Lobby Lobinsky had 646 and 631 respectively for Bill Cook. The Buicks 2992 total pin count was their highest of the season.

Prospect Cops Title At Joliet; Handles Wheaton Five, 55-52

by MICHAEL HESS

There's more than one way to skin a cat. But, for Prospect, finding ways to skin a tiger was a most difficult task.

The Knights finally did find the ways, however, and skinned the Wheaton Tigers 55-52 last week (Wednesday) to capture the championship trophy at Joliet's Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Those "ways" to the Prospect victory included a rugged defense, a come-from-behind offense, key substitutions, a full court press, a stall, fouls, the clock, referees' decisions, injuries and an unexplainable withdrawal.

The Knights had to be quick in discovering those "ways" because Wheaton had them in a hole from the start.

AS THE GAME opened, Tigers Rick Bailey and Greg Peters led a Wheaton charge which quickly put Prospect on the short end of a 14-10 score. By the close of the first quarter the margin was 20-10 and two minutes into the second period the score was Wheaton 24 - Prospect 10. Bailey and Peters each had nine points and the Knights had gone nearly five minutes without scoring.

Then, for some still unknown reason, Bailey was withdrawn from the game. Almost immediately Prospect coach Warren Collier put in subs Tom Lundstedt and Jim LaRocco. At the same time coach Collier sent his Knights into a full court press and the gap began to close as Lundstedt, LaRocco and guard Bill Phillips sparked the comeback.

With LaRocco and Phillips stealing the ball, Lundstedt doing some key rebounding and all three tossing in the needed points, Prospect was soon down by only two at 26-24.

THOUGH BAILEY returned to action and put in a pair of buckets, the Knights were down by just one, 29-28, with less than 20 seconds left to the intermission. Then Peters grabbed the ball and started toward the basket. As the seconds slipped away he flipped the ball through the nets. However the refs ruled that time had run out and the two-pointed didn't count. Those two points would have made a big difference later on.

The third period opened with Bailey and Peters again combining to pull Wheaton into a substantial lead by hitting on six of their first seven shots. The Tigers were up by seven when the quarter was half over.

At that time Peters and 6-7 Scott Early picked up their fourth fouls. Early was removed and Peters was forced to play cautiously. Also, one ref ruled that a foul shot had not been tapped in by Bailey on the rebound but had gone in without help and counted one point and not two. When the last quarter started Prospect had again drawn up a bit at 46-41.

ONE MINUTE later baskets by Steve Kerr and LaRocco made the score 46-45. Five seconds later sub Wayne Kuklinski and Peters collided and Peters went down. He limped off the floor and into the dressing room.

The two teams traded single foul shots. Then Peters returned, his left leg taped to the thigh. The injured Tiger stayed for only one minute more, then collapsed in pain and left for good having scored 17 points. Then Early fouled out.

With only three minutes left in the game the Tigers were still ahead 48-46. At that point Lundstedt was fouled and stepped to the line, pumped in two and knotted the score at 48-all. The tie remained when LaRocco fouled Bailey as the Wheaton big man missed two straight.

PROSPECT'S Phillips then drove through the Wheaton defenders, pushed in a lay-up and put his team into a 50-48 lead. Phillips has been fouled as he shot and he also popped in the free throw with 2:40 remaining and the Knights were on top by three.

Prospect went into a stall, sank four more foul shots, two apiece by LaRocco and Phillips, and, though Bailey sank their last two points, the Tigers had been skinned 55-52.

Phillips ended as high scorer for the Knights with 13 points. He had been the Prospect leader throughout the tournament and was rewarded by being unanimously selected to the all-tourney team. Teammate Steve Johnson was also chosen for the honor team mainly for his slick defensive work.

Wheaton's Bailey, also an all-tournament pick, finished as the high point man in that final game with 21 and as high man in the tournament with 67.

Prospect Skaters Score 16 Points

The Mount Prospect Speed Skating team encountered rough ice conditions at the Illinois State Outdoor meet held at Gen Ellyn last Sunday.

Jim Zuckermandel, the club's top performer, well on his way to wrapping up the Intermediate Boys class championship, nosed over just short of the finish line after skating an excellent race in his one mile event. This mishap left him well-soaked and in second place.

Contributing to the total of 16 points for the team were Zuckermandel, who placed first in the 880, fourth in the 220 and fourth in the one mile; Mary Carol Cunningham with a fourth in the Juvenile Girls 440; Gary Jonland with a third in the Juvenile Boys 880; Billy Grady with a third in the Midget Boys 440; Tod Jonland with a third in the Pony Boys 220; and Loretta Griffin with a fourth in the Pony Girls 220.

Novice division Pony Boy Patrick Schneider advanced to the championship class with victories in his 1/6 mile events.

With necessary cooperation from the weather anticipated, the Prospect speedsters plan to travel to Humboldt Park in Chicago next Saturday and Sunday to participate in the Pierce Western Open and the Northwest Open.

These are the last two outdoor meets in which skaters can qualify for invitations to the National Outdoor events to be held in St. Paul, Minn., on January 23 and 24.

Benny Mazzone of Meadows Pizza Plaza bowled nine straight strikes and finished with a 250 game in the Rolling Meadows Men's Handicap division.

KNITTERS

The holidays are over—living gets back to a more normal tempo and knitters start thinking towards themselves.
Yes, we have the time now to make that ski sweater, or a new spring suit or coat or sweater to complete an outfit. We've just received some skirt lengths of flannel that match our Morshire and some colors of mohair. The price is just $4.95. These are not kits — just the lengths matching the yarns—giving you a much freer rein—you can get as much yarn as you wish rather than what is packaged. We're hoping to get more & more variety of this type.

Let's look at the RECORD(S)

BY LINDA NORRIS

Randy Sparks is a name that is synonymous with popular folk music . . . As a composer-arranger-director and enterpreneur for talented young folk artists, he is perhaps best known for creating The New Christy Minstrels and the popularity of a new trend in folk music—the exuberant sound of large vocal-instrumental combinations . . . So successful have his group projects been in the past few years, many people have forgotten that as a solo performer in his own right, Randy is one of the most exciting vocal talents in the country.

The release of his debut Columbia single, Julie Knows, backed by At the End of the Rainbow, showcases the lyrical ballad style of a very special performer . . . He does a neat job on his debut disc . . . The same exciting and lyrical voice that rendered highly praised solos on such New Christy Ministrels' hit recordings as Today, now emerges as a bright new star on Columbia Records.

The boy came up the hard way . . . From a part time singing job at the Purple Onion in Frisco, while attending the University of California, his solo history includes credits such as night club performances, miscellaneous TV appearances from the Bob Hope and Jack Paar shows to the Red Skelton and Ed Sullivan programs; the performance of the title songs of prominent television shows and motion pictures plus a brief jaunt into the acting field. Recently, he lent his abilities to establishing one of Southern California's most successful folk clubs — Ledbetter's in Westwood, known particularly as a showcase for new talent. He has devoted a good deal of time to graduates of that institution including the Back Porch Majority, new Epic label smash.
